Tornado Cuts Erratic Path Through Area Of 20 Blocks Killing Alabama Woman

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A tornado cut an erratic path through a 20-block area Saturday night causing much property damage. One fatality was reported and at least 100 persons were injured, none seriously.

The U.S. Weather Bureau warned the area to be alert for possibly more twisters before the night was over. North Alabama was under a severe weather warning until 4 a.m.

Officials at a local hospital identified the fatality as Mrs. Nora Peeler. It was not immediately learned how she was killed.

Most of the injured were victims of flying glass and debris and were not admitted for treatment. A hospital was forced to close its registration books because of the influx of victims, but a spokesman said at least four persons were seriously enough hurt to be hospitalized.

The twister struck shortly before dark slashing an area six-blocks-wide during its devastating trek through the suburban area.

Police said the tornado picked up a car occupied by a man, his wife and daughter and hurled it across a street where it landed upside down. Officers said the parents appeared to be uninjured but in shock. The little girl was rushed to a hospital bleeding profusely from head wounds, officers said.

Authorities said damage to the stricken area would run in the thousands of dollars. Property was leveled throughout the area and rescue squads poked through the rubble looking for victims long after midnight.

Thunderstorms and the threat of twisters moved in advance of a sprawling low pressure system moving eastward across the southern plains.

The system of wet weather creeping eastward across Oklahoma caused the threat of tornadoes in five southern states Saturday. Late-spring snows fell as far north as Ohio.

Tornado watches were in effect until Saturday evening for portions of southeastern Oklahoma, northeastern Texas, south and central Arkansas, northern Louisiana and northwestern Mississippi.

B52s Slam On Bunkers Near Laos

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers dropped tons of explosives Sunday on North Vietnamese bunkers and troop positions in the northwest corner of South Vietnam where U.S. Marines fought a bloody, 12-day battle to wrest three hills from the Communists.

The raid before dawn by the eight-engine Stratofortresses was the fourth in two days northwest of Khe Sanh close to the Laos border. It was in the same area Friday that Marines seized Hill 881 North to end the firece battle for high ground overlooking Khe Sanh.

Elsewhere, the U.S. Command reported little new ground action in South Vietnam. Air raids over North Vietnam were limited by poor weather Saturday to the southern panhandle.

POST SHELLED

Just below the demilitarized zone, the Communists shelled a command post of the U.S. 4th Marine Regiment six miles west-southwest of the forward allied post at Gio Linh.

U.S. headquarters said the Comunists unloaded 35 rounds of mortar and recoilless rifle fire on the comand post, wounding 17 Marines.

In the raids over the north, Air Force pilots from Thailand bases struck at truck convoys, a ferry complex, and antiaircraft sites in the southern end of the country.

They also hit at a truck and storage area near the Mu Gia Pass infiltration route and fliers reported touching off four fires.

Navy pilots from the aircraft carrier Bon Homme Richard in the Gulf of Tonkin reported destroying or damaging 22 cargo barges in raids along North Vietnam's coastline and inland waterways. Fliers from other carriers attacked a rail bridge, supply areas, a truck park and a causeway around Vinh and Thanh Hoa.

Roving Communist bands Saturday launched several mortar attacks and hit-and-run raids. A government spokesman said casualties included 121 civilians killed or wounded.

The flurry of guerrilla operations in South Vietnam followed up American air strikes Friday at key targets on Hanoi's outskirts, including the first raid of the war on the Ha Dong army barracks, four miles southwest of the Communist capital.

A 92-shell mortar barrage killed one U.S. Marine and wounded six atop Hill 881 North, which the Leathernecks seized Friday in closing out a 12-day campaign that swept the regulars of North Vietnam's 325th Division from high ground overlooking Khe Sanh. Marine mortars and artillery lashed back at the distant enemy.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky warned that more heavy action could be expected in the northern part of the country.

HARD EYES of a young Marine old beyond his years reflect the grim warfare of the bitter fighting for Hill 881 he experienced earlier in the week as he stands Saturday at the base camp of Khe Sanh where the dead and wounded were brought back from the battle against the entrenched Communists. Ouachita School Tax Of Seven Mills Passes

By MILO DAKIN
World Staff Writer

Ouachita Parish property owners approved a seven-mill school maintenance tax Saturday, including the first millage increase for the parish system in 20 years. The popular vote was 1,254 in favor of the property tax and 817 against. The assessment, which determines the outcome of a millage election, was $3,150,047 for, and $1,986,440 against.

Although this was a margin of $1,163,607 for the tax, it represented the closest millage vote in recent history of the Ouachita Parish school system.

The increase was two mills over the five mills that has been in effect since 1947.

Returns Saturday night were complete but unofficial from all 30 parish precincts. The returns came from 28 boxes due to the combining of some precincts.

School officials, accustomed to much larger margins in maintenance tax elections, were pleased, however, Saturday. Efforts have been made through advertising, handbills and at least one major speech, to kill the school - support tax.

The major arguments have been pending integration of all parish schools this fall, and the recurring conflict over operation of dual school systems — parish and city — within the parish.

Plaquemines Parish segregationist Leander Perez openly called for defeat of any tax that supports integrated schools, in a speech to over 600 persons in Monroe Thursday night.

The effect of this and handbills urging a "no" vote, were reflected in several rural precincts.

There was the possibility Saturday night that the parish election might be contested. A man who identified himself as Keith Hootsell of 711 Bayou Shores in Ward 2, told the Morning World he intends to file suit next week seeking an injunction against the parish election.

Hootsell said he would base his legal argument on the constitutionality of the law requiring voter signature before balloting. "I don't want everyone in the parish to know how I voted," he said. "This is not constitutional."

Hootsell said he would "definitely" seek legal action against Saturday's election, but that he was not sure whether he would go through district court here or seek advice first from the U. S. Justice Department. "I have an attorney," he said.

Hootsell voted in Precinct 2 of Ward 2, which carried for the tax by an assessment margin of about $18,000. He said he was against the tax.

The only ward to completely vote against the tax was Ward 8 where both precincts were recorded in opposition. The assessment there for the tax was $45,778 with an assessment of $85,335 recorded against. The

Twisters Hit State, Southland

WORLD WIRE SERVICE

Tornadoes, heavy rains and high winds raked northwest Louisiana during a widespread weather alert Saturday night. One injury was reported.

The twisters dipped down at the Union Springs Community just south of Mansfield, causing minor injuries to a man in a house trailer, and at Bryceland in Bienville Parish.

Other twisters were reported near Minden and Springhill.

Trees were ripped down and electric power service knocked out temporarily at Minden. John A. Shaw said his barn was unroofed by a twister on his farm five miles west of Minden.

DeSoto Parish authorities said James A. Hatcher was only slightly hurt when the tornado hit.

High winds also blew trees down and uprooted others near Clay in Jackson Parish. A spokesman in the Bienville Parish sheriff's office said the tornado at Bryceland struck about 6 p.m. and took the roof off one home and damaged the roof of another. He said the tornadic winds also uprooted trees and caused some damage to powerlines.

The twisters came to earth on the heels of scattered heavy thundershowers in the area.

Around 8 p.m. Saturday a thunderstorm hit the Monroe area which dropped .38 inches of rain according to FAA at Selman Field.

The forecast today for the Monroe area is for partly cloudy skies today and Monday with cooler temperatures today. The high today is predicted to be between 74 and 78 with the lows tonight between 60 and 66. The probability of rain today is 20 per cent. Winds are forecast to be shifting to northerly 10 to 20 mph today, becoming easterly 8 to 18 mph on Monday.

Monroe Will Host LMA Meet In '68

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — The City of Monroe was chosen by delegates of the 30th annual convention of the Louisiana Municipal Association here Saturday as the site for the group's 1968 convention.

Meeting in a three day meet Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Roosevelt Hotel, the municipal officials discussed problems effecting municipalities in the state and around the nation.

Two councilman from the Northeast Louisiana area were amongst six chosen as outstanding councilman of the year.

The two were E. B. Forgotson, of Newellton and Jesse Stodghill, of Rayville.

Californian GOP Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gladys O'Donnell, 63, a California businesswoman and political veteran, was elected president of the National Federation of Republican Women on Saturday in a bitter fight that left the losing faction talking of bolting the organization.

Mrs. O'Donnell narrowly defeated Phyllis Schlafly, 42, of Alton, Ill., who immediately raised the possibility she would lead her followers into a new organization with a frankly conservative outlook.

LMA Gives Mayor Prize To De Ridder

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Robert C. Blankenship, De Ridder's 45-year-old mayor, was chosen Mayor of the Year Saturday as the Louisiana Municipal Association wound up its 30th annual convention here.

The LMA elected Baker Mayor N. E. Heins as president. He succeeds Mayor John W. Perritt of Ruston.

Blankenship, mayor of the southwest Louisiana town of 7,000, was cited for his leadership and municipal programming. De Ridder won a national "Cleanest City" title.

Blankenship, a native of Covington, Ga., who moved to Louisiana in 1941, divides his time between his mayoralty duties and his auto parts wholesale business in De Ridder.

Named councilmen of the year were Maurice E. (Moon) Landrieu of New Orleans, C. B. Fogotson of Newellton, John Melancon of St. Martinville, Jesse E. Stodghill Jr., of Rayville, Frank Langley of Sulphur and W. H. Lambdin of Alexandria.

The LMA executive board adopted a resolution urging legislative adoption of urban renewal.

Other new LMA officials include Mayor James Sherman of Columbia, Mayor Victor Schiro of New Orleans, Mayor Fred Wilcox, Harahan, Mayor Warren J. Harang Jr., Mayor Henry M. Fowler of Coushatta, Mayor Edwin G. Preis of Newellton, Mayor Charles Pasqua of Gonzales, Mayor Ernie P.Broussard of Estherwood, and Mayor George C. Hoyt of Lecompte, vice presidents.

Roger Sarrat of New Orleans was elected president of the Louisiana Municipal clerks association and James Bean of Lafayette was chosen president of the Louisiana City Attorneys Association.

The following were re-elected presidents — Jerome Miller of Bastrop, Louisiana Recreation and Parks Association; Tom McCool, New Orleans, Louisiana Civil Defense Directors Association; and Walter Kahn, New Orleans, Louisiana Association of Tax Administrators.

Reds Warn U.S. Against War Stepup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets have given the United States warnings that a stepup in U.S. attacks on North Vietnam may be met by increased Russian help for Hanoi.

The Kremlin's prime interest apparently lies in preventing the downfall of the North Vietnamese regime, its Communist ally. The Soviets seem less concerned about what is going on in South Vietnam.

Avowed U.S. policy in the air raids is not to destroy North Vietnam, but to raise the cost of the North's drive against South Vietnam by hitting militarily important facilities.

City Voters Approve School Tax About 2-1

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Monroe school officials surveyed some anxious early moments and a light turnout Saturday, but won a final victory of approximately 2-1 in passing a total 12-mill maintenance tax. Complete but unofficial returns at the City Hall late Saturday gave the vote's Proposition 1—and additional tax of five mills — an assessment majority of over $2.6 million. Proposition 2 on the ballot — renewal of the current seven-mill tax — was given an assessment victory of $1.8 million.

The popular vote victory on Proposition was just over 700 votes, on Proposition 2, just under 700 votes.

SCORE HEAVILY

Both propositions scored heavily in the city's Ward 10 precincts, while the margins of victory were substantially less in Ward 3 precincts. Reporting from the total of 20 city precincts balloting apparently was hampered by heavy rainfall which began as the polls closed at 8 p.m. and both issues were in doubt until 10:15 p.m., when Ward 10, Precinct 2 gave the propositions an approximately $500,000 cushion and pushed them over. Voting there was at Wossman Recreation Center.

Boxes were until 11 p.m. arriving at City Hall, with Ward 10, Precinct 1, voting at Lee Junior High School the last to report. Supt. Van D Odom called it "worth waiting for," however, as the precinct gave the two propositions a boost in assessment of nearly $750,000.

Tabulating in his office, Monroe Treasurer Mel Cook totalled these Ward 3 popular and assessment finals: 344 for, $638,842; 204 against, $533,688, both on Proposition 1. Proposition 2 received 321 votes, with assessment of $720,244 against 240 opposing votes, assessed at $550,718.

The Ward 10 totals on Proposition 1 added 974 votes in favor, assessed at $3,700,885.43 compared with 309 votes against evaluated at $1,342,748.65. Proposition 2 received 928 votes in favor, assessed at $3,326,693.10, compared with 343 votes against evaluated at $1,590,269.98.

Cook's grand totals gave Proposition 1 an aggregate of 1,218 votes, worth $4,539,727.43; with 513 votes against, worth $1,875,436.65. Proposition 1 received 1,269 popular votes, worth $4,046,937.10, with 536 votes against worth $2,140,987.98.

The vote will be promulgated at 9 a.m Monday at a combined City Hall meeting of the Monroe School Board and the Monroe City Council.

Odom, after watching a nip-and-tuck battle through most of the evening, breathed a sigh of relief around 10:30 p.m. and expressed thanks to Monroe property owning voters who boosted the propositions to success.

Odom and the board had called both measures vital to the continuation of city education "at its current quality."

Saturday's vote was called by the superintendent "the closest ever." He said past experience has seen the city board's issues passing by "as much as 24 - 1 and never less than 3 - 1."

The apparent irony of the new tax's better success than

Mrs. Garrett Is Killed In Auto Wreck

SHREVEPORT (Special) — A Monroe woman was killed and her daughter seriously injured in a two car crash Satruday evening about eight miles east of Bossier City on U. S. 80 at Red Point.

Mrs. Ray (Myrtle) Garrett, 55, 7309 Joseph St. was a passenger in a car drive by her daughter, Mrs. David Talley, 28, 2414 Lexington Ave., Monroe.

Officials said Mrs. Talley was in serious condition in Schumpert Hospital here with multiple fractures of her right shoulder, and leg injuries.

Mrs. Talley's three-year-old son, Steven Whipple, a passenger, was not injured in the crash.

According to investigating state troopers the accident occured when Mrs. Talley swerved from the right lane of the four lane divided thoroughfare in an attempt to avoid hitting a car which had slowed down to make a turn at a small side road intersection.

Officers said Mrs. Talley's vehicle apparently began to slide sideways down the rain slicked highway and was then hit broadside by an oncoming vehicle driven by Lloyd Benton Green, 17, of Haughton.

Troopers said Mrs. Garrett was killed when she was knocked out of the auto and it rolled over her.

An employe of the Palace Department Store in Monroe, Mrs. Garrett and her daughter were reportedly enroute to Texarkana to spend the weekend with relatives of Mrs. Talley's husband.

Mrs. Garrett's son, John B. Garrett, stationed with the armed forces in Thailand will reportedly be flown home by the American Red Cross.

Latin Newsmen Hit By Police

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Colombia's own security police — not American escorts — manhandled two Colombian newsmen covering Lynda Bird Johnson's arrival in Barranquilla on Wednesday, Gen. Luis Etilio Leyva, security chief, said Saturday. He said the police thought she was coming under attack.

The newsmen of the influential newspaper El Tiempo blamed the incident on men escorting President Johnson's daughter to Cartagena on an assignment for McCall's magazine. Miss Johnson even went so far as to apologize for the incident and she spoke of U.S. Secret Service agents, although the service in Washington denied its agents were involved.

A reporter and a photographer of El Tiempo claimed they were beaten and had their camera smashed as they moved in close to Miss Johnson's plane. They said one man pulled out a gun and threatened them.

Selective Service Faces Decision On Reservists

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Selective Service System faces a difficult decision on what to do about men turned over to draft boards in a forthcoming callup of civilian reservists delinquent on weekend drills.

The call, keyed to the draft and scheduled to get under way in July, is expected to put approximately 31,000 reservists on active duty for periods ranging from 15 to 21 months.

The active duty they already have had—in most cases about six months, since a big majority entered the reserve for that period—will be subtracted from the usual two years of involuntary service.

Reservists who have had nine months or more of active duty, however, will be discharged from the reserves if they are delinquent in drilling with units, and will be turned over to the Selective Service System. They will be subject to draft for a full two years.

Through an unusual twist, they thus will become liable for a longer period of military service because they already have had substantially more active duty than the average reservist.

A further complication is posed by the administration's plan to go to a 'random selection," or modified lottery, system in the draft beginning about July 1.

This is to be accompanied by a policy of drafting 19-year-olds first. The average age of draftees now is between 20 and 21.

Under the present wording of the plan, reservists could be caught in the lottery. It would be applied to 19-year-olds and those whose deferments have been cancelled.

Defense officials said the number of reservists turned over to draft boards will be comparatively small. It is hoped their cases will be examined individually by the boards. The callup is a punitive measure, designed to enforce equality of service and support the civilian reserves.

Californian GOP Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gladys O'Donnell, 63, a California businesswoman and political veteran, was elected president of the National Federation of Republican Women on Saturday in a bitter fight that left the losing faction talking of bolting the organization.

Mrs. O'Donnell narrowly defeated Phyllis Schlafly, 42, of Alton, Ill., who immediately raised the possibility she would lead her followers into a new organization with a frankly conservative outlook.

Tornado Cuts Erratic Path Through Area Of 20 Blocks Killing Alabama Woman

ROBERT BLANKENSHIP
. . . Mayor Of Year

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A tornado cut an erratic path through a 20-block area Saturday night causing much property damage. One fatality was reported and at least 100 persons were injured, none seriously.

The U.S. Weather Bureau warned the area to be alert for possibly more twisters before the night was over. North Alabama was under a severe weather warning until 4 a.m.

Officials at a local hospital identified the fatality as Mrs. Nora Peeler. It was not immediately learned how she was killed.

Most of the injured were victims of flying glass and debris and were not admitted for treatment. A hospital was forced to close its registration books because of the influx of victims, but a spokesman said at least four persons were seriously enough hurt to be hospitalized.

The twister struck shortly before dark slashing an area six-blocks-wide during its devastating trek through the suburban area.

Police said the tornado picked up a car occupied by a man, his wife and daughter and hurled it across a street where it landed upside down. Officers said the parents appeared to be uninjured but in shock. The little girl was rushed to a hospital bleeding profusely from head wounds, officers said.

Authorities said damage to the stricken area would run in the thousands of dollars. Property was leveled throughout the area and rescue squads poked through the rubble looking for victims long after midnight.

Thunderstorms and the threat of twisters moved in advance of a sprawling low pressure system moving eastward across the southern plains.

The system of wet weather creeping eastward across Oklahoma caused the threat of tornadoes in five southern states Saturday. Late-spring snows fell as far north as Ohio.

Tornado watches were in effect until Saturday evening for portions of southeastern Oklahoma, northeastern Texas, south and central Arkansas, northern Louisiana and northwestern Mississippi.

LMA Gives Mayor Prize To De Ridder

The LMA elected Baker Mayor N. E. Heine as president. He succeeds Mayor John W. Perritt of Ruston.

Blankenship, mayor of the southwest Louisiana town of 7,000, was cited for his leadership and municipal programming. De Ridder won a national "Cleanest City" title.

Blankenship, a native of Covington, Ga., who moved to Louisiana in 1941, divides his time between his mayoralty duties and his auto parts wholesale business in De Ridder.

Named councilmen of the year were Maurice E. (Moon) Landrieu of New Orleans, C. B. Fogotson of Newellton, John Melancon of St. Martinville, Jesse E. Stodghill Jr., of Rayville, Frank Langley of Sulphur and W. H. Lambdin of Alexandria.

The LMA executive board adopted a resolution urging legislative adoption of urban renewal.

Other new LMA officials include Mayor James Sherman of Columbia, Mayor Victor Schiro of New Orleans, Mayor Fred Wilcox, Harahan, Mayor Warren J. Harang Jr., Mayor Henry M. Fowler of Coushatta, Mayor Edwin G. Preis of Newellton, Mayor Charles Pasqua of Gonzales, Mayor Ernie P.Broussard of Estherwood, and Mayor George C. Hoyt of Lecompte, vice presidents.

Roger Sarrat of New Orleans was elected president of the Louisiana Municipal clerks association and James Bean of Lafayette was chosen president of the Louisiana City Attorneys Association.

The following were re-elected presidents — Jerome Miller of Bastrop, Louisiana Recreation and Parks Association; Tom McCool, New Orleans, Louisiana Civil Defense Directors Association; and Walter Kahn, New Orleans, Louisiana Association of Tax Administrators.

City Voters Approve School Tax About 2-1

World Staff Writer

Monroe school officials surveyed some anxious early moments and a light turnout Saturday, but won a final victory of approximately 2-1 in passing a total 12-mill maintenance tax. Complete but unofficial returns at the City Hall late Saturday gave the vote's Proposition 1—and additional tax of five mills — an assessment majority of over $2.6 million. Proposition 2 on the ballot — renewal of the current seven-mill tax — was given an assessment victory of $1.8 million.

The popular vote victory on Proposition was just over 700 votes, on Proposition 2, just under 700 votes.

SCORE HEAVILY

Both propositions scored heavily in the city's Ward 10 precincts, while the margins of victory were substantially less in Ward 3 precincts. Reporting from the total of 20 city precincts balloting apparently was hampered by heavy rainfall which began as the polls closed at 8 p.m. and both issues were in doubt until 10:15 p.m., when Ward 10, Precinct 2 gave the propositions an approximately $500,000 cushion and pushed them over. Voting there was at Wossman Recreation Center.

Boxes were until 11 p.m. arriving at City Hall, with Ward 10, Precinct 1, voting at Lee Junior High School the last to report. Supt. Van D Odom called it "worth waiting for," however, as the precinct gave the two propositions a boost in assessment of nearly $750,000.

Tabulating in his office, Monroe Treasurer Mel Cook totalled these Ward 3 popular and assessment finals: 344 for, $838,842; 204 against, $533,688, both on Proposition 1. Proposition 2 received 321 votes, with assessment of $720,244 against 240 opposing votes, assessed at $550,718.

The Ward 10 totals on Proposition 1 added 974 votes in favor, assessed at $3,700,885.43 compared with 309 votes against evaluated at $1,342,748.65. Proposition 2 received 928 votes in favor, assessed at $3,326,693.10, compared with 343 votes against evaluated at $1,599,269.98.

Cook's grand totals gave Proposition 1 an aggregate of 1,218 votes, worth $4,539,727.43; with 513 votes against, worth $1,876,436.65. Proposition 1 received 1,249 popular votes, worth $4,046,937.10, with 538 votes against worth $2,149,987.98.

The vote will be promulgated at 9 a.m Monday at a combined City Hall meeting of the Monroe School Board and the Monroe City Council.

Odom, after watching a nip-and-tuck battle through most of the evening, breathed a sigh of relief around 10:30 p.m. and expressed thanks to Monroe property owning voters who boosted the propositions to success.

Odom and the board had called both measures vital to the continuation of city education "at its current quality."

Saturday's vote was called by the superintendent "the closest ever." He said past experience has seen the city board's issues passing by "as much as 24 - 1 and never less than 3 - 1."

The apparent irony of the new tax's better success than

Reds Warn U.S. Against War Stepup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets have given the United States warnings that a stepup in U.S. attacks on North Vietnam may be met by increased Russian help for Hanoi.

The Kremlin's prime interest apparently lies in preventing the downfall of the North Vietnamese regime, its Communist ally. The Soviets seem less concerned about what is going on in South Vietnam.

Avowed U.S. policy in the air raids is not to destroy North Vietnam, but to raise the cost of the North's drive against South Vietnam by hitting militarily important facilities.

Latin Newsmen Hit By Police

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Colombia's own security police — not American escorts — manhandled two Colombian newsmen covering Lynda Bird Johnson's arrival in Barranquilla on Wednesday, Gen. Luis Etilio Leyva, security chief, said Saturday. He said the police thought she was coming under attack.

The newsmen of the influential newspaper El Tiempo blamed the incident on men escorting President Johnson's daughter to Cartagena on an assignment for McCall's magazine. Miss Johnson even went so far as to apologize for the incident and she spoke of U.S. Secret Service agents, although the service in Washington denied its agents were involved.

A reporter and a photographer of El Tiempo claimed they were beaten and had their camera smashed as they moved in close to Miss Johnson's plane. They said one man pulled out a gun and threatened them.

Selective Service Faces Decision On Reservists

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Selective Service System faces a difficult decision on what to do about men turned over to draft boards in a forthcoming callup of civilian reservists delinquent on weekend drills.

The call, keyed to the draft and scheduled to get under way in July, is expected to put approximately 31,000 reservists on active duty for periods ranging from 15 to 21 months.

The active duty they already have had—in most cases about six months, since a big majority entered the reserve for that period—will be subtracted from the usual two years of involuntary service.

Reservists who have had nine months or more of active duty, however, will be discharged from the reserves if they are delinquent in drilling with units, and will be turned over to the Selective Service System. They will be subject to draft for a full two years.

Through an unusual twist, they thus will become liable for a longer period of military service because they already have had substantially more active duty than the average reservist.

A further complication is posed by the administration's plan to go to a 'random selection," or modified lottery, system in the draft beginning about July 1.

This is to be accompanied by a policy of drafting 19-year-olds first. The average age of draftees now is between 20 and 21.

Under the present wording of the plan, reservists could be caught in the lottery. It would be applied to 19-year-olds and those whose deferments have been cancelled.

Defense officials said the number of reservists turned over to draft boards will be comparatively small. It is hoped their cases will be examined individually by the boards. The callup is a punitive measure, designed to enforce equality of service and support the civilian reserves.

The exhibition was held at the Ouachita Valley Fairgrounds in West Monroe to allow all district cub packs and boy scout troops to show the progress that they have made during the past year.

In the winning cub exhibit, supervised by Pack 30 Scout Master and Den Mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Fraudsen, the cubs baked cookies and pig -n- blankets in a booth on the fair grounds which they handed out to spectators.

Winning Boy Scout 32 put on an exhibition of archery skills and made arrows and bow strings for their audience. Sam Walker Jr. is scoutmaster of the troop.

Winners of the exhibition annual Pinewood Derby were cubs, Paul Whitlock of Pack 37, Monroe, first; Mike Killgore of Pack 59, Ruston, second; and Andy Calhoun, also of Pack 59, Ruston, third. Judges for the event were Frank Hurst and Earl Trichell.

Boy Scout troop winners were: blue ribbons — Troops 1, 2, 27, 34, 37, 67, 120, 129, 8 and Post 7; red ribbons — Troops 128 and 228; second place overall was won by troop 7 and Troop 11 won third.

Escalation To Influence Tax Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A firm decision by the administration on a tax increase this year is at least five weeks away but further escalation of the Vietnam war would increase the pressure for it.

Administration sources say mid-June is the earliest date for a proper assessment of the economy and even then the picture for the future could be cloudy. They contend there still are uncertainties in the air.

Government officials want enough evidence on paper — and not just projections — to convince Congress a tax increase will be needed if and when one is formally requested.

As yet the six per cent surtax on corporate and individual income taxes is only a proposal made by President Johnson in his State of the Union message last Jan. 10.

No legislation embodying that suggestion has been sent to Congress and won't be until a better picture of second half economic activity has emerged.

But government officials as of Saturday insist their best estimate still is the one presented in January — a sluggish first half and an upturn in the second half requiring a tax increase to help stem inflation, pay for the war and keep interest rates in line.

This estimate, however, is based on Vietnam war spending of $21.9 billion for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

A substantial increase in American troop strength — a possibility now being debated both in and out of official Washington — would increase this figure and add to the budget deficit, other things being equal.

Man Paid Fines; Was Not Jailed

The Monroe Morning World carried an erroneous statement in its Saturday edition on Page 8-B under a headline, "City Court Proceedings Noted Here."

The statement was in connection with the disposition of the case in West Monroe City Court involving Earl Hicks, 44, of 908 Hicks St., West Monroe. The article should have stated that Hicks paid fines of $800 on charges of aggravated battery and aggravated assault and that he was not jailed.

Monroe Couple Hurt In Wreck

A Monroe couple received minor injuries in a two - car collision Saturday afternoon on Walnut near Washington Street.

Investigating officers said Eldridge Pendleton, 45, of 900 S. 6th St., and his wife, Georgia, 44, complained of back and neck injuries.

Officers said the Pendleton vehicle was struck from the rear by an auto driven by William O. Reagan, 63, 4300 Petain St., Monroe.

Reagan told officers he was trying to prevent a child from falling off the front seat of his car when his foot slipped off the car braked and smashed the Pendleton vehicle.

Officers charged Reagan with negligent driving.

Ouachita School Tax Of Seven Mills Passes

popular vote in Ward 8 was 36 for and 62 against.

Ward 5 was high on both sides of the tax vote, recording an assessment of $1,819,439 for and $1,354,205 against. The popular vote was 689 to 475 in favor of the millage increase.

The existing five mill tax brings in about $425,000 annually to the school board, based on current assessments. The two - mill increase will mean an additional $170,000 annually, "the bare minimum" school officials maintain.

The seven mill assessment will become effective the beginning of the 1967 - 68 fiscal year in July and will be tax notices this fall.

City Voters Pass Tax About 2-1

the renewal was attributed by officials mainly to the fact of its appearig first on the ballot. "Perhaps the voters thought the renewal was Proposition 1," Odom speculated.

Both taxes are for a period of 10 years.

Election officials, commenting in the early doubt of the outcome, said the vote apparently was substantially influenced by the appearance in Monroe Thursday night of segsegregationist leader Leander Perez. Perez, speaking here, called for the defeat of taxes which would support desegregated schools. The Monroe system is under orders to totally desegregate in September.

Scout Exhibitions Results Announced

Cub Scout pack 30 of Our Lady of Fatima Catholic school in Monroe won first place in exhibits and Troop 32 won first place in the Boy Scout division exhibits at the annual Ouachita Valley Council Scout Exhibitions in West Monroe, Saturday.

The exhibition was held at the Ouachita Valley Fairgrounds in West Monroe to allow all district cub packs and boy scout troops to show the progress that they have made during the past year.

In the winning cub exhibit, supervised by Pack 30 Scout Master and Den Mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Fraudsen, the cubs baked cookies and pig -n- blankets in a booth on the fair grounds which they handed out to spectators.

Winning Boy Scout 32 put on an exhibition of archery skills and made arrows and bow strings for their audience. Sam Walker Jr. is scoutmaster of the troop.

Winners of the exhibition annual Pinewood Derby were cubs, Paul Whitlock of Pack 37, Monroe, first; Mike Killgore of Pack 59, Ruston, second; and Andy Calhoun, also of Pack 59, Ruston, third. Judges for the event were Frank Hurst and Earl Trichell.

Boy Scout troop winners were: blue ribbons — Troops 1, 2, 27, 34, 37, 67, 120, 129, 8 and Post 7; red ribbons — Troops 128 and 228; second place overall was won by troop 7 and Troop 11 won third.

Cub Pack winners were: second place overall, Pack 2; and blue ribbons went to Packs 7, 29, 37, 67, 88, 127, 133, 232, and 59.

Escalation To Influence Tax Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A firm decision by the administration on a tax increase this year is at least five weeks away but further escalation of the Vietnam war would increase the pressure for it.

Administration sources say mid-June is the earliest date for a proper assessment of the economy and even then the picture for the future could be cloudy. They contend there still are uncertainties in the air.

Government officials want enough evidence on paper — and not just projections — to convince Congress a tax increase will be needed if and when one is formally requested.

As yet the six per cent surtax on corporate and individual income taxes is only a proposal made by President Johnson in his State of the Union message last Jan. 10.

No legislation embodying that suggestion has been sent to Congress and won't be until a better picture of second half economic activity has emerged.

But government officials as of Saturday insist their best estimate still is the one presented in January — a sluggish first half and an upturn in the second half requiring a tax increase to help stem inflation, pay for the war and keep interest rates in line.

This estimate, however, is based on Vietnam war spending of $21.9 billion for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

A substantial increase in American troop strength — a possibility now being debated both in and out of official Washington — would increase this figure and add to the budget deficit, other things being equal.

Man Paid Fines; Was Not Jailed

The Monroe Morning World carried an erroneous statement in its Saturday edition on Page 8-B under a headline, "City Court Proceedings Noted Here."

The statement was in connection with the disposition of the case in West Monroe City Court involving Earl Hicks, 44, of 908 Hicks St., West Monroe. The article should have stated that Hicks paid fines of $800 on charges of aggravated battery and aggravated assault and that he was not jailed.

Monroe Couple Hurt In Wreck

A Monroe couple received minor injuries in a two - car collision Saturday afternoon on Walnut near Washington Street.

Investigating officers said Elridge Pendleton, 45, of 900 S. 6th St., and his wife, Georgia, 44, complained of back and neck injuries.

Officers said the Pendleton vehicle was struck from the rear by an auto driven by William O. Reagan, 63, 4300 Petain St., Monroe.

Reagan told officers he was trying to prevent a child from falling off the front seat of his car when his foot slipped off the car braked and smashed the Pendleton vehicle.

Officers charged Reagan with negligent driving.

Ouachita School Tax Of Seven Mills Passes

popular vote in Ward 8 was 36 for and 62 against.

Ward 5 was high on both sides of the tax vote, recording an assessment of $1,819,439 for and $1,354,205 against. The popular vote was 689 to 475 in favor of the millage increase.

The existing five mill tax brings in about $425,000 annually to the school board, based on current assessments. The two - mill increase will mean an additional $170,000 annually, "the bare minimum" school officials maintain.

The seven mill assessment will become effective the beginning of the 1967 - 68 fiscal year in July and will be tax notices this fall.

the renewal was attributed by officials mainly to the fact of its appearig first on the ballot. "Perhaps the voters thought the renewal was Proposition 1," Odom speculated.

Both taxes are for a period of 10 years.

Election officials, commenting in the early doubt of the outcome, said the vote apparently was substantially influenced by the appearance in Monroe Thursday night of segsegregationist leader Leander Perez. Perez, speaking here, called for the defeat of taxes which would support desegregated schools. The Monroe system is under orders to totally desegregate in September.

New Orleans Hotel Fire Evacuates 1,000 Guests

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fire in a ninth floor room of the 16-floor Monteleone Hotel in the French Quarter Saturday forced the evacuation of most of the 1,000 guests.

Sam Kennedy, hotel manager, said no injuries were reported. However, a few guests were overcome by smoke.

The main fire, which was brought under control in less than one hour, was confined to one room. But several adjacent rooms were charred by heat and damaged by smoke and water. Water dripped all the way down to the lobby. Black soot covered much of the furnishings in the fire area.

Kennedy estimated fire, smoke and water damage at a minimum of $50,000.

He said most of the guests made their way to the lobby down service stairs, and there was no panic.

Hundreds of guests, many still wearing nightclothes, packed the lobby.

Cause of the blaze was under investigation.

The general alarm fire brought about two dozen fire-fighting units into the Quarter, snarling traffic.

Room 970, where the blaze started, was gutted. Kennedy said guests in the room had checked out about 30 minutes before the fire was discovered.

James Saggus of Jackson, Miss., a guest, said the fire was in a room across the hall from his room. He said firemen pounding on his door warned him to get out.

Garrison Blasts CIA On Oswald

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison accused the Central Intelligence Agency on Saturday of giving the Warren Commission a "fake photograph" of Lee Harvey Oswald, the New Orleans born ex-Marine the commission said killed President John F. Kennedy.

Garrison's charge came after the CIA pointed Friday to Warren Commission testimony in which officials of the agency denied reports published in New Orleans that Oswald may have been acting as an undercover agent for the secret espionage organization.

Garrison is conducting a probe here of what he says was a plot conceived here to kill President Kennedy, assassinated in Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22, 1963.

"The testimony which CIA authorities gave the Warren Commission necessarily must be taken with a grain of salt," Garrison said.

The New Orleans States-Item reported Friday in a copyright story that Garrison will seek to show that Oswald was not a Communist but instead an agent aiding CIA-sponsored, anti-Castro Cubans here the summer before Kennedy was slain.

Garrison said Saturday he wanted to "reserve comment" on the States-Item story "for the time being" but he challenged the CIA to produce what he indicated was an important photo of Oswald which he said had been "suppressed for more than three years."

The flamboyant district attorney, who has obtained an indictment of one man on a charge of conspiring to murder Kennedy, said the CIA gave the Warren Commission a fake photo when asked for a picture of Oswald and a Cuban companion leaving the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City.

Garrison said the picture of Oswald and a burly Cuban was taken by a concealed camera operated by CIA agents.

"When the Warren Commission asked for photographs of Oswald and his companion, the CIA presented the picture of a balding, stocky middle-aged gentleman who obviously was neither Lee Oswald nor his companion," said the district attorney.

"During the Warren Commission testimony," he continued, "the director and deputy director of the CIA were very careful never to mention that they had produced the wrong picture."

The photograph, Garrison said, "is now immortalized in the Warren report as 'photograph of an unidentified man.'"

Exhibit No. 237 in Volume XVI of the commission report is a picture of a husky man in an open-collared white shirt. The index lists the pictures as "photograph of an unidentified man."

Garrison said Oswald and the Cuban with whom he was photographed in Mexico a few years before Kennedy's assassination were "seen frequently together in New Orleans and Dallas in November of 1963."

Pilot Project In International Affairs To Be Centered At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — The Louisiana Department of Education has approved the state's participation in a pilot program of teaching international affairs to elementary and high school students.

Dr. F. Jay Taylor, president of Louisiana Tech, has announced that Tech has been selected as the site for the state - wide pilot project which will begin in September and last throughout the 1967-1968 school year. The coordinator of the pilot project at Tech is to be Dr. Ellis Sandoz, director of the Center for Comparative International Studies and Associate Professor of Political Science and Philosophy.

Two schools have been selected to excute the pilot program in its first year. The are the A. E. Phillips Laboratory School on the Tech campus and Neville High School in Monroe.

"The program has as its purpose the development of teaching techniques and materials so that international affairs be made a significant emphasis area in public school instruction in our state," Dr. Taylor said. The Louisiana project is a phase of a regional program sponsored by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and several Federal agencies. It is under the general direction of Dr. W. R. Godson of the Texas Education Agency. Texas, Alabama, Tennessee, and North Carolina are conducting related projects as part of the regional experiment.

Dr. Joel Flecther, State Coordinator for International Education emphasized that the project would involve total school environment, but especially language and social studies instruction. In selecting Louisiana Tech as center for the program, Dr. Fletcher pointed out that "that University has an excellent laboratory school with grades from nursery through the eighth grade. Academic standards have always been very high there and the administration of that University is very much interested in international education."

Principals of both participating schools have expressed enthusiastic interest in their respective schools' part in the program. Mr. Jerry R. Lee, principal of Neville High School in Monroe stated "We're looking forward to a fine program in this area and we hope that this project will not only become outstanding at Neville, but that other schools soon will participate." Dr. Jason C. Owen, principal of the Phillips Laboratory School added that "the laboratory school looks forward to developing the pilot project in international studies as an emphasis area in the elementary grades. This study will provide additional opportunities for the children to develop world understandings."

On the elementary level, the program will develop methods of introducing pupils to our indebtedness to other cultures. For instance, even an arithmetic lesson might be a vehicle for awakening international interest: the teacher could point out the origin of our 10 - based number system and the fact that the Mayans used a system based on 20, the Egyptians on 12.

On the secondary level, Neville High School will offer a course entitled "Survey of World Affairs," open to interested Juniors and seniors. The one-credit course will contain areas of study relative to American foreign policy aspects of European and Soviet Union governmental, economic, and social developments; studies involving Latin America and the Far East, emphasizing such recent developments as the Alliance for Progress and the Chinese cultural revolution; and problems of Africa and the Middle East.

The need for studies in international affairs below the college level was pointed out by Dr. Taylor. "America's international commitments in the mid - twentieth century are of such magnitude that greater literacy with respect to world affairs is an educational task of highest priority at all levels of instruction," he said. "Earlier and more effective training in languages and international affairs are aspects of public school education which have been relatively neglected in Louisiana and in the nation generally. I am delighted that Tech is to be afforded the opportunity to contribute to the remedy of these deficiencies."

Several other states including New York, Pennsylvania, and Michigan currently have programs in world affairs in their public school system. "It is important for Louisiana to find suitable educational vehicles to teach this subject effectively at all levels of instruction," said Dr. Sandoz. 'A responsible citizen must be prepared to intelligently access world affairs. The building of such responsible citizens of the future is one of the principal tasks confronting a state educational system. We hope that this pilot project will prove to be the initial step in developing a state - wide program of instruction in international affairs for Louisiana students in the public schools."

Job Program Is Announced

ALEXANDRIA (Special) —A $215,000 work program to create jobs for 80 unemployed persons and to beautify public facilities were entered into by CENLA Communist Action Committee and the Kisatchie National Park. The committee is the anti-poverty agency in Rapides Parish.

In signing the contract at the Alexandria Forestry center, CENLA Director O. A. Bankston Jr., and Kisatchie Forest Supervisor Hans R. Raum explained that the project is aimed at improving recreation areas and beautifying highways in Rapides, Grant, Natchitoches and Vernon parishes.

Funds for the project were provided by the U. S. Department of Labor under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. Bankston said men working on the project will receive on the job training in construction techniques.

Speedy Long Statements Are Attacked

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — State Rep. Larry Parker of Alexandria charged Saturday that U. S. Rep. Speedy O. Long is giving a, "phoney impression" to the public in his news releases.

Parker was an unsuccessful candidate for Long's house seat in the 1966 Congressional primary in the Eighth District.

"To my knowledge Congressman Long has never made a formal speech in the House of Representatives," Parker said.

"As far as I know the only time he has ever uttered any words on the floor when the house was in session was when Seventh District Rep. T. A. Thompson of Ville Platte was killed in a traffic accident last year and all the Louisiana delegation said a few words about the loss," Parker said.

Parker charged that news releases from Long's office imply that the Congressman's statements are from speeches made on the House floor.

The Rapides legislator said that because of what he termed, "cover procedure" the Congressional Record will show that Long has made speeches on the floor.

'Remarks that a Congressman would have made if he had had an opportunity to speak can be given to the house clerk for insertion into the Congressional Record," Parker explained.

Divorce Sees High Alimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Harry Guardino was the defendant Saturday in a divorce suit which seeks $2,700 monthly alimony.

The divorce action was filed by Ann Guardino, 34, who claims her husband, 41, earns about $100,000 per year. She seeks $2,200 monthly alimony and $500 monthly for their two children.

Pilot Project In International Affairs To Be Centered At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — The Louisiana Department of Education has approved the state's participation in a pilot program of teaching international affairs to elementary and high school students.

Dr. F. Jay Taylor, president of Louisiana Tech, has announced that Tech has been selected as the site for the state - wide pilot project which will begin in September and last throughout the 1967-1968 school year. The coordinator of the pilot project at Tech is to be Dr. Ellis Sandoz, director of the Center for Comparative International Studies and Associate Professor of Political Science and Philosophy.

Two schools have been selected to excute the pilot program in its first year. The are the A. E. Phillips Laboratory School on the Tech campus and Neville High School in Monroe.

"The program has as its purpose the development of teaching techniques and materials so that international affairs be made a significant emphasis area in public school instruction in our state," Dr. Taylor said. The Louisiana project is a phase of a regional program sponsored by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and several Federal agencies. It is under the general direction of Dr. W. R. Godson of the Texas Education Agency. Texas, Alabama, Tennessee, and North Carolina are conducting related projects as part of the regional experiment.

Dr. Joel Flecther, State Coordinator for International Education emphasized that the project would involve total school environment, but especially language and social studies instruction. In selecting Louisiana Tech as center for the program, Dr. Fletcher pointed out that "that University has an excellent laboratory school with grades from nursery through the eighth grade. Academic standards have always been very high there and the administration of that University is very much interested in international education."

Principals of both participating schools have expressed enthusiastic interest in their respective schools' part in the program. Mr. Jerry R. Lee, principal of Neville High School in Monroe stated "We're looking forward to a fine program in this area and we hope that this project will not only become outstanding at Neville, but that other schools soon will participate." Dr. Jason C. Owen, principal of the Phillips Laboratory School added that "the laboratory school looks forward to developing the pilot project in international studies as an emphasis area in the elementary grades. This study will provide additional opportunities for the children to develop world understandings."

On the elementary level, the program will develop methods of introducing pupils to our indebtedness to other cultures. For instance, even an arithmetic lesson might be a vehicle for awakening international interest: the teacher could point out the origin of our 10 - based number system and the fact that the Mayans used a system based on 20, the Egyptians on 12.

On the secondary level, Neville High School will offer a course entitled "Survey of World Affairs," open to interested Juniors and seniors. The one-credit course will contain areas of study relative to American foreign policy aspects of European and Soviet Union governmental, economic, and social developments; studies involving Latin America and the Far East, emphasizing such recent developments as the Alliance for Progress and the Chinese cultural revolution; and problems of Africa and the Middle East.

The need for studies in international affairs below the college level was pointed out by Dr. Taylor. "America's international commitments in the mid - twentieth century are of such magnitude that greater literacy with respect to world affairs is an educational task of highest priority at all levels of instruction," he said. "Earlier and more effective training in languages and international affairs are aspects of public school education which have been relatively neglected in Louisiana and in the nation generally. I am delighted that Tech is to be afforded the opportunity to contribute to the remedy of these deficiencies."

Several other states including New York, Pennsylvania, and Michigan currently have programs in world affairs in their public school system. "It is important for Louisiana to find suitable educational vehicles to teach this subject effectively at all levels of instruction," said Dr. Sandoz. 'A responsible citizen must be prepared to intelligently access world affairs. The building of such responsible citizens of the future is one of the principal tasks confronting a state educational system. We hope that this pilot project will prove to be the initial step in developing a state - wide program of instruction in international affairs for Louisiana students in the public schools."

Job Program Is Announced

ALEXANDRIA (Special) —A $215,000 work program to create jobs for 80 unemployed persons and to beautify public facilities were entered into by CENLA Communist Action Committee and the Kisatchie National Park. The committee is the anti-poverty agency in Rapides Parish.

In signing the contract at the Alexandria Forestry center, CENLA Director O. A. Bankston Jr., and Kisatchie Forest Supervisor Hans R. Raum explained that the project is aimed at improving recreation areas and beautifying highways in Rapides, Grant, Natchitoches and Vernon parishes.

Funds for the project were provided by the U. S. Department of Labor under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. Bankston said men working on the project will receive on the job training in construction techniques.

THOMAS SULLIVAN SMITH, left, and Catherine Louise McLeod, right, are valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of the Block High School 1967 Senior Class. Baccalaureate exercises for the 57 member class will be held at the First Baptist Church, Jonesville, on May 14, at 8 p.m. Graduation is scheduled for Thursday, May 18, at 8 p.m. in the Block gymnasium.

MOSCOW SPRING

MOSCOW (AP) — Babushkaed grandmothers walked children, and lovers strolled hand in hand Saturday in the riverfront park bordering the Kremlin as the temperature rose to 71 degrees, highest in Europe.

Speedy Long Statements Are Attacked

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — State Rep. Larry Parker of Alexandria charged Saturday that U. S. Rep. Speedy O. Long is giving a, "phoney impression" to the public in his news releases.

Parker was an unsuccessful candidate for Long's house seat in the 1966 Congressional primary in the Eighth District.

"To my knowledge Congressman Long has never made a formal speech in the House of Representatives," Parker said.

"As far as I know the only time he has ever uttered any words on the floor when the house was in session was when Seventh District Rep. T. A. Thompson of Ville Platte was killed in a traffic accident last year and all the Louisiana delegation said a few words about the loss," Parker said.

Parker charged that news releases from Long's office imply that the Congressman's statements are from speeches made on the House floor.

The Rapides legislator said that because of what he termed, "cover procedure" the Congressional Record will show that Long has made speeches on the floor.

'Remarks that a Congressman would have made if he had had an opportunity to speak can be given to the house clerk for insertion into the Congressional Record," Parker explained.

Divorce Sees High Alimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Harry Guardino was the defendant Saturday in a divorce suit which seeks $2,700 monthly alimony.

The divorce action was filed by Ann Guardino, 34, who claims her husband, 41, earns about $100,000 per year. She seeks $2,200 monthly alimony and $500 monthly for their two children.

Guide To Good Reading

Many New Books Now In Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week we have a number of new books of fiction to offer our readers. For the past year publishers have been very slow with deliveries and our patrons find it hard to understand why we do not have the new books as fast as we formerly did. It is not our fault, but we regret it very much. Some of the new books which arrived this past week had been on order since January. At any rate there are some very good ones ready this week. "Washington, D.C." by Gore Vidal is a powerful political novel covering the years between 1937 and 1955. "The Time is Noon" is the title of the first novel which Pearl Buck has written in years. It is partly autobiographical and will have a great appeal for a feminie audience, "Grandmere" by Vian Delmar is another novel written especially for women readers. The scene shifts from New York to Paris and has plenty of excitement. "The Market Square" is another of Miss Read's English novels, which will be eagerly read by her devoted public. "All the Millionaire's" by Alec Rackowe is a nostalgic novel of the twenties and one which those who remember the gay era before the depression will thoroughly enjoy. "One Man in the World" is a very fine political novel by James Barlow. The setting is in Angola and the time is today. This is a superior piece of work and well worth reading. Louis Auchincloss has given us a delightful collection of short stories about the world he knows so well called "Tales of Manhattan." Mr. Auchincloss has a devoted audience and they will eagerly read his latest offering. "Black Sheep" is another of Georgette Heyer's delightful entertainments of life in Regency England. "In Pious Memory" by Margery Sharp will also appeal to her established audience, although her books seem to get lighter and lighter in content. "The Buckstones" by Paul I Wellman is a colorful story of life in Tennessee during the early nineteenth century. Men and boys will especially enjoy it. "The Country Team" is the title of the latest novel by Robin Moore, author of "The Green Berets." He is sharply critical of our policy in Southeast Asia and this book is certain to be discussed. "The Labyrinth" by Thomas Duncan has been compared by the reviewers with "Raintree County." If you enjoyed the earlier book, read this one and see how you feel about it.

There are also many fine new books of non - fiction among this week's additions. "Marriage for Beginners" by Mary Williams is an extremely complete, informative guide to preparation for and maintenance of a happy and successful marriage. It is divided into three parts, "Your Love" Your Home and "Your Life". Every bride and groom should read this. "Keep Going and Like it" by Marjorie Hillis Roulston is an inspiring book written for women who have reached retirement age. "The Comprehensive High School" by James B. Conant is an excellent study of secondary education with recommendations for the future.

A very excellent series which has recently been added to the Library collection is the "New Illustrated Library of Science and Invention." These books are well - written and the illustrations are excellent. Some of the topics covered are: "A History of Land Transportation" by Henri Fabre, "A History of Electricity" by Edward Canby, "A History of Chemistry" by Charles Reichen and "A History of Physics" by the same author. Mr. Canby is also the author of "A History of Ships and Seafaring" and "A History of Flight". There is a "History of Medicine" by Jean Starobinski", "A History of the Machine" by Robert Soulard, A "History of Communication" by Mr. Fabre and "A History of Astronomy" by Mr. Reichen. Recently we have had several requests for books on making ship models and are happy to have a new title "American Ship Models" by V. R. Grimwood. For gardeners there are three new titles "Roses" by Eric Bois, "Woman's Own Book of Flower Arrangements and "Practical Bonsai for Beginners" by Kenji Murata. There are two new books of interest to those who enjoy cooking, "Italian Desserts and Antipasto" by Angela Catanzaro and "The Woman's Own Book of Cake Decorating and Cake Making". "Early Pennsylvania Arts and Crafts" by John J. Stoudt is a lovely and useful book. "Victorian Furniture" by Robert Symonds" will be very useful to homemakers who like that period. There is a new study of the work of Frank Lloyd Wright written by Norris Kelly Smith called "Frank Lloyd Wright a study in Architectural Content. "Folk Art of Mexico" by Gerd Dorner is an interesting and useful book. "Homespun and Blue" by Martha Stearns is a study of American Crewel Embroidery. "Spanish Glass" by Alice Forthingham is a lovely and beautiful book which will interest collectors. "Fountains of Rome" by Jean Likas is a beautiful book of photographs of this lovely city.

A fascinating book is one recently published by the American Heritage Magazine called "The Nineties! Glimpses of a lost but lively world". It is beautifully and profusely illustrated and gives a good picture of life at the end of the last century. A very useful addition to the reference collection is the 1967 edition of "Thomas Register of American Manufacturers". This gives up-to-date information about manufacturers and their products.

Orbiter Set On Course To Map Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A flying photographic laboratory to map moon features as small as 200-feet across continued its long journey on target Saturday.

Lunar Orbiter 4, launched last Thursday from Cape Kennedy,. Fla., will receive a signal Monday from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena putting the spacecraft in a oval orbit ranging from 1,650 to 3,800 miles above the moon's surface.

Scientists said the spacecraft was in a standard cruising condition Saturday.

A successful midcourse maneuver early Thursday headed the craft to a point nearly 1,680 miles below the moon's southern pole.

Orbiter's cameras will cover 98 per cent of the front side of the lunar surface and much of the moon's hidden back side, scientists said.

When the craft reaches the target area Monday it will be slowed by a long, breaking burst of its rocket engine for capture by lunar gravity as a satellite of the moon.

If all goes well, the craft's initial mapping photos will be transmitted Thursday as the craft circles the moon once every 12 house. Scientists plan to continue taking pictures through May 28.

Spokesman said the probe's initial orbit will be maintained for a day or so to provide tracking data for a possible orbit adjustment, if needed.

Guide To Good Reading

Many New Books Now In Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week we have a number of new books of fiction to offer our readers. For the past year publishers have been very slow with deliveries and our patrons find it hard to understand why we do not have the new books as fast as we formerly did. It is not our fault, but we regret it very much. Some of the new books which arrived this past week had been on order since January. At any rate there are some very good ones ready this week. "Washington, D.C." by Gore Vidal is a powerful political novel covering the years between 1937 and 1955. "The Time is Noon" is the title of the first novel which Pearl Buck has written in years. It is partly autobiographical and will have a great appeal for a feminie audience. "Grandmere" by Vian Delmar is another novel written especially for women readers. The scene shifts from New York to Paris and has plenty of excitement. "The Market Square" is another of Miss Read's English novels, which will be eagerly read by her devoted public. "All the Millionaire's" by Alec Rackowe is a nostalgic novel of the twenties and one which those who remember the gay era before the depression will thoroughly enjoy. "One Man in the World" is a very fine political novel by James Barlow. The setting is in Angola and the time is today. This is a superior piece of work and well worth reading. Louis Auchincloss has given us a delightful collection of short stories about the world he knows so well called "Tales of Manhattan." Mr. Auchincloss has a devoted audience and they will eagerly read his latest offering. "Black Sheep" is another of Georgette Heyer's delightful entertainments of life in Regency England. "In Pious Memory" by Margery Sharp will also appeal to her established audience, although her books seem to get lighter and lighter in content. "The Buckstones" by Paul I Wellman is a colorful story of life in Tennessee during the early nineteenth century. Men and boys will especially enjoy it. "The Country Team" is the title of the latest novel by Robin Moore, author of "The Green Berets." He is sharply critical of our policy in Southeast Asia and this book is certain to be discussed. "The Labyrinth" by Thomas Duncan has been compared by the reviewers with "Raintree County." If you enjoyed the earlier book, read this one and see how you feel about it.

There are also many fine new books of non - fiction among this week's additions. "Marriage for Beginners" by Mary Williams is an extremely complete, informative guide to preparation for and maintenance of a happy and successful marriage. It is divided into three parts, "Your Love" Your Home and "Your Life". Every bride and groom should read this. "Keep Going and Like it" by Marjorie Hillis Roulston is an inspiring book written for women who have reached retirement age. "The Comprehensive High School" by James B. Conant is an excellent study of secondary education with recommendations for the future.

A very excellent series which has recently been added to the Library collection is the "New Illustrated Library of Science and Invention." These books are well - written and the illustrations are excellent. Some of the topics covered are: "A History of Land Transportation" by Henri Fabre, "A History of Electricity" by Edward Canby, "A History of Chemistry" by Charles Reichen and "A History of Physics" by the same author. Mr. Canby is also the author of "A History of Ships and Seafaring" and "A History of Flight". There is a "History of Medicine" by Jean Starobinski", "A History of the Machine" by Robert Soulard, A "History of Communication" by Mr. Fabre and "A History of Astronomy" by Mr. Reichen. Recently we have had several requests for books on making ship models and are happy to have a new title "American Ship Models" by V. R. Grimwood. For gardeners there are three new titles "Roses" by Eric Bois, "Woman's Own Book of Flower Arrangements and "Practical Bonsai for Beginners" by Kenji Murata. There are two new books of interest to those who enjoy cooking, "Italian Desserts and Antipasto" by Angela Catanzaro and "The Woman's Own Book of Cake Decorating and Cake Making". "Early Pennsylvania Arts and Crafts" by John J. Stoudt is a lovely and useful book. "Victorian Furniture" by Robert Symonds" will be very useful to homemakers who like that period. There is a new study of the work of Frank Lloyd Wright written by Norris Kelly Smith called "Frank Lloyd Wright a study in Architectural Content. "Folk Art of Mexico" by Gerd Dorner is an interesting and useful book. "Homespun and Blue" by Martha Stearns is a study of American Crewel Embroidery. "Spanish Glass" by Alice Forthingham is a lovely and beautiful book which will interest collectors. "Fountains of Rome" by Jean Likas is a beautiful book of photographs of this lovely city.

A fascinating book is one recently published by the American Heritage Magazine called "The Nineties! Glimpses of a lost but lively world". It is beautifully and profusely illustrated and gives a good picture of life at the end of the last century. A very useful addition to the reference collection is the 1967 edition of "Thomas Register of American Manufacturers". This gives up-to-date information about manufacturers and their products.

Orbiter Set On Course To Map Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A flying photographic laboratory to map moon features as small as 200-feet across continued its long journey on target Saturday.

Lunar Orbiter 4, launched last Thursday from Cape Kennedy,. Fla., will receive a signal Monday from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena putting the spacecraft in a oval orbit ranging from 1,650 to 3,800 miles above the moon's surface.

Scientists said the spacecraft was in a standard cruising condition Saturday.

A successful midcourse maneuver early Thursday headed the craft to a point nearly 1,680 miles below the moon's southern pole.

Orbiter's cameras will cover 98 per cent of the front side of the lunar surface and much of the moon's hidden back side, scientists said.

When the craft reaches the target area Monday it will be slowed by a long, breaking burst of its rocket engine for capture by lunar gravity as a satellite of the moon.

If all goes well, the craft's initial mapping photos will be transmitted Thursday as the craft circles the moon once every 12 house. Scientists plan to continue taking pictures through May 28.

Spokesman said the probe's initial orbit will be maintained for a day or so to provide tracking data for a possible orbit adjustment, if needed.

A thought for the day—Scottish historian Thomas Carlyle once said: "No man who has once heartily and wholly laughed can be irreclaimably bad."

Urban Renewal May Set Legislature Fuse Alight

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature will go into fiscal session at noon Monday with a strong governor, a delicately balanced budget and the potentially explosive issue of urban renewal looking it in the eye.

Louisiana is the only state in the union that refuses to allow its cities to apply for federal urban renewal funds, largely because the legislature in the past opposed the strings that were attached.

But a new and vigorous campaign to "sell" urban renewal in Louisiana has been waged in recent weeks. The cities of Shreveport, New Orleans, Lake Charles, Baton Rouge and Monroe are leading the fight.

They hope the saving grace to urban renewal at this session will be the local-option feature, a gimmick designed to soften traditional stubborn rural opposition.

McKeithen's support of urban renewal may be a little more than lukewarm but he has still refused to make it an administration measure.

The clue as to how hard the governor pushes urban renewal may be provided in the actions of his main floor leaders, Rep. Robert Munson.., Rapides, and Sen. Jamar Adcock, Monroe. Both are currently strongly opposed to it.

The political backdrop for this session is unusual in Louisiana politics.

While Gov. John McKeithen enters the last year of his term, the two-term amendment which passed the voters in November has cured his lame duck.

Unless he plays his cards wrong, McKeithen is almost sure of getting what he wants from the lawmakers. The question is whether the governor will restrain himself and refrain from asking too much in the way of legislation.

If he doesn't,the 30-day session could turn into just another regular session, with a number of non-fiscal bills being considered.

McKeithen so far has said he would sponsor a crime prevention package and assist cities who want urban renewal to get through a local-option bill.

That may be enough to "open" the session to non-fiscal matters, as far as the legislators are concerned.

The main item will be the proposed $1.285 billion budget, the program in the state's history. It will cover state operations from July 1 to June 30, 1968.

Already doubt that the revenue figure is anywhere near the mark is nagging the minds of many legislators. Their auditor, J. B. Lancaster, said, for example, the revenue estimates are $26 million higher than they should be.

Debate on this point probably will get nowhere during the session, but might be used as a campaign issue. A deficit is prohibited by state law.

Speculation among veteran political observers is that a special session on new taxes will be held after the elections are over in February. Taxes cannot be raised during a fiscal session.

Even the staunchest administration supporters admit the budget was the most difficult in years to balance because of pressing revenue demands. Some agency budgets were chopped sizable. Little room was left for program expansions.

If the legislative budget committee has guessed wrong and overestimated revenue figures, no one will know for sure until the end of the fiscal year —and and after the governor's race is history.

The crime prevention package will be described as emergency legislation. Bills would allow offices to shop and search persons who act suspiciously, increase the penalty for simple robbery and set up a state crime commission.

There is also a chance new highway safety legislation will be introduced by the administration.

Jet Airliner Slams Fence

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A Pakistani jet airliner with 30 passengers aboard crashed into a steel mesh fence at Istanbull's International Airport Saturday as it came in for a landing. There were no casualties.

Pakistan International Airways officials said the impact destroyed the No. 1 engine of the Boeing 720, ground the plane indefinitely. It was on its way from London to Karachi and had made a scheduled landing when the accident occurred.

Collision Fatal

BURAS, La. (AP)—Two cars collided head-on near here Saturday, killing Curtis Gaskill, 45, of Empire, driver of one car.

Evers Wants Draft Boards To Integrate

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —The Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said Saturday Negroes should be placed on state draft board and a June 1 deadline should give officials enough time to do it.

Charles Evers, who served in World War II and the Korean War, said he would gladly serve in Vietnam, but added: "I don't think Negroes should be called on by all white draft boards.

Evers appeared on a local television interview program and said he might ask Negroes not to report for induction if the draft boards were not desegregated.

Evers emphasized he was not calling for this action at present because he planned to go to Washington and confer with government officials before making any move.

He also called on Gov. Paul Johnson to eliminate what he termed "the 90 lily-white" draft boards in the state.

Proclamation Honors Local College Man

A Northeast Louisiana State College faculty memer has been honored by an official proclamation from Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard.

Monday has been designated as "Robert Harrison Day" in the City of Monroe.

Dr. Harrison, assistant professor of business administration, is the faculty advisor to Northeast's consistently award-winning Zeta Chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon. This chapter has won more national awards than any other unit in the nation. There are 45 chapters.

The group is a national professional fraternity in marketing, salesmanship and sales management.

Announcement of Harrison's honor came Friday night, when fraternity memers gathered for the annual Awards Banquet and named five local members who received recognition for their work with the organization.

V. J. Martzell of Shreveport, vice president of Superior Iron Works and Supply Co., was guest speaker for the banquet. He discussed the hazards of "Averagism," the quality of doing just enough to get by and no more.

O'Brien Richards, a junior in marketing from Monroe, won the fraternity's top pledge award for the fall, 1966, semester, and Joel McKissick, a junior marketing major from West Monroe, took the same award for the current semester.

The past president's award went to Kenneth Stone of Monroe, a senior in general business. Fred Lawson, a senior in marketing from Monroe, was named oustanding member Errold Seiler, a senior in industrial marketing from Monroe, took the award for outstanding service.

In addition, Stone, Lawson and McKissick were recognized for their work with advertising in the Miss Northeast Pageant program recently. Stone was named as top salesman; Lawson as top zone manager; and McKissick as the leader in obtaining new accounts.

Last year, Northeast's Chapter of the fraternity won four out of five of the major awards nationally, including its third top chapter trophy. The local unit has also won the top sales project four times; the top faculty advisor award twice; an award for sales presentation; and an award for top salesmanship.

When the group won the top sales project for the fourth time at the national convention earlier this spring, the Northeast unit became the only chapter in the country to ever win the award more than three times. Harrison is a past winner of the top faculty advisor award.

Northeast's chapter was organized 10 years ago and is sponsored by the Sales and Marketing Execubtives' Clu of Marketing Executives' Club of Shreveport.

(Editor's Note: This is an American Bar Association public service feature by Will Bernard in cooperation with the local bar association. As neither the association nor The World answers specific questions, readers should consult their own lawyers if legal questions arise. These articles are prepared for readership in all the states and it should since laws differ in each state.)

Back in frontier days, a stern judge in Ohio used to keep a live bomb on the floor of the jury room. When he sent the jurors in to deliberate, he would call their attention to the fuse leading outside of the room.

"Bring me a verdict in five minutes," he would thunder, "or by heaven I will light the fuse!"

Needless to say, his jurors didn't dawdle. And it is still true today that jurors, even though not spurred on so persuasively, sometimes do bring in their verdict fast.

Quite naturally, doubts may arise. Did they really give fair consideration to the evidence? Can a trial that lasts for days be decided in minutes? Time and again, a person who has been found guilty of a crime will raise such questions by appealing to a higher court for a new trial.

But almost invariably, the court has ruled that speed alone does not prove that the verdict was unfair. For, after all, there are perfectly sensible reasons why a jury, while conscientiously doing its duty, may still bring in a speedy verdict. Thus:

When a jury took only eight minutes to convict a man of drunk driving, the court found nothing improper — because there was just one simple issue for the jurors to decide.

And when a jury took only an hour to convict a man of tax fraud, the court found nothing improper — because a lopsided preponderance of evidence pointed to guilt.

In other words, the law does not insist on long, drawn-out deliberations just to make the verdict "look good."

But there is another side to the matter. The law does insist that, when jurors feel the need to go slow, they should not be high-pressured into hurrying.

For example:

The jurors in a murder case, deadlocked for almost seven hours, reached a verdict in short order — after the trial judge hinted that he might hold them in contempt if they did not agree.

This verdict, on appeal, was thrown out. The appellate court warned:

"If a trial judge is permitted to coerce a jury into a verdict, then the value of the system of trial by jury is at an end."

Department At Northeast Is Accredited

The Department of Home Economics at Northeast Louisiana State College has been accredited in vocational home economics education by the Louisiana State Board of Education, according to Dr. Daniel E. Dupree, dean of the School of Pure and Applied Sciences.

The accreditation recently granted by the State Board makes Northeast home economics graduates eligible to teach in any Louisiana high school vocational home economics program.

"The granting of accreditation by the State Board of Education will broaden job opportunities for home economics graduates of the College and is an indication of the high standards of instruction maintained by the Department of Home Economics," said Dean Dupree. "This is a boost to our efforts to attract more outstanding students into this field."

An evaluation committee, appointed by Superintendent William J. Dodd and headed by Mrs. Odessa Smith, state director of home economics, visited the Northeast campus in March. As a result of the visit, the team determined that the home economics department was meeting standards for professional qualifications of its faculty, since the instructional staff of the department includes a qualified specialist in each of five areas — textiles and clothing, foods and nutrition, child development and family relations, home management and housing, and home economics education. In addition, course content and instructional materials, equipment, and physical facilities met all requirements for accreditation.

"We are very pleased to receive vocational accreditation," said Miss Frances Kelson, head of the home economics department. "We feel that this is a step forward in providing quality education for our graduates."

U.S. To Appeal Ruling On Beach

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—The Justice Department has given notice it is appealing to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans a federal court decision that the Biloxi - Gulfport sand beach belongs to private owners.

U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox last March 8 ruled that the beach, stretching some 25 miles along the Gulf Coast, is owned by private property owners whose land abuts the beach.

The government, in a suit filed in May, 1960, sought a guarantee that the entire beach would be open to all persons, regardless of race. Negroes had customarily used certain areas.

KKK Guards Stone Car Of Ex-Chief

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) —A swarm of Ku Klux Klan security guards stoned the car of a banished Klan leader Saturday and chased him and three companions from a rally celebrating the 100th anniversary of the White Knights.

No one was injured in the melee, but at least one shot was believed fired causing a puncture in a tire on the fleeing Klansman's car.

Routed from the meeting by 20 helmeted security guards was George F. Dorset, 40, of Greensboro, N.C., who was ousted from the Klan three weeks ago after being accused of leading a "conspiracy" to split the North Carolina Mystic Empire.

Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton of Tuscaloosa, Ala., who dumped Dorset, was present at the rally held in a vacant field near Byrd Airport.

Marshall C. Kornegay, Grand Dragon of the Virginia Klan, ordered Dorset to leave the rally. The security guard quickly surrounded Dorset's Cadillac convertible and began rocking it from side to side.

Klansmen began pushing Dorset's car from the field, and then what was believed to be a shot rang out. Dorset started the vehicle and roared away under a hail of rocks.

The rally in the Richmond field was labeled a "national" function, but only about 2,000 persons showed up. Leaders had boasted that 50,000 persons would attend.

Shelton, head of the United Klans of America, termed the Klan movement "more successful now than ever." The United Klans was founded near Pulaski, Tenn.

"People are beginning to realize it's time they took a stand for Christianity and constitutional government," Shelton said.

Withdrawal Not Enough, Solon Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Saturday that U.S. action to withdraw 35,000 troops and dependents from Western Europe is too late and too little.

Ellender, who has long advocated withdrawal of troops from Western Europe, said the recent announcement is good news — so far as it goes.

But, he said, the United States has about 300,000 soldiers in that area plus another 300,000 dependents and support personnel and "to my mind there is no earthly reason for the continued maintenance of this garrison."

Because of President Charles de Gaulle's insistence, Ellender said, U.S. troops have been pulled out of France and the United States now is financing a new NATO headquarters in Belgium at a cost of $90 million.

"If it had been left to me, the troops withdrawn from France would have been returned home forthwith instead of shuffled about the European countryside," Ellender said in a talk for broadcast in Louisiana.

"The continuance of this outmoded policy has the result of bettering the economies of our so-called allies at the expense of our own."

Ellender said that the United States cannot afford to provide a protective shield for the whole world.

Twiggy Leaves For London

NEW YORK (AP) — Twiggy, the 92-pound British fashion model, left Saturday for London with this to say about fat and skinny women:

"For 20 years, everyone thought about very shapely women. But it doesn't matter what you look like when someone loves you. If two people love each other, what does it matter whether she is fat or thin?

"He's not carrying you for that. He's marrying you because he loves you."

Stalina Eats Many Hot Dogs At Coney Island

NEW YORK (UPI) —Josef Stalin's daughter had two dozen "Coney Island red hots" from Nathan's famous hot-dog stand Saturday to give her a real taste of "good old Yankee democracy."

There was no immediate comment from Russia's defector of the year.

Mrs. Svetland Alliluyeva has made only two public appearances since her arrival in New York. She plans to spend her time in seclusion, completing the English version of her autobiography for an American publisher.

Nathan's said they wished Mrs. Alliluyeva well and they hoped she could visit Coney Island. But, for the time, they wanted her to get this genuine taste of Americans.

The package of hot dogs was sent to the house where she is staying with this note: "If in the past, you may have read or heard erroneously that Americans were 'going to the dogs'—it only meant they were going to Coney Island for Nathan's red hots."

Tot Listed As Critical After Fall

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — thirteen- month -old Michael Conlan Jr. remained on the critical list Saturday following a six-stories fall from a hotel-apartment building in Center City.

The child underwent a three-hour operation Friday night after he plunged from a sixth-floor fire escape of the Morris Hotel.

Police said he managed to squeeze through an iron grating protecting a fire escape landing.

He suffered fractures of the hip and plevic and internal injuries.

Doctors informed the child's parents, Michael, 20, and Dorothy, 18, that their son would live.

Antiques for Sale

Rural Electric Cooperatives may have been indirectly responsible for the antique bargains available today. Had it not been for the Rural Electric Co-ops in Louisiana . . . many of the outmoded devices and appliances used by our grandparents would still be in practical use today. Rural folks once had to work in a dark kitchen lighted either by candle or coal oil lamp, and use awkward appliances to get family meals prepared.

Today . . . thanks to rural electrification, with its modern conveniences; the drudgery and time consuming methods of home making have been removed, giving the rural housewife more time for outside interests. These same modern labor-saving appliances and tools give the entire family more time to spend together enjoying the world around them.

In order to obtain this service the rural people had to band together, in the traditional American way, and build their own electric system. The Co-ops pioneered the way and are still developing their areas. Only TWO PER CENT of Louisiana farms were electrified in 1938. Today, 98 PER CENT receive electricity. The locally-owned and controlled Co-ops are proud of this record.

America is growing and the cities are becoming more crowded. Soon these large population centers must turn to the rural areas for living space. At that time, the Co-ops again will be ready to meet the challenge and provide low-cost dependable electricity.

KKK Guards Stone Car Of Ex-Chief

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) —A swarm of Ku Klux Klan security guards stoned the car of a banished Klan leader Saturday and chased him and three companions from a rally celebrating the 100th anniversary of the White Knights.

No one was injured in the melee, but at least one shot was believed fired causing a puncture in a tire on the fleeing Klansman's car.

Routed from the meeting by 20 helmeted security guards was George F. Dorset, 40, of Greensboro, N.C., who was ousted from the Klan three weeks ago after being accused of leading a "conspiracy" to split the North Carolina Mystic Empire.

Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton of Tuscaloosa, Ala., who dumped Dorset, was present at the rally held in a vacant field near Byrd Airport.

Marshall C. Kornegay, Grand Dragon of the Virginia Klan, ordered Dorset to leave the rally. The security guard quickly surrounded Dorset's Cadillac convertible and began rocking it from side to side.

Klansmen began pushing Dorset's car from the field, and then what was believed to be a shot rang out. Dorset started the vehicle and roared away under a hail of rocks.

The rally in the Richmond field was labeled a "national" function, but only about 2,000 persons showed up. Leaders had boasted that 50,000 persons would attend.

Shelton, head of the United Klans of America, termed the Klan movement "more successful now than ever." The United Klans was founded near Pulaski, Tenn.

"People are beginning to realize it's time they took a stand for Christianity and constitutional government," Shelton said.

Soviet Scientists, Politicians Debate Launching Another Manned Spaceship Soon

MOSCOW (AP) — A debate is believed under way among Soviet scientists and political leaders whether to launch another manned spaceship soon.

Some scientists are reported to want to try again soon to succeed where the spaceship Soyuz 1 failed, killing cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov. Others are not so sure they are ready.

Kremlin leaders have sharpened this debate with a simple question to the scientists: Can you guarantee success next time?

In this year of the 50th anniversary of Communist rule in Russia, when everything is supposed to point to glorious achievements, the Communist party bosses do not want another failure in space.

The question has not yet been answered, so far as can be learned from various informed sources. The whole subject is shrouded in the tight secrecy that normally covers the Soviet space program.

Some sources say there is a possibility of another manned launching by the end of this month. Other sources say June. But a tendency toward caution might make it very much longer before another cosmonaut goes up.

One spaceship which might be launched soon is the one that was scheduled to go up and rendezvous with Komarov's craft. According to various sources, it would have carried six persons. Three of them were to have transferred to Komarov's capsule ad come back to earth with him.

The decision not to launch the second spaceship while Komarov was in orbit points to far graver problems than the simple explanation of his death, and suggests a long delay before another flight.

The explanation when the death was announced April 24, 11 hours after Soyuz 1 crashed, said that 'according to preliminary reports" the parachute straps "got twisted" at the end of a successful flight. No further report has been made public.

It is impossible to discover any informed source here who believes this simple explanation. Some express belief the new spaceship developed problems early in its 28-hour flight.

Some say Komarov became sick and was unable to accomplish his work. One usually well-informed source says malfunctioning of the pressure and temperature systems in the spacecraft caused Komarov's death while still in orbit.

MOSCOW (AP) — A debate is believed under way among Soviet scientists and political leaders whether to launch another manned spaceship soon.

Some scientists are reported to want to try again soon to succeed where the spaceship Soyuz 1 failed, killing cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov. Others are not so sure they are ready.

Kremlin leaders have sharpened this debate with a simple question to the scientists: Can you guarantee success next time?

In this year of the 50th anniversary of Communist rule in Russia, when everything is supposed to point to glorious achievements, the Communist party bosses do not want another failure in space.

The question has not yet been answered, so far as can be learned from various informed sources. The whole subject is shrouded in the tight secrecy that normally covers the Soviet space program.

Some sources say there is a possibility of another manned launching by the end of this month. Other sources say June. But a tendency toward caution might make it very much longer before another cosmonaut goes up.

One spaceship which might be launched soon is the one that was scheduled to go up and rendezvous with Komarov's craft. According to various sources, it would have carried six persons. Three of them were to have transferred to Komarov's capsule ad come back to earth with him.

The decision not to launch the second spaceship while Komarov was in orbit points to far graver problems than the simple explanation of his death, and suggests a long delay before another flight.

The explanation when the death was announced April 24, 11 hours after Soyuz 1 crashed, said that 'according to preliminary reports" the parachute straps "got twisted" at the end of a successful flight. No further report has been made public.

It is impossible to discover any informed source here who believes this simple explanation. Some express belief the new spaceship developed problems early in its 28-hour flight.

Some say Komarov became sick and was unable to accomplish his work. One usually well-informed source says malfunctioning of the pressure and temperature systems in the spacecraft caused Komarov's death while still in orbit.

The radio barks out a bulletin:

"A tiny rocket ship shot into space today on history's first solo flight to the moon. The craft, so overloaded with fuel it had trouble getting off, carries no radio and there has been no direct word from the pilot on his progress."

Sound fantastic?

Perhaps — but it was only 40 years ago that the world was electrified by a feat then as daring as a maverick moon shot would be today.

On the morning of May 20, 1927, Charles A. Lindbergh headed out over the Atlantic in a fragile monoplane sluggish with extra gasoline. He landed 33½ hours later in Paris, the first man to make a nonstop solo transatlantic flight.

Lindbergh became a national hero overnight and, although he has dropped from the limelight through his own wishes, his name ranks among the greats of manned flight.

From this vantage point in time it is apparent that "Lucky Lindy" did more than set a distance mark — records were falling fast in those days. His true distinction lies in the fact that he turned the world's eyes to the skies more than any man before him.

ENTHUSIASM SPARKED

From Lindbergh's adventure sprang a public enthusiasm for flight that has led to ever greater projects, culminating today in a vast undertaking to vault men to the moon.

Now, little more than half a life span later, transatlantic flight is routine. Lindbergh's 122 - mile - an - hour speed has been quintupled by 150 - passenger jet liners, and just ahead are supersonic transports that will cover in two hours the 3,600 - mile route that took him a day and a half.

A prototype of these SST's, the huge XB70A bomber, has already pioneered their 2,000 m.p.h cruising speeds. Rocket planes from the X1 to the X15 have gradually pushed atmospheric flight to more than 4,200 m.p.h — six times the velocity of sound.

Beyond the atmosphere, in cramped one - and two-man capsules, U.S. astronauts have racked up more than 2,000 man-hours whirling around the earth at nearly 18,000 m.p.h. They are practicing for three-day jaunts across the quarter-million miles to the moon.

In 40 years man has progressed to a point where hopping from continent to continent is tame; now he is ready to leap the void between celestial bodies. The transition wasn't easy.

Step by slow step, man had to forge a whole new science. Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, although far advanced beyond the box-kite contraptions in which he learned to fly, was still only a wood-and-metal skeleton covered with fabric. Then, as he and other daredevils of the late 1920s demonstrated the tremendous potential of aviation, great changes came about.

Landing gears were retracted to lessen wind resistance. Engines no longer carried the weight of liquids to cool them; they utilized the cold air through which they flew. Improved fuels and design increased the engines' power, and they could haul the weight of metal skins needed for better streamlining.

By the early 1930s the airplane had evolved into a fairly safe, reasonably economical vehicle, and it began to move people and goods in quantity. The Boeing 247 in 1933 and the Douglas DC series, starting in 1934, made flight a comfortable mode of travel for the first time. With soundproofed cabins against the roar of twin engines, they opened a new era of transportation.

FOUR-ENGINE PLANES

In the late 1930s four-engine propeller planes appeared, enabling regular trans-ocean flights. You could fly around the world in four days in a business suit, looking only a little rumpled when you got home.

When World War II erupted, both civil and military aviation went global. Britain staggered under the first assaults of German bombers, recovered and, with the help of U. S. air power, launched a round - the - clock battering of Hitler's industrial centers. B17 Flying Fortresses and B24 Liberators and British Lancasters fought through flak and enemy fighters with enough bombs to level whole cities.

In the Pacific, Japanese bombers all but wiped out the U. S. battleship fleet at Pearl Harbor. But they missed the U.S. aircraft carriers, and the carriers spearheaded the American drive across the Pacific to Japan. B29 bombers, flying from bases in the Marianas, destroyed Japan's cities. Then in one week in August 1945 Hiroshima and Nagasaki nearly perished in the birth of the atomic age. Those atom bombs were delivered by four - engine, propeller - driven B29s.

POWERFUL DESIGNS

Halfway around the world, German and British designers were developing vehicles that would give atomic might incredible speed and range: jet engines and rockets.

The first jet - powered plane was the German Heinkel HE178, flown Aug. 27, 1939. In May 1941 the British flew their first Gloster jet. The first U. S. jet, a Bell XP59A, flew Oct. 1, 1942, at Edward Air Force Base, Calif.

By the end of the war the Germans had 1,300 ME 262 twin-jet fighters, but they came too late to affect the outcome. Also too late were Germany's V1 buzz-bomb, an unmanned jet plane with a 2,000-pound warhead which appeared in 1944, and the V2 ballistic rocket, which a year later began vaulting 60 miles into the air and striking targets 200 miles away. These were the forerunners of nuclear-armed intercontinental missiles.

The end of the war disrupted aviation industries for a time, but soon they were busy again. Boeing built the KC135, an aerial tanker to refuel smaller craft in flight and give them ocean - spanning range. Carrying nuclear bombs instead of fuel, the same craft became the swept-wing, eight - jet B52.

Four-jet passenger liners, mainly the Boeing 707 and the Douglas DC8, brought unprecedented comfort and speed to civilian world of flying. Now the continents were only hours apart.

Aircraft production spurted, and by 1957 was the largest single manufacturing effort in the United States, employing more than 900,000 people. Besides the jets, military and civilian, there were now the helicopters. First used in the Korean War, they came of full military age in Vietnam, where thousands are in use as gunships, troop transports, rescue ships. In civilian dress they were finding a hundred uses in transportation, construction and rescue.

With civilian jets, the number of passengers soared. From a mere 6,000 a year in Lindbergh's day, the total zoomed to 100 million in 1966, in the United States alone.

Meantime, a purely research craft, the rocket-driven X15, explored the problems of flight at 4,200 m.p.h. and 350,000 feet — above the fringes of the atmosphere and more than halfway to orbital heights.

On the Edwards AFB dry lake bed in California, even stranger craft are being tested. Wingless half-bullet shapes, called lifting bodies, are being readied to conquer the problem of maneuverability in returning from space. These vehicles, called the M2F2 and the HL 10, are forerunners of space ferries that someday will be able to land at any point on earth from any point in orbit. Current versions are gliders but future models will have jets to enable them to change course on the way down.

But it's not all clear sailing in the air age. Forty years after Lindbergh the problems include crowded airways, crowded airports and noise. Today's multimillion-dollar airports are a far cry from the days of the cow pasture landings, but in the skies above them 90 planes may be stacked up waiting to land, and in the tower, harried controllers try to get them all down safely, and don't always succeed.

Lindbergh's own role in aviation over the past four decades is hazy — he granted few interviews in 20 years. It is known, however, that the one-time parachutist and stunt flier has played a significant part.

Two years after his historic flight he joined Pan American World Airways as a consultant, pioneering in the early air routes to Europe and the Orient. Early in World War II he improved the range of the twin-boomed P38 fighter by flying it the way he pushed his Ryan monoplane across the Atlantic — increasing the blade angle to give the propellers more bite and reducing engine r.p.m. to lower fuel consumption. The Air Force credited him with boosting the range from 1,500 to 2,000 miles.

Although a civilian, he flew more than 500 combat missions in the Pacific, twice shooting down Japanese planes in dogfights.

As consultant to Pan American — he currently is on the board of directors — Lindbergh has had a voice in selecting almost every one of the 30-odd types of craft Pan Am has purchased.

Lindbergh, now 65, is semi-retired.

"WELL, I MADE IT," said Charles Lindbergh as he landed his little Spirit of St. Louis at Paris' Le Bourget Airfield May 21, 1927. He had left New York 33½ hours earlier in the monoplane, overloaded with fuel and with no radio. Here the crowd at the field, breaking through the line of soldiers around the plane, surges toward it. This May 21 a replica of the plane, built in the U.S., will re-enact the landing at Le Bourget after circling the Eiffel Tower, to open the 1967 International Paris Air Show. Ho Chi Minh Man With Many Problems

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Ho Chi Minh, the slender, bespectacled father of North Vietnam, speaks eight languages — and one of them is silence.

He needs them all to cope with the myriad forces that threaten to frustrate his aim of unifying Vietnam under an independent Communist flag.

Like all leaders involved in Vietnam he wrestles with agonizing dilemmas whose practical answers may lie somewhere between victory and defeat.

He knows that winning South Vietnam would deliver the whole of Vietnam to his big neighbor, Communist China.

Thus, the 77-year-old president of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam brandishes a big stick against the United States but also must keep an eye to the north.

MANY ROLES

A part of his difficulty is that he is not one man but several. He is the leader of a Communist country engaged in trying to subvert its southern neighbor. He is commander of armies locked in war with the United States, the Philippines, South Korea, Australia, New Zealand, and Thailand — countries which have responded with arms to urgent calls for help from the stricken neighbor, South Vietnam.

His tiny country ordinarily would be seen but seldom heard in the councils of international communism. With a population of 16 million — roughly the same as the embattled south — Ho would find himself in the shadow of men like China's Mao Tse tung and Soviet chief Leonid Brezhnev, who together rule nearly a billion people.

But thanks to the worldwide shock waves set up by 22 years of warfare, Ho finds himself at the vortex of Communist wooing, argued over, solicited and tugged every which way. He has to keep all his wits not only to prevent military defeat in the south but to stave off being crushed between the upper and nether millstones of the power struggle between the Russians and Chinese.

HEAVY PRESSURES

As if these conflicts were not enough, Ho has to play a double role at home: as nationalist and Communist. For 13 years he has been Communist dictator of the north. But to many countrymen he is "Ho the patriot," the fiery nationalist who led Vietnam to victory in 1954 against the French colonialists. The pressures from all sides are enormous. U. S. bombers rain shot and shell on his country, and in the south U. S. and allied troops root out Ho's troops and the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Meantime both Moscow and Peking exhort him to fight until the bitter end.

Communist Chairman Mao Tse tung and his defense minister and heir designate, Marshal Lin Piao, are authors of the theory of "people's war." "Power grows out of the barrel of a gun," is one of Mao's most famous sayings.

The Chinese theoreticians see Vietnam as the flaming testing ground of their idea. If Ho succeeds the repercussions on the rest of the Communist bloc will be tremendous.

The leaders of the Kremlin claim no longer to believe in "People's War" but in "peaceful coexistence." This theory holds that Communists can gain power through parliamentary methods, and thus, while supporting Ho militarily, they would probably welcome a settlement, with Communist advantage, of course.

The Russians fear that a nuclear holocaust could wipe out not only capitalism but communism as well. It is a fear which does not darken Mao's thoughts. He once boasted that even if China were atom bombed there would be 200 million or so people left, more than enough to carry on.

REACTIONS

Finally, the Russians have no wish to see their Chinese rivals extend their ideas and influence in Southeast Asia.

How does Ho react to these pressures?

On the military front, guerrilla warfare, terrorism and an occasional resort, under favorable conditions, to conventional fighting.

The men he relies on are, for the most part, half naked, scrawny, devoid of air support, lacking motorized transport, tanks or heavy artillery. Their greatest assets are zeal, inventiveness, and passionate hatred.

Their military chief, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap — victor of the decisive 1954 battle of Dienbien phu — is a disciple of Mao's tactics of guerrilla war, to which he has added some Vietnamese flourishes.

Ho meets the pressure from Peking with nimbleness and a poker face. The Chinese lash out at the Russians, accuse them of betraying the Vietnamese people, plotting with the United States to end the war.

LOOKS BLANKS

The Vietnamese look blank. When it comes their turn to speak, they praise the Chinese for their aid, thank the Russians for all they have done. It is a dialogue of deaf mutes which everyone understands.

Ho is no fool. He could strike a moral pose, choose sides in the Sino - Soviet dispute. But he knows that if he does so he may gain a firm friend only to acquire a worse enemy. He needs the help he is getting from both.

Because of this, he listens quietly to all offers of fighting men from the Soviet Union and China. Just as quietly he says 'Pu yao" and "Nyet" — no thanks. He knows that once an army moves in, it sometimes takes a long time for it to get out. Furthermore, that could spoil his nationalist image.

He also has the observed experience of Eastern Europe to warn him of the dangers of the Soviet military presence. And he has Vietnam's own history to make him less than enthusiastic about the Chinese: for nearly 1,000 years, they ruled Vietnam.

Peace pressures, filter into Hanoi from all over the world, from the Vatican, the United Nations, the neutralist block, individual statesmen and peace groups.

Possibly the most tempting ones come from Ho's chief adversary, U.S. President. Lyndon B. Johnson. Hardly a week rolls by without an offer to talk from the White House.

To many, discouraged by his repeated rejections, Ho must seem a stubborn and obdurate man. He is. More than that, he is ruthless, but he has shifted a little.

Two years ago, he outlined the Communist conditions for a Vietnam settlement: withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces from the south, recognition of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front as the sole representative of the southern people, a return to the Geneva armistice agreements, settlement of Vietnamese problems by the Vietnamese without foreign interference.

But early in 1967, Ho indirectly let it be known that the four points were only "the most correct basis" for negotiations; talks could start if the United States unconditionally stopped its attacks on the north.

In a letter replying to a Johnson peace message the first week of February, Ho spelled it out: "If the U.S. government really wants these talks, it must first of all stop unconditionally its bombing raids and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

Finally, Ho is under pressures at home, within his own Lao Dong Workers party. The Chinese wing, led by Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Peoples Congress standing committee, looks with a baleful eye on any moves he makes toward peace. As party secretary general, Truong made a debacle of land reform in 1956-57, had to be removed from his post by Ho. Chinese influence kept him from a worse fate. Now he is strong again and insists on being heard.

RUSSIAN WING

The Russian wing is led by Giap, who shares Ho's more moderate views. He feels the Russians have more to offer the army in modern equipment and know how than do the Chinese. He does not relish a Chinese thumb in the Vietnamese pie.

FRAIL-LOOKING, scholarly Ho Chi Minh, 77-year-old president of North Vietnam, struggles with dilemmas in his battle to achieve his stated aim: A united, independent Vietnam. He must strive to keep a balance as he tries to oust the Americans without letting the Chinese replace them, accept help from both the Soviet Union and Communist China but remain neutral in their power struggle, play his role as leading Communist and also as nationalist for the many Vietnamese who remember how he ended French colonial rule. This drawing of Ho Chi Minh is by AP Newsfeatures artist Dick Hodgins. (AP Newsfeatures)

THE SPIRIT OF St. Louis, which made history 40 years ago when Charles Lindbergh flew it across the Atlantic in the first nonstop New York-Paris flight, has been preserved for history. Here it is suspended in a hall of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. The jump from the air age to the space age is seen in the weather satellite in the case at left and the space capsule at left of the door. This was the capsule in which James McDivitt and Edward H. White made 62 space orbits in June, 1965. White, who floated outside the capsule for 20 minutes, was one of the three astronauts who died in the Apollo spaceship fire at Cape Kennedy last Jan. 27.

But to many countrymen he is "Ho the patriot," the fiery nationalist who led Vietnam to victory in 1954 against the French colonialists. The pressures from all sides are enormous. U. S. bombers rain shot and shell on his country, and in the south U. S. and allied troops root out Ho's troops and the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Meantime both Moscow and Peking exhort him to fight until the bitter end.

Communist Chairman Mao Tse tung and his defense minister and heir designate, Marshal Lin Piao, are authors of the theory of "people's war." "Power grows out of the barrel of a gun," is one of Mao's most famous sayings.

The Chinese theoreticians see Vietnam as the flaming testing ground of their idea. If Ho succeeds the repercussions on the rest of the Communist bloc will be tremendous.

The leaders of the Kremlin claim no longer to believe in "People's War" but in "peaceful coexistence." This theory holds that Communists can gain power through parliamentary methods, and thus, while supporting Ho militarily, they would probably welcome a settlement, with Communist advantage, of course.

The Russians fear that a nuclear holocaust could wipe out not only capitalism but communism as well. It is a fear which does not darken Mao's thoughts. He once boasted that even if China were atom bombed there would be 200 million or so people left, more than enough to carry on.

REACTIONS

Finally, the Russians have no wish to see their Chinese rivals extend their ideas and influence in Southeast Asia.

How does Ho react to these pressures?

On the military front, guerrilla warfare, terrorism and an occasional resort, under favorable conditions, to conventional fighting.

The men he relies on are, for the most part, half naked, scrawny, devoid of air support, lacking motorized transport, tanks or heavy artillery. Their greatest assets are zeal, inventiveness, and passionate hatred.

Their military chief, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap — victor of the decisive 1954 battle of Dienbien phu — is a disciple of Mao's tactics of guerrilla war, to which he has added some Vietnamese flourishes.

Ho meets the pressure from Peking with nimbleness and a poker face. The Chinese lash out at the Russians, accuse them of betraying the Vietnamese people, plotting with the United States to end the war.

LOOKS BLANKS

The Vietnamese look blank. When it comes their turn to speak, they praise the Chinese for their aid, thank the Russians for all they have done. It is a dialogue of deaf mutes which everyone understands.

Ho is no fool. He could strike a moral pose, choose sides in the Sino - Soviet dispute. But he knows that if he does so he may gain a firm friend only to acquire a worse enemy. He needs the help he is getting from both.

Because of this, he listens quietly to all offers of fighting men from the Soviet Union and China. Just as quietly he says ' Pu yao" and "Nyet" — no thanks. He knows that once an army moves in, it sometimes takes a long time for it to get out. Furthermore, that could spoil his nationalist image.

He also has the observed experience of Eastern Europe to warn him of the dangers of the Soviet military presence. And he has Vietnam's own history to make him less than ehthusiastic about the Chinese: for nearly 1,000 years, they ruled Vietnam.

Peace pressures, filter into Hanoi from all over the world, from the Vatican, the United Nations, the neutralist block, individual statesmen and peace groups.

Possibly the most tempting ones come from Ho's chief adversary, U.S. President. Lyndon B. Johnson. Hardly a week rolls by without an offer to talk from the White House.

To many, discouraged by his repeated rejections, Ho must seem a stubborn and obdurate man. He is. More than that, he is ruthless, but he has shifted a little.

Two years ago, he outlined the Communist conditions for a Vietnam settlement: withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces from the south, recognition of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front as the sole representative of the southern people, a return to the Geneva armistice agreements, settlement of Vietnamese problems by the Vietnamese without foreign interference.

But early in 1967, Ho indirectly let it be known that the four points were only "the most correct basis" for negotiations; talks could start if the United States unconditionally stopped its attacks on the north.

In a letter replying to a Johnson peace message the first week of February, Ho spelled it out: "If the U.S. government really wants these talks, it must first of all stop unconditionally its bombing raids and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

Finally, Ho is under pressures at home, within his own Lao Dong Workers party. The Chinese wing, led by Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Peoples Congress standing committee, looks with a baleful eye on any moves he makes toward peace. As party secretary general, Truong made a debacle of land reform in 1956-57, had to be removed from his post by Ho. Chinese influence kept him from a worse fate. Now he is strong again and insists on being heard.

RUSSIAN WING

The Russian wing is led by Giap, who shares Ho's more moderate views. He feels the Russians have more to offer the army in modern equipment and know how than do the Chinese. He does not relish a Chinese thumb in the Vietnamese pie.

FRAIL-LOOKING, scholarly Ho Chi Minh, 77-year-old president of North Vietnam, struggles with dilemmas in his battle to achieve his stated aim: A united, independent Vietnam. He must strive to keep a balance as he tries to oust the Americans without letting the Chinese replace them, accept help from both the Soviet Union and Communist China but remain neutral in their power struggle, play his role as leading Communist and also as nationalist for the many Vietnamese who remember how he ended French colonial rule. This drawing of Ho Chi Minh is by AP Newsfeatures artist Dick Hodgins. (AP Newsfeatures)

THE SPIRIT OF St. Louis, which made history 40 years ago when Charles Lindbergh flew it across the Atlantic in the first nonstop New York-Paris flight, has been preserved for history. Here it is suspended in a hall of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. The jump from the air age to the space age is seen in the weather satellite in the case at left and the space capsule at left of the door. This was the capsule in which James McDivitt and Edward H. Poverty 'Slush' And Reds

Of all tax-grabbing frauds ever perpetrated on the people of the United States, the so-called "anti-poverty" program appears, without doubt, to be the worst. Yet, in this mere waste alone, we had not reached the total depth of depravity the program has brought upon us. Added to that waste is the clearly proved fact that some communists in the United States are fattening on the tax money Congress intended to appropriate for the poor.

Out of Baton Rouge, comes a story saying Governor John McKeithen and the Louisiana Legislature have been advised that some individuals connected with the communist conspiracy are taking an active part in the poverty program in Louisiana. If this is true in Louisiana, how much greater must such activity exist in the states in which communism flourishes, such as New York, for instance. Louisiana is relatively free of communists, yet we find them in this state taking a bite out of money presumably appropriated to help the poor.

People long ago gave up the idea that this huge slush fund is being used to help the poor and became aware that it is being used predominantly to pay agents and propagandists of various kinds to spread the "gospel" the national administration wants them to "preach." A little diligence on the part of the administration at least could have weeded out the communist agents but this has not been done.

Opening paragraphs of the story out of Baton Rouge said:

"Governor John McKeithen and the Louisiana Legislature have been advised that newspaper allegations that some individuals connected with the communist conspiracy are taking an active part in the poverty program in the state were found to be true and correct.

"The Louisiana Joint Legislative Committee on Un-American Activities revealed in a documented and illustrated 188 - page report that. . . . If anything, the earlier statements in the press were understatements of the true situation.

"The committee, whose chairman is Senator Jesse M. Knowles of Lake Charles, conducted a hearing into the War on Poverty at Lafayette March 8-9. It found a Southwest Louisiana poverty worker 'actively and openly advocating several points of long-standing communist doctrine' and that a Communist in New Orleans had infiltrated the program in that city."

Commenting on the diversion of most of the anti-poverty money to officials, great numbers of them phony, or mere salary - drawers, columnist Henry J. Taylor said the War on Poverty has bureaucratized itself to include 150 Washington bureaus and 170 separate programs in its confusion. He said:

"We applaud the spangled acrobat who circles the ring standing on the backs of two horses. This acrobat stands on 150.

"Is the war a war or is it a racket?

"The politicians pour out the alibis while we taxpayers pour in the money. But the relief rolls are not decreasing. They are increasing. New York City alone now lists 448,000 on relief, some for the second and third generation. The estimate for next year is 760,000.

"The nationwide effect of politics, vote-buying and special favors to pressure groups is tragically obvious."

Since no public official can openly advocate communism without the government's being aware of it, we must naturally wonder if the communists are one of the pressure groups demanding handouts.

During the Louisiana hearing in Lafayette the legislative committee probed alleged communist influence in the affairs of Acadiana Neuf, the six-parish anti-poverty agency, and the various organizations delegated financial and administrative responsibility for operating the federal program.

A part of the report advised the governor and the legislature that:

"As to the tangled web of poor management and total fiscal irresponsibility inevitably exposed as an incident of our basic inquiry, the committee can only express regret that the 'poor' have been so poorly served. In these days of massive federal audits in minute detail of the income tax reports of a great percentage of our taxpayers, it is a gross anomaly to witness the spending of well over two million dollars of public funds without the slightest degree of responsible control by any agency of the government.

"It is small wonder that the communists and all other manner of opportunists are attracted to the poverty program.

"It is the opinion of the committee that the management of the poverty program funds should be supervised by the state and by people familiar with the problems of the state, instead of being mismanaged by remote 'regional office' people who advocate conflict and trouble in the state."

Without the slighest doubt, it has been shown that the number of people on relief has not decreased but has increased under the poverty program, that most of the money is being gobbled up by politicians, opportunists and communists, that the program is atrociously administered and the tax money of the people of the United States is being wasted on incompetents and actual enemies of the democracy which has made the United States great.

People of this nation should call upon Congress with full force to stop appropriating vast millions for the worst welfare farce ever perpetrated in any country.

Drugs Advance Abroad

Ever hear of these drugs: Vibramycin, Navane and Banminth? Probably not. They were developed and perfected by an American pharmaceutical firm, which holds United States patents on each of them, but are being sold only in other countries. Why? Because it takes several years longer to obtain Food and Drug Administration approval of new medicines than it does to get approval in other countries, even though the drugs are produced by American firms. And it is said to cost $1 million for each new drug that is approved in the United States.

In England and some of the other countries, the cost of new drugs is minimal, with the approval being made by a committee of physicians. It has never been shown that drugs used in England are any less safe than those in the United States.

American-perfected drugs named above are described thus:

Vibramycin: "A highly-potent, broad-spectrum antibiotic launched in Switzerland and Peru during the first quarter of this year."

Navane: "A drug designed for treatment of mental illnesses. Will be introduced in several countries late in the year or early next year."

Banminth: "Recently developed to combat parasites in livestock. Will be marketed in several cattle and sheep-raising nations through summer and fall. Introduction has already been made in the United Kingdom."

Why is the cost of drug approval so huge in the United States and why is approval so slow in coming?

Navane may not even be available to members of the Food and Drug Administration for several years, much less those badly in need of it.

One Cent Sales Tax

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

As a parent and concerned voter in Ouachita Parish, I have some questions about the proposed one-cent sales tax. As I understand this tax it will alleviate only a small part of the need in our schools. Are we to be taxed again when this need again arises? Why can't the schools get the full benefit of this money since it is being proposed for their use? Why must the municipalities get any part and where do they get the idea they are entitled to any of the money raised for the benefit of our children?

How many of the voters are aware that in Ouachita Parish we have only one speech and hearing therapist for the white schools and none at all for the colored schools? Because of the great burden placed on her, she can only work each side of the river on alternate years, this means she sees a child once a month every other year. Yet according to the law we are supposed to have eight therapists just in Ouachita Parish alone. There is approximately 15 per cent of the children now enrolled that have a speech or hearing problem and because of the tremendous cost of private lessons very few are helped. These children suffer far more ways than in just loss of hearing of speech, the emational retardation suffered results in a withdrawn and sometimes delinquent child.

There is such a desperate need for more and better qualified teachers in our schools that I cannot understand why this tax cannot be exclusively for this purpose. The teachers in Louisiana are not only among the lowest paid but the quality of teaching in the parish schools is the poorest that we have found in eight states. Perhaps if we had an adequate salary plan our schools could get and demand better qualified teachers and counselors of which we are in desperate need.

Won't you please put these questions before the people of this parish, I am sure every interested parent wants the best schooling possible for their child.

Blind Corners

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In our city, at the present time, we are in the process of the MYRTLE Cleanup Campaign. This is very good for Monroe.

As a resident and taxpayer, I would like to suggest that we begin this cleanup program by the elimination of our childrens' blood on the streets.

In many areas of our town we have blind corners which have resulted in many bad accidents. I have been very concerned about this problem and have made requests on several occasions that something be done about it — after which the limbing crews would come and take a few branches off trees, etc.

It is my sincere belief that our accident rate would be cut greatly if the trimming could be done at regular intervals on the northside as well as the southside; also, that corner residents be instructed not to plant trees and shrubs on the neutral ground (I understand there is a City Ordinance against this), and that this should be strictly enforced.

I am inclined to believe that most parents love their children as much as I love mine, and would wholeheartedly support any campaign to keep them alive. Because I believe this so strong, I felt compelled to write this letter, which I hope will help bring action.

Charges Wrongdoing

Eads, Tennessee

To the Editor:

Some critics of the Supreme Court have used highway billboards to suggest - "Impeach Earl Warren." These are sometimes defaced by those who use this illegal assault on the property of another to express their own point of view. Most Americans use legal and less subtle ways to express their opinions.

To impeach is to 'bring before the proper tribunal on a charge of wrongdoing'. The charges against the Chief Justice, representing the Court majority, are voluminous, covering many areas, including charges that many decisions have violated the word and spirit of the Constitution and are actually law by Court edict, contradicting, and in violation of the Constitution. These charges come from many responsible sources and there is nothing nefarious or extreme in petitioning for impeachment.

Most recently, Chief Justice Warren has joined the chorus of those who scored Governor Reagan's fiscal program and the firing of University President Clark Kerr. This behavior by a Supreme Court Justice is far out of line. He either does not have a true concept of what is demanded of him or else he does not choose to be guided by it. When he mixes in California politics he violates the ethics of his office. He displays a high degree of incompetence in the high office he occupies.

No Draft For Clay

To the Editor:

On the news last night I watched newsmen crowd around a man trying to get him to say a few words. It made me sick. I know it made every mother who has a son draft age, or a son in service, sick too. I blame the big newsmen as much as Cassius Clay. All he wants is his name bigger and newsmen are making it bigger for him.

They will never put Clay in jail like they would my son if he acted like that.

There is not a mother in West Carroll Parish that does not have a son, brother or cousin in some branch of service, or husband that fought in some war.

What is this world coming to if only the poor working class of people fight for the rich guy?

Wonder what would happen if every draft age man in this country made up a sign like some Negroes do, and march on Washington? Clay is no better than any other man. Wonder how many newsmen would be there trying to get them to make a statement to print? Wonder if my son refused to be drafted would some big shot lawyer defend him, and it would be at least two years before he would go to jail — if then? Maybe the war would be over by then.

I can answer my questions easy. But what makes Clay any better then my son or his dad? Money? Negro? His name in the newspaper? My son's Bible tells him "Thy shall not kill" too. But I hope I never see the day my sons refuse to fight for their country. Their dad fought! They can too!

Divergent Views

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Gov. Wallace, though one may not agree with his views, certainly had a right to express them. Those who are so vociferous in their demands for free speech, no matter how larded with vulgarities, are the very ones who refuse this right to anyone who they fear may express divergent views. (This man was not even given a chance to be heard.) Is this "free speech"? It is the height of absurdity to refuse speech to any who might disagree with you.

Have we now come to the point where violence takes over in our country which was founded on the principles of free speech, among other? It is high time we return to those principles and stop turning over our institutions to those elements who are bent on disruption and destruction. How can any nativeborn American with any pride tolerate this situation? Only a Naturalized American Citizen.

Wanted – Numbers

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Two cars were damaged and two drivers hurt recently near our home because one of the drivers was searching for a house - number which he could not find, and neglected to watch the road.

How many hours and how many gallons of gasoline have been wasted while searching for house - numbers which were not plainly posted. Many stores pay generously for ads, but fail to give their addresses so that people may find them easily.

The Twin Cities are to be commended on the care that has been taken to erect attractive street signs on almost every corner, but owners of homes and stores have not been as thoughtful.

When searching for an address, especially at night, what a joy it is to find a number posted plainly on the house, with a supplemental sign on the parkway. Why not make it easy to find one's home or place of business, instead of requiring a visitor or customer to drive out of his way, perhaps obstructing traffic, while he stops to search for your address?

By putting street numbers on our homes, stores and offices, let's make it easy for our friends and customers to find us. It might prove to be a good investment.

Wants Victory

Glenwood Springs, Colo.

To the Editor:

My only son lost his life in Korea, in a no - win appeasement of the Communists, which has resulted in another no - win war in Viet Nam, which, if allowed to continue, will result in more sons dying in other no-win wars elsewhere in the future.

So, here, we formed a committee, flew a retired Marine Lt. General from the East to speak, held a Victory in Viet Nam Rally which voted to send the Prseident the followig telegram:

"(1) In loyalty to our fighting American sons dying in Viet Nam — 200 each week — stop trading with and aiding the Soviet communists now supplying 80 per cent of the munitions killing our men. (2) Blockade or destroy Haiphong through which flow the Soviet munitions killing our men. (3) Go all out, short of using nuclear weapons, to win this war and bring our boys home. We are opposed to further appeasement."

Petitions were also signed by the Rally requesting our two Senators and Representative to introduce resolutions stating that the telegram represents the sense of the Senate and the House.

Too long have the headlines and TV coverage been cornered by the Vietniks, the Communist appeasers, the fearmongers, and the handful of weathervane politicians who cater to this un-American rabble and who have swallowed the Communist line, hook and sinker. It is high time that the solid patriotic desire of the American people to win this war and get out of Viet Nam be heard in the press and on the air.

So I am asking the editors of the country to print the story of this Rally and its telegram and petitions, and then to hand this letter to some unfrightenable citizen and suggest that he do what we did here. There is no politics in it; all organizations can join in a true grassroots rally. It will take a hundred rallies and telegrams to impress the President. We did it in our town; what's to stop you from doing it too?

Fear motivates the opposition and prevents otherwise supporters from standing up to be counted. But what if George Washington had feared British reprisal? What if the men of Lexington and Concord and Bunker Hill had played it safe by staying home? Would we have won our freedom? Can we keep it now by cowardice instead of courage?

I failed to fight for my dead son, but I'm not going to have my two grandsons, now about to be drafted, reproach me from their graves as my son does. I can say, "I tried; I did my best. WHAT WILL YOU BE ABLE TO SAY.

Romney Rides Again

Monroe La.

To the Editor:

The illustrious Governor of Michigan, the Honorable George Romney, has once again come forth with his ideas concerning the 1968 Presidentaial Race . . . . relative to a third party movement. Once again, this writer feels that the illustrious Governor has proven that he really doesn't need to be nominated by the Republicans, in 1968, to run for President.

Mr. Romney, in a statement made recently in Atlanta, Georgia, expressed himself as being opposed to a third party movement. He stated that such movements proved to be futile and that he thought that the South would repudiate any attempt by a third party in 1968 to run a Presidential nominee. It is assumed, at this point, that the illustrious Mr. Romney was referring to the former Governor of Alabama, the Honorable George C. Wallace. It would be well to note that about the only thing in common these two gentlemen have is that they possess the same first name. . George. . .and that would be it. Romney's statement should come as no surprise and the fact he said the South would repudiate such a move is purely hypocritical in that he has contempt for the South and always has, in the judgement of this writer.

The illustrious Governor of Michigan fancies himself as an enlightend politician and - or statesman and refers to himself as a Modern, Progressive, Liberal, Moderate and Practical politician. I would surmise that the gentleman is actually suffering from illusions of grandeur and has lost contact with reality. I contend that Mr. Romney is, as so many other Liberals are, very much afraid of Mr. Wallace in that the latter has a reputation for speaking his mind and giving forth honest answers to questions put before him. Mr. Wallace has already answered with complete frankness and sincerity. . . . . this is admirable in anyone. . . . . and let's face it . . .the Liberal establishment has a reputation for just the opposite.

In conclusion, this writer feels that the illustrious Governor of Michigan would do this nation a much better service by remaining in his present position. If the voters of Michigan want him . . that is their business. . . .and they can most certainly have him. It is evident that having Mr. Romney in the White House would only prove to be a repeat of what we have been having since 1932 and although this writer wasn't alive in 1932. . .he was alive in 1940 hence and he can truthfully say that he has had enough. It is time for a Conservative to be in the White House and I can think of no better person to fit that bill than the Honorable Ronald Reagan, Governor of California.

Clearness Is Greatest Writing Commandment

THE STUDENT editors had come from a dozen Southeastern colleges to swap suggestions and receive awards; and now we were assembled on a white verandah, with a spring rain drenching the boxwoods, and the talk turned easily to shop talk.

All of the young writers had read E. B. White's "Elements of Style," and most of them had browsed in Fowler's "Modern English Usage." They had profited from Ernest Gowers and Ivor Brown and from courses redundantly styled "creative writing." They put the question to me, as a visiting newspaperman: Would I give them my own set of rules, with a few random examples thrown in, for writing newspaper copy? It was a temptation not to be resisted.

I pass these rules along here, for whatever value they may have to fellow workers in the carpentry of words. Every editor in the land could add some admonitions of his own.

1. BE CLEAR. This is the first and greatest commandment. In a large sense, nothing else matters. For clarity embraceth all things: the clear thought to begin with; the right words for conveying that thought; the orderly arrangement of the words. It is a fine thing, now and then, to be colorful, to be vivid, to be bold. First be clear.

2. Love words, and treat them with respect. For words are the edged tools of your trade; you must keep them honed. Do not infer when you mean to imply; do not write fewer than, when you mean less than. Do not use among, when you mean between. Observe that continually and continuously have different meanings. Do not write alternately when you mean alternatively. Tints are light; shades are dark. The blob on the gallery wall is not an abstract. Beware the use of literally, virtually, fulsome, replica, many-faceted, and the lion's share. Pinch - hitters are something more than substitutes. Learn the rules of that and which, when you fall into the pit of "and which," climb out of your swampy sentence and begin anew.

3. AS A GENERAL proposition, use familiar words. Be precise; but first be understood. Search for the solid nouns that bear the weight of thought. Use active verbs that hit an object and do not glance off. When you find an especially gaudy word, possessed of a gorgeous rhinestone glitter, lock it firmly away. Such words are costume jewels. They are sham.

4. EDIT YOUR copy; then edit it again; then edit it once more. This is the hand - rubbing process. No tough sand - papering can replace it.

5. Strike the redundant word. Emergencies are inherently acute; crises are grave; consideration is serious. When you exhort your readers to get down to basic fundamentals, you are dog - paddling about in a pool of ideas and do not know where to touch bottom. Beware the little qualifying words: rather, somewhat, pretty, very. As White says, these are the leeches that suck the meaning out of language. Pluck them from your copy.

6. Have no fear of repetition. It is better to repeat a word than to send an orphan antecedent in its place. Do not write horsehide, white pellet, or the old apple when you mean baseball. Members of City Council are not solons; they are members of City Council. If you must write banana four times, then write banana four times; nothing is gained by three bananas and one elongated yellow fruit.

7. IF YOU cannot be obviously profound, try not to be profoundly obvious. Therefore, do not inform your reader that something remains to be seen. The thought will have occurred to him already.

8. Strive for a reasoned perspective. True crises come infrequently; few actions are outrageous; cities and economies are seldom paralyzed for long. A two - alarm fire is not a holocaust. Not much is imperative or urgent; still less is vital. To get at the size of a crowd, divide the cop's estimate by 3.1416.

9. Style depends in part upon the cadence of your prose. Therefore listen to your copy with a fine - tuned ear. In the prose that truly pleases you will find that every sentence has an unobstrusive rhythm that propels it on its way. With a little re-arranging you can keep the rhythm going. But do not do this always; you may sound like Hiawatha.

10. Beware of long sentences; they spread roots that tend to trip the reader up. The period key lies nicely on the bottom row of your machine, down toward the right-hand end. Use it. Use it often.

"The politicians pour out the alibis while we taxpayers pour in the money. But the relief rolls are not decreasing. They are increasing. New York City alone now lists 448,000 on relief, some for the second and third generation. The estimate for next year is 760,000.

"The nationwide effect of politics, vote-buying and special favors to pressure groups is tragically obvious."

Since no public official can openly advocate communism without the government's being aware of it, we must naturally wonder if the communists are one of the pressure groups demanding handouts.

During the Louisiana hearing in Lafayette the legislative committee probed alleged communist influence in the affairs of Acadiana Neuf, the six-parish anti-poverty agency, and the various organizations delegated financial and administrative responsibility for operating the federal program.

A part of the report advised the governor and the legislature that:

"As to the tangled web of poor management and total fiscal irresponsibility inevitably exposed as an incident of our basic inquiry, the committee can only express regret that the 'poor' have been so poorly served. In these days of massive federal audits in minute detail of the income tax reports of a great percentage of our taxpayers, it is a gross anomaly to witness the spending of well over two million dollars of public funds without the slightest degree of responsible control by any agency of the government.

"It is small wonder that the communists and all other manner of opportunists are attracted to the poverty program.

"It is the opinion of the committee that the management of the poverty program funds should be supervised by the state and by people familiar with the problems of the state, instead of being mismanaged by remote 'regional office' people who advocate conflict and trouble in the state."

Without the slighest doubt, it has been shown that the number of people on relief has not decreased but has increased under the poverty program, that most of the money is being gobbled up by politicians, opportunists and communists, that the program is atrociously administered and the tax money of the people of the United States is being wasted on incompetents and actual enemies of the democracy which has made the United States great.

People of this nation should call upon Congress with full force to stop appropriating vast millions for the worst welfare farce ever perpetrated in any country.

Drugs Advance Abroad

Ever hear of these drugs: Vibramycin, Navane and Banminth? Probably not. They were developed and perfected by an American pharmaceutical firm, which holds United States patents on each of them, but are being sold only in other countries. Why? Because it takes several years longer to obtain Food and Drug Administration approval of new medicines than it does to get approval in other countries, even though the drugs are produced by American firms. And it is said to cost $1 million for each new drug that is approved in the United States.

In England and some of the other countries, the cost of new drugs is minimal, with the approval being made by a committee of physicians. It has never been shown that drugs used in England are any less safe than those in the United States.

American-perfected drugs named above are described thus:

Vibramycin: "A highly-potent, broad-spectrum antibiotic launched in Switzerland and Peru during the first quarter of this year."

Navane: "A drug designed for treatment of mental illnesses. Will be introduced in several countries late in the year or early next year."

Banminth: "Recently developed to combat parasites in livestock. Will be marketed in several cattle and sheep-raising nations through summer and fall. Introduction has already been made in the United Kingdom."

Why is the cost of drug approval so huge in the United States and why is approval so slow in coming?

Navane may not even be available to members of the Food and Drug Administration for several years, much less those badly in need of it.

One Cent Sales Tax

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

As a parent and concerned voter in Ouachita Parish, I have some questions about the proposed one-cent sales tax. As I understand this tax it will alleviate only a small part of the need in our schools. Are we to be taxed again when this need again arises? Why can't the schools get the full benefit of this money since it is being proposed for their use? Why must the municipalities get any part and where do they get the idea they are entitled to any of the money raised for the benefit of our children?

How many of the voters are aware that in Ouachita Parish we have only one speech and hearing therapist for the white schools and none at all for the colored schools? Because of the great burden placed on her, she can only work each side of the river on alternate years, this means she sees a child once a month every other year. Yet according to the law we are supposed to have eight therapists just in Ouachita Parish alone. There is approximately 15 per cent of the children now enrolled that have a speech or hearing problem and because of the tremendous cost of private lessons very few are helped. These children suffer far more ways than in just loss of hearing of speech, the emational retardation suffered results in a withdrawn and sometimes delinquent child.

There is such a desperate need for more and better qualified teachers in our schools that I cannot understand why this tax cannot be exclusively for this purpose. The teachers in Louisiana are not only among the lowest paid but the quality of teaching in the parish schools is the poorest that we have found in eight states. Perhaps if we had an adequate salary plan our schools could get and demand better qualified teachers and counselors of which we are in desperate need.

Won't you please put these questions before the people of this parish, I am sure every interested parent wants the best schooling possible for their child.

Blind Corners

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In our city, at the present time, we are in the process of the MYRTLE Cleanup Campaign. This is very good for Monroe.

As a resident and taxpayer, I would like to suggest that we begin this cleanup program by the elimination of our childrens' blood on the streets.

In many areas of our town we have blind corners which have resulted in many bad accidents. I have been very concerned about this problem and have made requests on several occasions that something be done about it — after which the limbing crews would come and take a few branches off trees, etc.

It is my sincere belief that our accident rate would be cut greatly if the trimming could be done at regular intervals on the northside as well as the southside; also, that corner residents be instructed not to plant trees and shrubs on the neutral ground (I understand there is a City Ordinance against this), and that this should be strictly enforced.

I am inclined to believe that most parents love their children as much as I love mine, and would wholeheartedly support any campaign to keep them alive. Because I believe this so strong, I felt compelled to write this letter, which I hope will help bring action.

Charges Wrongdoing

Eads, Tennessee

To the Editor:

Some critics of the Supreme Court have used highway billboards to suggest - "Impeach Earl Warren." These are sometimes defaced by those who use this illegal assault on the property of another to express their own point of view. Most Americans use legal and less subtle ways to express their opinions.

To impeach is to 'bring before the proper tribunal on a charge of wrongdoing'. The charges against the Chief Justice, representing the Court majority, are voluminous, covering many areas, including charges that many decisions have violated the word and spirit of the Constitution and are actually law by Court edict, contradicting, and in violation of the Constitution. These charges come from many responsible sources and there is nothing nefarious or extreme in petitioning for impeachment.

Most recently, Chief Justice Warren has joined the chorus of those who scored Governor Reagan's fiscal program and the firing of University President Clark Kerr. This behavior by a Supreme Court Justice is far out of line. He either does not have a true concept of what is demanded of him or else he does not choose to be guided by it. When he mixes in California politics he violates the ethics of his office. He displays a high degree of incompetence in the high office he occupies.

No Draft For Clay

To the Editor:

On the news last night I watched newsmen crowd around a man trying to get him to say a few words. It made me sick. I know it made every mother who has a son draft age, or a son in service, sick too. I blame the big newsmen as much as Cassius Clay. All he wants is his name bigger and newsmen are making it bigger for him.

They will never put Clay in jail like they would my son if he acted like that.

There is not a mother in West Carroll Parish that does not have a son, brother or cousin in some branch of service, or husband that fought in some war.

What is this world coming to if only the poor working class of people fight for the rich guy?

Wonder what would happen if every draft age man in this country made up a sign like some Negroes do, and march on Washington? Clay is no better than any other man. Wonder how many newsmen would be there trying to get them to make a statement to print? Wonder if my son refused to be drafted would some big shot lawyer defend him, and it would be at least two years before he would go to jail — if then? Maybe the war would be over by then.

I can answer my questions easy. But what makes Clay any better then my son or his dad? Money? Negro? His name in the newspaper? My son's Bible tells him "Thy shall not kill" too. But I hope I never see the day my sons refuse to fight for their country. Their dad fought! They can too!

Divergent Views

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Gov. Wallace, though one may not agree with his views, certainly had a right to express them. Those who are so vociferous in their demands for free speech, no matter how larded with vulgarities, are the very ones who refuse this right to anyone who they fear may express divergent views. (This man was not even given a chance to be heard.) Is this "free speech"? It is the height of absurdity to refuse speech to any who might disagree with you.

Have we now come to the point where violence takes over in our country which was founded on the principles of free speech, among other? It is high time we return to those principles and stop turning over our institutions to those elements who are bent on disruption and destruction. How can any nativeborn American with any pride tolerate this situation?

Only a Naturalized American Citizen.

Wanted – Numbers

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Two cars were damaged and two drivers hurt recently near our home because one of the drivers was searching for a house - number which he could not find, and neglected to watch the road.

How many hours and how many gallons of gasoline have been wasted while searching for house - numbers which were not plainly posted. Many stores pay generously for ads, but fail to give their addresses so that people may find them easily.

The Twin Cities are to be commended on the care that has been taken to erect attractive street signs on almost every corner, but owners of homes and stores have not been as thoughtful.

When searching for an address, especially at night, what a joy it is to find a number posted plainly on the house, with a supplemental sign on the parkway. Why not make it easy to find one's home or place of business, instead of requiring a visitor or customer to drive out of his way, perhaps obstructing traffic, while he stops to search for your address?

By putting street numbers on our homes, stores and offices, let's make it easy for our friends and customers to find us. It might prove to be a good investment.

Wants Victory

Glenwood Springs, Colo.

To the Editor:

My only son lost his life in Korea, in a no - win appeasement of the Communists, which has resulted in another no - win war in Viet Nam, which, if allowed to continue, will result in more sons dying in other no-win wars elsewhere in the future.

So, here, we formed a committee, flew a retired Marine Lt. General from the East to speak, held a Victory in Viet Nam Rally which voted to send the Prseident the followig telegram:

"(1) In loyalty to our fighting American sons dying in Viet Nam — 200 each week — stop trading with and aiding the Soviet communists now supplying 80 per cent of the munitions killing our men. (2) Blockade or destroy Haiphong through which flow the Soviet munitions killing our men. (3) Go all out, short of using nuclear weapons, to win this war and bring our boys home. We are opposed to further appeasement."

Petitions were also signed by the Rally requesting our two Senators and Representative to introduce resolutions stating that the telegram represents the sense of the Senate and the House.

Too long have the headlines and TV coverage been cornered by the Vietniks, the Communist appeasers, the fearmongers, and the handful of weathervane politicians who cater to this un-American rabble and who have swallowed the Communist line, hook and sinker. It is high time that the solid patriotic desire of the American people to win this war and get out of Viet Nam be heard in the press and on the air.

So I am asking the editors of the country to print the story of this Rally and its telegram and petitions, and then to hand this letter to some unfrightenable citizen and suggest that he do what we did here. There is no politics in it; all organizations can join in a true grassroots rally. It will take a hundred rallies and telegrams to impress the President. We did it in our town; what's to stop you from doing it too?

Fear motivates the opposition and prevents otherwise supporters from standing up to be counted. But what if George Washington had feared British reprisal? What if the men of Lexington and Concord and Bunker Hill had played it safe by staying home? Would we have won our freedom? Can we keep it now by cowardice instead of courage?

I failed to fight for my dead son, but I'm not going to have my two grandsons, now about to be drafted, reproach me from their graves as my son does. I can say, "I tried; I did my best. WHAT WILL YOU BE ABLE TO SAY.

Romney Rides Again

Monroe La.

To the Editor:

The illustrious Governor of Michigan, the Honorable George Romney, has once again come forth with his ideas concerning the 1968 Presidentaial Race . . . . relative to a third party movement. Once again, this writer feels that the illustrious Governor has proven that he really doesn't need to be nominated by the Republicans, in 1968, to run for President.

Mr. Romney, in a statement made recently in Atlanta, Georgia, expressed himself as being opposed to a third party movement. He stated that such movements proved to be futile and that he thought that the South would repudiate any attempt by a third party in 1968 to run a Presidential nominee. It is assumed, at this point, that the illustrious Mr. Romney was referring to the former Governor of Alabama, the Honorable George C. Wallace. It would be well to note that about the only thing in common these two gentlemen have is that they possess the same first name. . George. . .and that would be it. Romney's statement should come as no surprise and the fact he said the South would repudiate such a move is purely hypocritical in that he has contempt for the South and always has, in the judgement of this writer.

The illustrious Governor of Michigan fancies himself as an enlightend politician and - or statesman and refers to himself as a Modern, Progressive, Liberal, Moderate and Practical politician. I would surmise that the gentleman is actually suffering from illusions of grandeur and has lost contact with reality. I contend that Mr. Romney is, as so many other Liberals are, very much afraid of Mr. Wallace in that the latter has a reputation for speaking his mind and giving forth honest answers to questions put before him. Mr. Wallace has already answered with complete frankness and sincerity. . . . . this is admirable in anyone. . . . . and let's face it . . .the Liberal establishment has a reputation for just the opposite.

In conclusion, this writer feels that the illustrious Governor of Michigan would do this nation a much better service by remaining in his present position. If the voters of Michigan want him . . that is their business. . . .and they can most certainly have him. It is evident that having Mr. Romney in the White House would only prove to be a repeat of what we have been having since 1932 and although this writer wasn't alive in 1932. . .he was alive in 1940 hence and he can truthfully say that he has had enough. It is time for a Conservative to be in the White House and I can think of no better person to fit that bill than the Honorable Ronald Reagan, Governor of California.

"But this thing commanded I them, saying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people: and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you." Jeremiah 7:34

Here is a condition and a promise that we cannot afford to ignore if we are to live happy and fruitful lives.

JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Clearness Is Greatest Writing Commandment

THE STUDENT editors had come from a dozen Southeastern colleges to swap suggestions and receive awards; and now we were assembled on a white verandah, with a spring rain drenching the boxwoods, and the talk turned easily to shop talk.

All of the young writers had read E. B. White's "Elements of Style," and most of them had browsed in Fowler's "Modern English Usage." They had profited from Ernest Gowers and Ivor Brown and from courses redundantly styled "creative writing." They put the question to me, as a visiting newspaperman: Would I give them my own set of rules, with a few random examples thrown in, for writing newspaper copy? It was a temptation not to be resisted.

I pass these rules along here, for whatever value they may have to fellow workers in the carpentry of words. Every editor in the land could add some admonitions of his own.

1. BE CLEAR. This is the first and greatest commandment. In a large sense, nothing else matters. For clarity embraceth all things: the clear thought to begin with; the right words for conveying that thought; the orderly arrangement of the words. It is a fine thing, now and then, to be colorful, to be vivid, to be bold. First be clear.

2. Love words, and treat them with respect. For words are the edged tools of your trade; you must keep them honed. Do not infer when you mean to imply; do not write fewer than, when you mean less than. Do not use among, when you mean between. Observe that continually and continuously have different meanings. Do not write alternately when you mean alternatively. Tints are light; shades are dark. The blob on the gallery wall is not an abstract. Beware the use of literally, virtually, fulsome, replica, many-faceted, and the lion's share. Pinch - hitters are something more than substitutes. Learn the rules of that and which, when you fall into the pit of "and which," climb out of your swampy sentence and begin anew.

3. AS A GENERAL proposition, use familiar words. Be precise; but first be understood. Search for the solid nouns that bear the weight of thought. Use active verbs that hit an object and do not glance off. When you find an especially gaudy word, possessed of a gorgeous rhinestone glitter, lock it firmly away. Such words are costume jewels. They are sham.

4. EDIT YOUR copy; then edit it again; then edit it once more. This is the hand - rubbing process. No tough sand - papering can replace it.

5. Strike the redundant word. Emergencies are inherently acute; crises are grave; consideration is serious. When you exhort your readers to get down to basic fundamentals, you are dog - paddling about in a pool of ideas and do not know where to touch bottom. Beware the little qualifying words: rather, somewhat, pretty, very. As White says, these are the leeches that suck the meaning out of language. Pluck them from your copy.

6. Have no fear of repetition. It is better to repeat a word than to send an orphan antecedent in its place. Do not write horsehide, white pellet, or the old apple when you mean baseball. Members of City Council are not solons; they are members of City Council. If you must write banana four times, then write banana four times; nothing is gained by three bananas and one elongated yellow fruit.

7. IF YOU cannot be obviously profound, try not to be profoundly obvious. Therefore, do not inform your reader that something remains to be seen. The thought will have occurred to him already.

8. Strive for a reasoned perspective. True crises come infrequently; few actions are outrageous; cities and economies are seldom paralyzed for long. A two - alarm fire is not a holocaust. Not much is imperative or urgent; still less is vital. To get at the size of a crowd, divide the cop's estimate by 3.1416.

9. Style depends in part upon the cadence of your prose. Therefore listen to your copy with a fine - tuned ear. In the prose that truly pleases you will find that every sentence has an unobstrusive rhythm that propels it on its way. With a little re-arranging you can keep the rhythm going. But do not do this always; you may sound like Hiawatha.

10. Beware of long sentences; they spread roots that tend to trip the reader up. The period key lies nicely on the bottom row of your machine, down toward the right-hand end. Use it. Use it often.

Senator Soaper Says

A cabinet level official to deal with the crisis of food and people is proposed. Why not just lump agriculture, defense, state and everything else into one job and appoint a Secretary of Crisis?

Sunday Thought

If there is righteousness in the heart,
there will be beauty in the character.
If there is beauty in the character,
there will be harmony in the home.
If there is harmony in the home,
there will be order in the nation.
When there is order in the nation,
there will be peace in the world.

From A Dead Marine

Among the Marines who are fighting and dying in Vietnam for the no-goods such as Martin Luther King, Stokley Carmichael and Cassius Clay was Lance Corporal John Clark, 3rd Batt., 7th Marines, First Marine Division, who was killed in action on March 6 in Vietnam. His last wish, according to friends, was to have a poem published he had written. It was recently published in the Foxboro, Mass. Reporter and was passed on to us by William B. Lillyman, director of the Monroe Civic Center, who is originally from Foxboro. We reprint the poem here:

Ode To Cassius?

Take a man, then put him alone,
Put him twelve thousand miles from home.
Empty his heart of all but blood,
Make him live in sweat and mud,
This is the life we have to live
And why my soul to God I gave.
But you don't know what it's like over here,
I'm already here and know it's too late.
You have a ball without even trying,
While we over here are dying.
You burn your draft cards, march at dawn,
Plant your signs on the White House lawn.
You all want to ban the bomb,
There's no real war in Vietnam?
Use your drugs and have your fun,
And then refuse to use a gun,
There's nothing else for you to do,
And I'm supposed to die for you?
There is one thing you don't know,
And that's where I think you should go.
You go have your parties and drink your beer,
While I have traded my love for hate.
I'll hate you till the day I die,
You made me hear my buddy cry.
I saw his arm a bloody shred,
I heard them say, this one is dead.
It's a large price to have to pay,
Not to live another day.
He had the guts to fight and die.
He paid the price, but what did he buy?
By his dying your life he buys,
But who gives a damn when the soldier dies?
His wife does, his parents, and sons,
But they are about the only ones.

Again it is hard to understand why the federal government, including President Johnson, permits the likes of King, Carmichael and Clay to get away with the things they say and do.

Let a hard-working real American make a $1 mistake on his income tax and the government is ready to put him under the jail. But people like those three can preach outright treason and nothing is done.

War Protest

In this connection, thousands of Negro and Puerto Rican high school students will be enlisted in a major civil disobedience campaign against the Vietnam war this summer if plans of James Bevel, who terms himself as a reverend, bear fruit.

Bevel, who had been King's right-hand organization man for years, left his Southern Christian Leadership Conference in January and now heads the Spring Mobilization Committee, which sponsored the peace marches in New York and San Francisco.

Now his committee and other associated and sordid groups are out to persuade the Negro and Puerto Rican teenagers to go to jail rather than submit to the draft.

To the many so-called Negro leaders who have expressed doubt that the high school action program will work, Bevel retorts, "I think President Johnson is an intelligent man and will stop the war as a result of the protests."

Another Protest Form

Right along this same line, and supporting a similar cause — although they may be too unenlightened to realize it, women across the nation have purchased more than 100,000 of the Mother's Day cards being sold by a group called "Another Mother for Peace."

The cards, which note that "For My Mother's Day Gift this year, I don't want candy or flowers. I want an end to the killing," are intended to be sent to the President and members of Congress.

The card closes with the plea, "Please talk Peace."

It is hard to understand their reasoning. Most Americans want peace — but not at the price it seemingly would take. This country has talked peace — too much of it — and North Vietnam won't buy any part of it.

It is long past the time to dilly-dally around with the war. Let's go all out and win it — that will be the quickest way to end the killing.

HOW TRUE — It is hard to believe that a man is telling the truth when you know you would lie if you were in his place.

WHOSE FLAG IS BURNED: They finally arrested one of those flag burners and it happened in Chicago. They hauled this fellow in on a disorderly conduct charge. It had reached the point that the country had about decided that authorities didn't care when the wierdos doused our National Emblem with gasoline and then set it ablaze. But the Chicago incident clarified matters. It was the French Flag that was burned, in retaliation for the way a French mob burned an American flag. And Chicago authorities moved in and arrested the flag burner. We don't believe any of them that have burned an American flag has been arrested as yet — or at least convicted.

Teenage Culture

A lot of parents won't believe it, but law enforcement agencies and courts probably can verify it with facts and figures, today's teen-agers, or the vast majority of them, probably will stack up as the worst in this nation's history.

Go in any school or talk to various police officials. There is more cheating, more drinking, and more unholy activities than most people can imagine. Yet woe is the teacher or the officer that dares to call attention to this fact about junior or "my wonderful little girl." The parents quickly get into the act with "how dare you upset my child like that."

If you think this is too harsh an indictment, read a particular section of the report, "The Challenge of Crime in a Free Society." This is the study by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and should be must reading for parents. It deals with juvenile delinquency, and it presents with keen perception the problems of youth that often lead children, even those of good families, from good neighborhoods, into serious trouble.

It says:

"One way of looking at delinquency is in the context of the 'teenage culture' that was developed in America since the Second World War. In America in the 1960's, to perhaps a greater extent than in any other place or time, adolescents live in a distinct society of their own. It is not an easy society to understand, to describe, or, for that matter, to live in. In some ways it is an intensely materialistic society; its members, perhaps in unconscious imitation of their elders, are preoccupied with physical objects like clothes and cars, and indeed have been encouraged in this preoccupation by manufacturers who have discovered how profitable the adolescent market is. In some ways, it is an intensely moralistic society; its members are preoccupied with independence and honesty and equality and courage. On the whole it is a rebellious, oppositional society, dedicated to the proposition that the grownup world is a sham. At the same time it is a conforming society; being inexperienced, unsure of themselves, and, in fact, relatively powerless as individuals, adolescents to a far greater extent than their elders conform to common standards of dress and hair style and speech, and act jointly, in groups — or gangs.

"Adolescents everywhere, from every walk of life, are often dangerous to themselves and to others. It may be a short step from distrusting authority to taking the law into one's hands, from self-absorption to contempt for the rights of others, from group loyalty to gang warfare, from getting "kicks" to rampaging through the streets, from coveting material goods to stealing them, from feelings of rebellion to acts of destruction. . . . . "

That is as thoughtful a recitation of the story behind today's headlines as we have seen anywhere. And if adolescents think "the grownup world is a sham," then we have our work cut out for us, don't we?

The World's Week In Focus

Long's Filibuster, Tactics Affront Senate

By Oland Silk

LAST WEEK George Wallace went to New England and Gov. George Romney went to Atlanta. Both are undeclared candidates for the presidency. Wallace deplored the lack of quality leadership in both parties, Romney told his southern audiences that they should not attach their wagon to a "fallen star" (Wallace) and urged defeat of a third party movement headed by the former Alabama governor.

Wallace's reception was stormy. Southerners treated Republican Romney with courtesy. While the two ambitious but undeclared aspirants went about the business of making friends, a New York beatnik named Louis Abolafia tossed his hat (or was it banana?) into the ring. The stage for his presidential bid consisted of a "Cosmic Love Convention, a 72-hour Freakathon for Hippies and Saints." Abolafia said if he became president he would set up cultural centers throughout the country and attempt to spread love around the world.

LOVE — even understanding — was a rare item on news wires last week. Clearly, Abolafia has his work cut out for him.

Major scenes of conflict outside of Vietnam included 1) the United States Senate 2) Sacramento, California 3) Hanover, New Hampshire 4) Columbia University and 5) Louisville, Kentucky.

Senate troubles were pegged to Senator Russell Long's filibuster to save his campaign fund act, which he considers his greatest legislative achievement; and, Republican division over Vietnam policy. The Senate has always been known for its clubbiness. Last week a chill born of intense aggravation settled over the membership.

FOES OF the Long Act dealt the Louisianan a stinging setback Tuesday when the Senate voted 52 to 46 against his bid to overturn repeal of the law. This represented his third defeat against two victories. On Long's side were 46 Democrats; opposed were all 35 Republicans, joined by 17 Democrats.

Undaunted, Long said maybe this was only the end of the first quarter of the ball game.

His filibuster and what some critics termed bullying tactics set off bitter verbal thrusts from both sides. Consider this high-toned attack by Senator Frank Lausche, D-Ohio.

SAID THE Ohioan, he viewed Long's early battle as commendable, but "what I described as a virtue then, is today a vice. I refuse to concede that the senator from Louisiana has infallible judgment, that he alone knows what is right." He accused Long of attempting to convince "what Senator Long wants" is what is good for the Senate. Undismayed, Long made plans to keep the Senate stalled until he could devise a new strategy or subsidy plan.

HE CONSIDERED offering a variation of the law. It would allow a taxpayer to notify the Treasury he wanted $1 of his income tax payment used as a contribution to a presidential candidate. The Treasury would issue the taxpayer a voucher which he could turn over to the candidate of his choice. The candidate then could cash it for $1 at the Treasury. To qualify, a candidate would have to get two million votes. Under the present law, a taxpayer would simply donate $1 to a presidential campaign fund, to be divided between the two major candidates. This system would produce about $60 million every four years.

Senator Russell Long
. . . hard to convince

Some idea of how strongly Long feels about his brainchild is evident in this comment: "The stakes are enormously high. This plan will do more to clean up corruption than anything that has been done in the last century in American government."

Complicating Long's relations with his colleagues was his stirring defense of Senator Thomas Dodd, Connecticut Democrat under threat of Senate censure for misuse of testimonial dinner funds and double billing on travel.

LONG, AN 18-year Senate veteran and assistant leader of that body, made the offhand observation that half the senators on the Ethics Committee (which recommended censure of Dodd) could not stand the kind of inquiry he was subjected to. He expanded this to include half the Senate. Needless to say, this was not the best way to make friends and influence legislators. Long later apologized profusely, saying he meant the group used too-high standards in judging his friend Dodd. That he himself might not pass such an investigation.

THE LONG Act was almost forgotten as the scene shifted from the subsidy fight to Dodd's troubles. Whatever the outcome in his case, the concensus around the Senate — as reported by Jack Bell of AP — was that Senator Long, in supporting Dodd, was "following a lonely road with dangerous political crossings ahead." No one faults Long for standing up for a friend, Bell wrote, but his manner of defense was objectionable.

Dodd, meantime, began his defense before the Senate. He attacked the claim that he double-billed — the government and private sources — for travel expenste. He blamed his ex-bookkeeper. Senators remained unmoved. Ethics Vice Chairman Wallace Bennett countered that there was a pattern to Dodd's double-billing that bore an indisputable connotation of deliberate intent.

Soothing Syrup

A LESS - rowdy Senate dispute involved Republicans. The issue was Vietnam — how to treat the issue in the upcoming election year.

A Republican Policy Committee hoped to produce a study that would weld party members to some kind of agreement about Vietnam and President Johnson's handling of the war, the idea being that GOP unity would look good up against well-publicized Democratic disunity. Well, it didn't quite work out that way.

THE report was written and circulated. But it seemed too critical of Administration policy, much too partisan to suit Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen. He of the wayword locks and pipe-organ voice climbed out of a hospital bed to lecture a closed meeting of the Policy Committee. He mixed stern warnings about the political liabilities acruing from questioning the commander in chief's basic direction of the bloody conflict. As usual, Dirksen mixed rebuke with soothing syrup. The committee docilely followed his lead — to stand "foursquare" behind the President, but preserving the "right of full and fair inquiry and criticism."

REPUBLICAN Hawks and Doves remained skeptical. Instead of creating unity, the staff report merely left Republicans where they were before — divided, just like the Democrats. Dirksen's syrup had its effect, but some Senate pancakes remained untouched.

And now for George Wallace's New Hampshire welcome.

THE peppery former governor of Alabama was coolly received in the New Hampshire legislature. He addressed high school students only after agreeing to steer clear of politics. The most hostile greeting occurred at Dartmouth College where demonstrating Negroes and whites drove him off the stage.

WALLACE came back finally to finish his speech. All was not lost. A good many cheered the fiery little states righter. On leaving, however, his automobile was surrounded by a crowd of several thousand students. Those closest pounded on the roof and rocked the car. They tore off the aerial. Bodyguards and police drilled their way through the crowd and got the car clear after about five minutes. Shaken but unhurt, Wallace later mused that the pacifists and advocates of academic freedom at Dartmouth could get somebody killed.

DARTMOUTH formally apologized to Wallace for the incident. Dean Thaddeus Symoure said the majority at the college felt that a man's opinions deserve a free and unobstructed platform.

IN SACRAMENTO, a deadly incident was somehow averted when 26 Negroes bearing loaded guns burst into the Capitol at high noon. The sudden, violent intrusion disrupted the legislative session and a picnic which Gov. Reagan planned with eighth-grade pupils. All 26 were arrested, disarmed, and booked by a stunned police force. Weapons seized included pistols, rifles and shotguns.

The Negroes, who called themselves the "Black Panthers," said they were protesting against "racist Oakland police" and a bill before the session that would outlaw the carrying of loaded weapons in public. California law now permits the carrying of firearms so long as they aren't concealed. Another law, primarily aimed at errant hunters, prohibits carrying a loaded weapon in a vehicle.

LEGISLATORS opened an investigation into the incident. One item on the agenda was the viewing of a film showing 40 Negroes roaming the Capitol with loaded guns.

Racial trouble in Louisville stemmed from Negro efforts to get open housing and plans to disrupt the Kentucky Derby. This morning's headlines should tell more about that.

Pulitzer Row

THE PULITZER Prize Advisory Board of Columbia University overruled -- which it has a perfect right to do — a panel's recommendation that Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times be honored for international reportng. Salisbury is the veteran journalist who went to Hanoi and wrote what turned out to be controversial articles about American bombing policy. Instead, the board named John Hughes of the Christian Science Monitor for his reporting of the Indonesian crisis. This caused a mild flap. Anti-Salisbury judges noted two inaccuracies as reasons for their refusal to vote for him. Salisbury was unperturbed.

Edward Albee, the four-letter-word dramatist, won for his play, "A Delicate Balance." He modestly stated that he privately regarded it as his second Pulitzer Prize since he felt he should have received one for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolff?" Albee rapped the prize as being in decline due to anxieties over awarding it to controversial works. No one thought to ask him if he thought controversy always denoted merit.

IN OTHER domestic developments:

San Francisco police raided a Baker street apartment, arresting 14 persons and seizing $250,000 in methedrine. The chemical is a brain stimulant that produces euphoria. A narcotics inspector said, "In 20 years I've never seen this much dangerous drugs in one lot." One ounce of the stuff brings $25 in Hiaght Ashbury and Tenderloin districts.

Elsewhere in California, month-long saturation rains and killing frost dealt the state's agricultural industry a $4 billion blow. Eastern California held the threat of potential disaster as unusually deep spring mountain snowbanks, some 20-feet thick, looked down from the Sierras. Migrants have went jobless, often sleeping under bridges, on levees, and on doorsteps.

The picture in Florida was starkly different. The state cried for rain. Only a trace has fallen along the peninsula this year. This is 30 to 40 per cent below normal. Key West rationed water, and Miami weighed the idea of banning car washing and lawn sprinkling. Moreover, the Everglades waterholes were dry, threatening starvation to animals. Baptists prayed for the Lord 'to heal their land." Weathermen peeked at their radars and saw no moisture in sight.

CASSIUS CLAY refused to accept induction into the Army, and was immediately stripped of his heavyweight championship by the World Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission. Clay claims as Muhamad Ali, a Black Muslim minister, he is entitled to objection since war contradicts his faith.

PRESIDENT Johnson proposed establishment of machinery to block any rail strike until at least 1969. His plans called for creation of a five-member board to try mediating the shopcraft dispute, with a compulsory settlement to be invoked at 90 days if necessary.

Unions seeking higher pay from the railroads denounced the move as compulsory arbitration. The chairman of the House Commerce Committee, meantime, predicted a stormy session Tuesday when his panel takes up the proposal.

After only eight months of life, in which time its losses ran to $700,000 a month, the New York World Journal Tribune closed, victim, the owners said, of of a union philosophy of "pay or shut down." Matt Meyer, W-J-T president, blamed 55 harassing labor disputes, 18 of which resulted in actual work stoppages, for the shutdown. This, coupled with a new city wage pattern.

Troop Pullout

The United States will bring home 35,000 soldiers and airmen from Europe next year. The largest contingent will come from Bavaria where the U. S. 24th Division and its 24,000 men are now stationed. Seven thousand airmen from scattered units were also marked for recall.

The final withdrawal figures were worked out in tripartite talks with West Germany and Britain. It will mean a 15 per cent reduction of the 260,000-man American force in Europe.

Washington said it hopes the Soviets will follow suit and reduce Warsaw Pact strength, but had no plans to make such a suggestion. Assurances were given that the United States cutback would not affect the combat potential of the 7th Army in Germany.

President Johnson in a surprise news conference, said no decision is imminent on whether to send more troops to Vietnam. However, he indicated, such proposals are in the works

On the subject of dissent, Johnson played it low key — he "regretted" that anyone would ask the young people of the country not to serve in the armed forces. Likewise, he "deplored" and "disagreed with folks who burn our flag. . ."

AMERICAN Marines tangled with an elite Hanoi division for possession of Hill 881, overlooking the key Communist infiltration routes to the South. They took it Friday, leaving nearly 1,000 dead or wounded while killing 1,000 of the enemy over a 12-day period. Two other border peaks figured in the marathon battle.

Eleven MIGs were destroyed on the ground and three in the air in the largest U. S. air action of the war. Former West Point football hero, Col. Robin Olds, became the first American pilot to shoot down two Communist MIG jet interceptors in Vietnam. Olds shot down 24 German planes in World War II.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

World Staff Writer

Despite our great neighbor Texas, taxes probably never will be popular enough to inspire the naming of a state. Three separate taxes, however, were claiming enough attention last week to capture the Lion's share of local news headlines.

Much in the news for well over a year, the northeast Louisiana sales tax, despite some fascinating twists, generally took a back seat, leaving the spotlight temporarily to two school maintenance tax issues. Both came to simultaneous climaxes in elections Saturday.

Indeed, readers whose cup of tea is education had a brimming vessel from which to sip. The Monroe and Ouachita Parish school systems, sending out assignment forms, were moving to their dates with desegregation in September, against a backdrop of meetings with legal advisors.

Meanwhile, the college news spectrum was broad, ranging from disclosure that Northeast Louisiana State and Louisiana Tech will be considered for university status by the Legislature starting Monday, to the destruction or damage of 14 phones at Northeast and discovery of two girls in a men's dormitory.

The range of other news was equally broad — a leading local figure announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor, a major new local interchange on the I-20 got its go-ahead, a district judge fined himself for contempt of court, and the annual meeting of the Louisiana Municipal Association ran its course in New Orleans.

BIG TAX NEWS

As previously hinted, the week's big news was the stretch drive as the City of Monroe and Ouachita Parish school systems pushed Saturday for local maintenance revenues of 12 and seven mills, respectively — boosts of five mills and two mills.

Naturally, at this writing late Friday, reports on Saturday elections are risky at best, though the area has a history of supporting education. Both issues were expected to pass — the city tax a good deal more handily than the parish, since the latter collided with organized opposition.

Meeting Tuesday night behind closed doors for a talk about desegregation with Dist. Atty. Albin P. Lassiter, the parish school board emerged to find a leaflet opposing its maintenance tax posted on the bulletin board. The leaflets — citing the ancient issues of city-dwelling children in parish schools and city-dwellers on the school board — continued to turn up through the remainder of the week.

They were given substantial circulation Thursday night at a local address by Plaquemines Parish segregationist leader Leander Perez and tied in neatly with a call by the speaker for defeat of any tax to support integrated school systems.

Ouachita Supt. Milton C. Hall, on the surface at least, remained unflappable, however, gently pointing to each charge on the floating leaflets as "legal issues, not educational issues." Hall said "the way to change the system is to change the law." He had no direct reply to the Perez posture, but he had noted on the day of the talk that defeat of the tax, leaving the system only a constitutional levy of five mills on which to operate, would mean that "only the children would suffer."

Mechanically, the two elections Saturday were expected to run smoothly discounting early concern over a new state law requiring proof at the polls of property ownership and amount of assessment. Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita voter registrar, completed in time for both votes list of qualified property owners and affidavits, on which voters could attest ownership and assessment amount, were available for those unlisted or without tax receipts.

Officials were counting on large turnouts, in contrast to the lack of interest shown in absentee voting which ended the Saturday before the election. Only four absentee ballots were cast — one in the parish vote, three in the city.

NEW CHALLENGE

Thus did the maintenance taxes come to their respective forks in the road. A fork on June 10 awaits the so-called Fifth District sales tax, part of which also would go to educational purposes. A new challenge, in addition, was on that tax's horizon — challenge justifying a special meeting of the Fifth District Superintendents' Association.

The superintendents gathered in Monroe and, after voting to exclude press coverage, voted unanimously to oppose "any change whatever" in the sales tax bill "at this time." The statement after the meeting by President M. D. Peel referred anonymously to a reported plan to change the bill in the coming Legislature — particularly to lock in amounts which would go to teacher raises — and implied that any change, at this point, would wreck the tax at the polls in June.

At least one area representative has been listed privately as considering yet another alteration in the bill's chameleon-like history. Peel's and the other superintendents' point, however, seemed that a change to better conform the tax to one group of its beneficiaries could have the effect of opening a floodgate.

With nearly all of a campaign fund to promote the tax collected from district school personnel, further changes in an apparently already confusing structure would make the levy almost impossible to explain sufficiently prior to the election.

After the meeting, Peel said that, "As of now, there is a unanimous effort of all school personnel in the district to pass the tax on June 10." He was very nearly right. Monroe teachers, on record suggesting amendment of the tax bill, were contributing heavily to the election campaign, while the Lincoln Parish School Board — long a holdout — backed the tax on an 11-1 vote, becoming the 14th of 15 boards in the district to do so. Morehouse, the 15th, hasn't taken a stand eighter way.

Also joining the ranks of support during the week was the West Carroll Police Jury. An unofficial check with several Ouachita jurors, meanwhile, gave little indication that group will take a position.

Other business at the superintendents' meeting saw expressions of interest in desegregation problems from officials of the seven systems not so far directly ordered to mix. Both local systems, of course, have been so ordered. Letters explaining the desegregation and containing school choice forms for completion by parents or guardians were mailed Monday, due for return not later than June 1. The chosen schools will be assigned except in cases of overcrowding, in which event nearness of residence to the requested school will be the sole criterion of assignment.

Sticking with education, a story last Sunday disclosed that State Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe definitely plans the introduction of legislation in the session beginning Monday to empower the State Education Board to designate Northeast and Louisiana Tech as universities. Praising both institutions, the local salon said the advanced status would aid further development.

It was in the light of this prospect of a major advance that many considered it particularly unfortunate the local college should receive a black eye during the week and obviously through the actions of a relative few. A complaint was filed by telephone company officials after 14 phones were destroyed or damaged. Monroe police said four pay phones were ripped from the walls of two men's dormitories, while a total of 10 extension phones were heavily damaged or destroyed.

Earlier Monday, police arrested three college students and two juvenile girls after Northeast officials called and reported students taking girls into a men's dormitory.

....LMA, POLITICS

Meanwhile, a lot of homefolks were crossing their fingers as the annual Louisiana Municipal Association convention fired up in the Crescent City, with Monroe's mayor considered a leading contender for "Mayor of the Year." Howard was down for the entire run of the meeting, ending Saturday with awards and election of officers. Also attending: Mayor Bert Hatten of West Monroe and alderman Jeff Caldwell Jr., along with City Atty. Bill Norris; Monroe Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez and Secretary-Treasurer Mel Cook.

A mild disappointment came early in the LMA program when Ruston Mayor John Perritt, outgoing president, indicated the association would take no position on federal urban renewal funds. "Some (of the municipalities) are against it, some are for it," he said. Monroe is one of thosk cities considering a bill in the Legislature permitting use of urban renewal funds, if their acceptance could be passed at the local polls. Federal benevolence in another field, incidentally, was noted during the week when the Office of Economic Opportunity announced its approval for participation in the food stamp program of Richland, Tensas and West Carroll Parishes.

At the same time, the political tides were beginning to rise as well - known Monroe businessman, James W. Moore, made the decision to seek Louisiana's lieutenant governorship. How this ties in with fellow north Louisianian John McKeithen's campaign for gubernatorial reelection was problematical, but in view of Sen. Michael O'Keefe's announcement for lieutenant governor in New Orleans and no further response from current Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock, still listed a gubernatorial candidate, McKeithen may not take a running mate.

Moore created another stir during the week, as wearing his hat as vice chairman of the State Highway Board, he announced approval by the Federal Bureau of Roads of an approximately $201,000 Garret Road interchange on I-20 through Monroe. The long-sought tie-in will be of inestimable benefit in providing access from the I-20 to and from the local airport and growing Selman Field industrial park. The project is down for 90 per cent federal funding.

On other news fronts, Daylight Savings Time began the week on what can be conservatively called an unusual note, demanding of all save roosters the most stoic resignation. Such curious items continued to appear as the week wore on. Nothing was more curious than the weather, marked from day to day by conditions hitting all the high spots from beaming sunshine to pouring rain and high winds, even tornadic winds, and hail in the area. The Twin City's dose was mild by comparison, while collecting nearly an inch of rainfall Wednesday, about 1.17 inches Monday.

The ill wind blew some good, however, as West Monroe Mayor Hatten and the city's engineering consultant, in a tour after Monday's deluge, found a usually trouble-plagued drainage system "generally pleasing" in its function.

Attention - riveting qualities were on view in two other stories best described as unusual. Fourth District Judge Mack E. Barham, 30 minutes late to work because of a delayed flight from New Orleans, fined himself $10 for contempt of court. Meanwhile, Ransom School Principal James W. Waters received a slightly startling letter. Unsigned for obvious reasons, the note contained $5 from a person who admitted to taking "five or six 50-cent pieces" at a bingo party at the school about 20 years ago. In line with the letter's request, Walters spent the money on haircuts for underprivileged children.

DEATH, SURVIVAL

Local and area accidental death continued last week to take a heavy toll, but near Homer three airmen from Barksdale Field, flying in a small craft from El Dorado, Ark., to Shreveport amazingly were taken alive from the wreckage of a crash during Wednesday night's foul weather. One of them was Floyd Bearden, 21, of Bastrop.

Fatalities of the week, all of the same, were too numerous. Lloyd T. Moore, 52, of Tallulah, died late Monday when his car struck a bridge railing of Young's Bayou on Orange Street, flipped into the air and landed upside down in five feet of water.

Sunday Thought

If there is righteousness in the heart,
there will be beauty in the character.
If there is beauty in the character,
there will be harmony in the home.
If there is harmony in the home,
there will be order in the nation.
When there is order in the nation,
there will be peace in the world.

From A Dead Marine

Among the Marines who are fighting and dying in Vietnam for the no-goods such as Martin Luther King, Stokley Carmichael and Cassius Clay was Lance Corporal John Clark, 3rd Batt., 7th Marines, First Marine Division, who was killed in action on March 6 in Vietnam. His last wish, according to friends, was to have a poem published he had written. It was recently published in the Foxboro, Mass. Reporter and was passed on to us by William B. Lillyman, director of the Monroe Civic Center, who is originally from Foxboro. We reprint the poem here:

Ode To Cassius?

Take a man, then put him alone,
Put him twelve thousand miles from home.
Empty his heart of all but blood,
Make him live in sweat and mud,
This is the life we have to live
And why my soul to God I gave.
But you don't know what it's like over here,
I'm already here and know it's too late.
You have a ball without even trying,
While we over here are dying.
You burn your draft cards, march at dawn,
Plant your signs on the White House lawn.
You all want to ban the bomb,
There's no real war in Vietnam?
Use your drugs and have your fun,
And then refuse to use a gun,
There's nothing else for you to do,
And I'm supposed to die for you?
There is one thing you don't know,
And that's where I think you should go.
You go have your parties and drink your beer,
While I have traded my love for hate.
I'll hate you till the day I die,
You made me hear my buddy cry.
I saw his arm a bloody shred,
I heard them say, this one is dead.
It's a large price to have to pay,
Not to live another day.
He had the guts to fight and die.
He paid the price, but what did he buy?
By his dying your life he buys,
But who gives a damn when the soldier dies?
His wife does, his parents, and sons,
But they are about the only ones.

Again it is hard to understand why the federal government, including President Johnson, permits the likes of King, Carmichael and Clay to get away with the things they say and do.

Let a hard-working real American make a $1 mistake on his income tax and the government is ready to put him under the jail. But people like those three can preach outright treason and nothing is done.

War Protest

In this connection, thousands of Negro and Puerto Rican high school students will be enlisted in a major civil disobedience campaign against the Vietnam war this summer if plans of James Bevel, who terms himself as a reverend, bear fruit.

Bevel, who had been King's right-hand organization man for years, left his Southern Christian Leadership Conference in January and now heads the Spring Mobilization Committee, which sponsored the peace marches in New York and San Francisco.

Now his committee and other associated and sordid groups are out to persuade the Negro and Puerto Rican teenagers to go to jail rather than submit to the draft.

To the many so-called Negro leaders who have expressed doubt that the high school action program will work, Bevel retorts, "I think President Johnson is an intelligent man and will stop the war as a result of the protests."

Another Protest Form

Right along this same line, and supporting a similar cause — although they may be too unenlightened to realize it, women across the nation have purchased more than 100,000 of the Mother's Day cards being sold by a group called "Another Mother for Peace."

The cards, which note that "For My Mother's Day Gift this year, I don't want candy or flowers. I want an end to the killing," are intended to be sent to the President and members of Congress.

The card closes with the plea, "Please talk Peace."

It is hard to understand their reasoning. Most Americans want peace — but not at the price it seemingly would take. This country has talked peace — too much of it — and North Vietnam won't buy any part of it.

It is long past the time to dilly-dally around with the war. Let's go all out and win it — that will be the quickest way to end the killing.

HOW TRUE — It is hard to believe that a man is telling the truth when you know you would lie if you were in his place.

WHOSE FLAG IS BURNED: They finally arrested one of those flag burners and it happened in Chicago. They hauled this fellow in on a disorderly conduct charge. It had reached the point that the country had about decided that authorities didn't care when the wierdos doused our National Emblem with gasoline and then set it ablaze. But the Chicago incident clarified matters. It was the French Flag that was burned, in retaliation for the way a French mob burned an American flag. And Chicago authorities moved in and arrested the flag burner. We don't believe any of them that have burned an American flag has been arrested as yet — or at least convicted.

Teenage Culture

A lot of parents won't believe it, but law enforcement agencies and courts probably can verify it with facts and figures, today's teen-agers, or the vast majority of them, probably will stack up as the worst in this nation's history.

Go in any school or talk to various police officials. There is more cheating, more drinking, and more unholy activities than most people can imagine. Yet woe is the teacher or the officer that dares to call attention to this fact about junior or "my wonderful little girl." The parents quickly get into the act with "how dare you upset my child like that."

If you think this is too harsh an indictment, read a particular section of the report, "The Challenge of Crime in a Free Society." This is the study by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and should be must reading for parents. It deals with juvenile delinquency, and it presents with keen perception the problems of youth that often lead children, even those of good families, from good neighborhoods, into serious trouble.

It says:

"One way of looking at delinquency is in the context of the 'teenage culture' that was developed in America since the Second World War. In America in the 1960's, to perhaps a greater extent than in any other place or time, adolescents live in a distinct society of their own. It is not an easy society to understand, to describe, or, for that matter, to live in. In some ways it is an intensely materialistic society; its members, perhaps in unconscious imitation of their elders, are preoccupied with physical objects like clothes and cars, and indeed have been encouraged in this preoccupation by manufacturers who have discovered how profitable the adolescent market is. In some ways, it is an intensely moralistic society; its members are preoccupied with independence and honesty and equality and courage. On the whole it is a rebellious, oppositional society, dedicated to the proposition that the grownup world is a sham. At the same time it is a conforming society; being inexperienced, unsure of themselves, and, in fact, relatively powerless as individuals, adolescents to a far greater extent than their elders conform to common standards of dress and hair style and speech, and act jointly, in groups — or gangs.

"Adolescents everywhere, from every walk of life, are often dangerous to themselves and to others. It may be a short step from distrusting authority to taking the law into one's hands, from self-absorption to contempt for the rights of others, from group loyalty to gang warfare, from getting "kicks" to rampaging through the streets, from coveting material goods to stealing them, from feelings of rebellion to acts of destruction. . . . ."

That is as thoughtful a recitation of the story behind today's headlines as we have seen anywhere. And if adolescents think "the grownup world is a sham," then we have our work cut out for us, don't we?

The World's Week In Focus

Long's Filibuster, Tactics Affront Senate

By Oland Silk

LAST WEEK George Wallace went to New England and Gov. George Romney went to Atlanta. Both are undeclared candidates for the presidency. Wallace deplored the lack of quality leadership in both parties. Romney told his southern audiences that they should not attach their wagon to a "fallen star" (Wallace) and urged defeat of a third party movement headed by the former Alabama governor.

Wallace's reception was stormy. Southerners treated Republican Romney with courtesy. While the two ambitious but undeclared aspirants went about the business of making friends, a New York beatnik named Louis Abolafia tossed his hat (or was it banana?) into the ring. The stage for his presidential bid consisted of a "Cosmic Love Convention, a 72-hour Freakathon for Hippies and Saints." Abolafia said if he became president he would set up cultural centers throughout the country and attempt to spread love around the world.

LOVE — even understanding — was a rare item on news wires last week. Clearly, Abolafia has his work cut out for him.

Major scenes of conflict outside of Vietnam included 1) the United States Senate 2) Sacramento, California 3) Hanover, New Hampshire 4) Columbia University and 5) Louisville, Kentucky.

Senate troubles were pegged to Senator Russell Long's filibuster to save his campaign fund act, which he considers his greatest legislative achievement; and, Republican division over Vietnam policy. The Senate has always been known for its clubbiness. Last week a chill born of intense aggravation settled over the membership.

FOES OF the Long Act dealt the Louisianan a stinging setback Tuesday when the Senate voted 52 to 46 against his bid to overturn repeal of the law. This represented his third defeat against two victories. On Long's side were 46 Democrats; opposed were all 35 Republicans, joined by 17 Democrats.

Undaunted, Long said maybe this was only the end of the first quarter of the ball game.

His filibuster and what some critics termed bullying tactics set off bitter verbal thrusts from both sides. Consider this high-toned attack by Senator Frank Lausche, D-Ohio.

SAID THE Ohioan, he viewed Long's early battle as commendable, but "what I described as a virtue then, is today a vice. I refuse to concede that the senator from Louisiana has infallible judgment, that he alone knows what is right." He accused Long of attempting to convince "what Senator Long wants" is what is good for the Senate. Undismayed, Long made plans to keep the Senate stalled until he could devise a new strategy or subsidy plan.

HE CONSIDERED offering a variation of the law. It would allow a taxpayer to notify the Treasury he wanted $1 of his income tax payment used as a contribution to a presidential candidate. The Treasury would issue the taxpayer a voucher which he could turn over to the candidate of his choice. The candidate then could cash it for $1 at the Treasury. To qualify, a candidate would have to get two million votes. Under the present law, a taxpayer would simply donate $1 to a presidential campaign fund, to be divided between the two major candidates. This system would produce about $60 million every four years.

Senator Russell Long
. . . hard to convince

Some idea of how strongly Long feels about his brainchild is evident in this comment: "The stakes are enormously high. This plan will do more to clean up corruption than anything that has been done in the last century in American government."

Complicating Long's relations with his colleagues was his stirring defense of Senator Thomas Dodd, Connecticut Democrat under threat of Senate censure for misuse of testimonial dinner funds and double billing on travel.

LONG, AN 18-year Senate veteran and assistant leader of that body, made the offhand observation that half the senators on the Ethics Committee (which recommended censure of Dodd) could not stand the kind of inquiry he was subjected to. He expanded this to include half the Senate. Needless to say, this was not the best way to make friends and influence legislators. Long later apologized profusely, saying he meant the group used too-high standards in judging his friend Dodd. That he himself might not pass such an investigation.

THE LONG Act was almost forgotten as the scene shifted from the subsidy fight to Dodd's troubles. Whatever the outcome in his case, the concensus around the Senate — as reported by Jack Bell of AP — was that Senator Long, in supporting Dodd, was "following a lonely road with dangerous political crossings ahead." No one faults Long for standing up for a friend, Bell wrote, but his manner of defense was objectionable.

Dodd, meantime, began his defense before the Senate. He attacked the claim that he double-billed — the government and private sources — for travel expenste. He blamed his ex-bookkeeper. Senators remained unmoved. Ethics Vice Chairman Wallace Bennett countered that there was a pattern to Dodd's double-billing that bore an indisputable connotation of deliberate intent.

Soothing Syrup

A LESS - rowdy Senate dispute involved Republicans. The issue was Vietnam — how to treat the issue in the upcoming election year.

A Republican Policy Committee hoped to produce a study that would weld party members to some kind of agreement about Vietnam and President Johnson's handling of the war, the idea being that GOP unity would look good up against well-publicized Democratic disunity. Well, it didn't quite work out that way.

THE report was written and circulated. But it seemed too critical of Administration policy, much too partisan to suit Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen. He of the wayword locks and pipe-organ voice climbed out of a hospital bed to lecture a closed meeting of the Policy Committee. He mixed stern warnings about the political liabilities acruing from questioning the commander in chief's basic direction of the bloody conflict. As usual, Dirksen mixed rebuke with soothing syrup. The committee docilely followed his lead — to stand "foursquare" behind the President, but preserving the "right of full and fair inquiry and criticism."

REPUBLICAN Hawks and Doves remained skeptical. Instead of creating unity, the staff report merely left Republicans where they were before — divided, just like the Democrats. Dirksen's syrup had its effect, but some Senate pancakes remained untouched.

And now for George Wallace's New Hampshire welcome.

THE peppery former governor of Alabama was coolly received in the New Hampshire legislature. He addressed high school students only after agreeing to steer clear of politics. The most hostile greeting occurred at Dartmouth College where demonstrating Negroes and whites drove him off the stage.

WALLACE came back finally to finish his speech. All was not lost. A good many cheered the fiery little states righter. On leaving, however, his automobile was surrounded by a crowd of several thousand students. Those closest pounded on the roof and rocked the car. They tore off the aerial. Bodyguards and police drilled their way through the crowd and got the car clear after about five minutes. Shaken but unhurt, Wallace later mused that the pacifists and advocates of academic freedom at Dartmouth could get somebody killed.

DARTMOUTH formally apologized to Wallace for the incident. Dean Thaddeus Symoure said the majority at the college felt that a man's opinions deserve a free and unobstructed platform.

IN SACRAMENTO, a deadly incident was somehow averted when 26 Negroes bearing loaded guns burst into the Capitol at high noon. The sudden, violent intrusion disrupted the legislative session and a picnic which Gov. Reagan planned with eighth-grade pupils. All 26 were arrested, disarmed, and booked by a stunned police force. Weapons seized included pistols, rifles and shotguns.

The Negroes, who called themselves the "Black Panthers," said they were protesting against "racist Oakland police" and a bill before the session that would outlaw the carrying of loaded weapons in public. California law now permits the carrying of firearms so long as they aren't concealed. Another law, primarily aimed at errant hunters, prohibits carrying a loaded weapon in a vehicle.

LEGISLATORS opened an investigation into the incident. One item on the agenda was the viewing of a film showing 40 Negroes roaming the Capitol with loaded guns.

Racial trouble in Louisville stemmed from Negro efforts to get open housing and plans to disrupt the Kentucky Derby. This morning's headlines should tell more about that.

Pulitzer Row

THE PULITZER Prize Advisory Board of Columbia University overruled -- which it has a perfect right to do — a panel's recommendation that Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times be honored for international reportng. Salisbury is the veteran journalist who went to Hanoi and wrote what turned out to be controversial articles about American bombing policy. Instead, the board named John Hughes of the Christian Science Monitor for his reporting of the Indonesian crisis. This caused a mild flap. Anti-Salisbury judges noted two inaccuracies as reasons for their refusal to vote for him. Salisbury was unperturbed.

Edward Albee, the four-letter-word dramatist, won for his play, "A Delicate Balance." He modestly stated that he privately regarded it as his second Pulitzer Prize since he felt he should have received one for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolff?" Albee rapped the prize as being in decline due to anxieties over awarding it to controversial works. No one thought to ask him if he thought controversy always denoted merit.

Eastern California held the threat of potential disaster as unusually deep spring mountain snowbanks, some 20-feet thick, looked down from the Sierras. The picture in Florida was starkly different. The state cried for rain. Only a trace has fallen along the peninsula this year. This is 30 to 40 per cent below normal. The United States will bring home 35,000 soldiers and airmen from Europe next year. The largest contingent will come from Bavaria where the U. S. 24th Division and its 24,000 men are now stationed. Seven thousand airmen from scattered units were also marked for recall.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

World Staff Writer

Despite our great neighbor Texas, taxes probably never will be popular enough to inspire the naming of a state. Three separate taxes, however, were claiming enough attention last week to capture the Lion's share of local news headlines.

Much in the news for well over a year, the northeast Louisiana sales tax, despite some fascinating twists, generally took a back seat, leaving the spotlight temporarily to two school maintenance tax issues. Both came to simultaneous climaxes in elections Saturday.

Indeed, readers whose cup of tea is education had a brimming vessel from which to sip. The Monroe and Ouachita Parish school systems, sending out assignment forms, were moving to their dates with desegregation in September, against a backdrop of meetings with legal advisors.

Meanwhile, the college news spectrum was broad, ranging from disclosure that Northeast Louisiana State and Louisiana Tech will be considered for university status by the Legislature starting Monday, to the destruction or damage of 14 phones at Northeast and discovery of two girls in a men's dormitory.

The range of other news was equally broad — a leading local figure announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor, a major new local interchange on the I-20 got its go-ahead, a district judge fined himself for contempt of court, and the annual meeting of the Louisiana Municipal Association ran its course in New Orleans.

BIG TAX NEWS

As previously hinted, the week's big news was the stretch drive as the City of Monroe and Ouachita Parish school systems pushed Saturday for local maintenance revenues of 12 and seven mills, respectively — boosts of five mills and two mills.

Naturally, at this writing late Friday, reports on Saturday elections are risky at best, though the area has a history of supporting education. Both issues were expected to pass — the city tax a good deal more handily than the parish, since the latter collided with organized opposition.

Meeting Tuesday night behind closed doors for a talk about desegregation with Dist. Atty. Albin P. Lassiter, the parish school board emerged to find a leaflet opposing its maintenance tax posted on the bulletin board. The leaflets — citing the ancient issues of city-dwelling children in parish schools and city-dwellers on the school board — continued to turn up through the remainder of the week.

They were given substantial circulation Thursday night at a local address by Plaquemines Parish segregationist leader Leander Perez and tied in neatly with a call by the speaker for defeat of any tax to support integrated school systems.

Ouachita Supt. Milton C. Hall, on the surface at least, remained unflappable, however, gently pointing to each charge on the floating leaflets as "legal issues, not educational issues." Hall said "the way to change the system is to change the law." He had no direct reply to the Perez posture, but he had noted on the day of the talk that defeat of the tax, leaving the system only a constitutional levy of five mills on which to operate, would mean that "only the children would suffer."

Mechanically, the two elections Saturday were expected to run smoothly discounting early concern over a new state law requiring proof at the polls of property ownership and amount of assessment. Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita voter registrar, completed in time for both votes list of qualified property owners and affidavits, on which voters could attest ownership and assessment amount, were available for those unlisted or without tax receipts.

Officials were counting on large turnouts, in contrast to the lack of interest shown in absentee voting which ended the Saturday before the election. Only four absentee ballots were cast — one in the parish vote, three in the city.

NEW CHALLENGE

Thus did the maintenance taxes come to their respective forks in the road. A fork on June 10 awaits the so-called Fifth District sales tax, part of which also would go to educational purposes. A new challenge, in addition, was on that tax's horizon — challenge justifying a special meeting of the Fifth District Superintendents' Association.

The superintendents gathered in Monroe and, after voting to exclude press coverage, voted unanimously to oppose "any change whatever" in the sales tax bill "at this time." The statement after the meeting by President M. D. Peel referred anonymously to a reported plan to change the bill in the coming Legislature — particularly to lock in amounts which would go to teacher raises — and implied that any change, at this point, would wreck the tax at the polls in June.

At least one area representative has been listed privately as considering yet another alteration in the bill's chameleon-like history. Peel's and the other superintendents' point, however, seemed that a change to better conform the tax to one group of its beneficiaries could have the effect of opening a floodgate.

With nearly all of a campaign fund to promote the tax collected from district school personnel, further changes in an apparently already confusing structure would make the levy almost impossible to explain sufficiently prior to the election.

After the meeting, Peel said that, "As of now, there is a unanimous effort of all school personnel in the district to pass the tax on June 10." He was very nearly right. Monroe teachers, on record suggesting amendment of the tax bill, were contributing heavily to the election campaign, while the Lincoln Parish School Board — long a holdout — backed the tax on an 11-1 vote, becoming the 14th of 15 boards in the district to do so. Morehouse, the 15th, hasn't taken a stand eighter way.

Also joining the ranks of support during the week was the West Carroll Police Jury. An unofficial check with several Ouachita jurors, meanwhile, gave little indication that group will take a position.

Other business at the superintendents' meeting saw expressions of interest in desegregation problems from officials of the seven systems not so far directly ordered to mix. Both local systems, of course, have been so ordered. Letters explaining the desegregation and containing school choice forms for completion by parents or guardians were mailed Monday, due for return not later than June 1. The chosen schools will be assigned except in cases of overcrowding, in which event nearness of residence to the requested school will be the sole criterion of assignment.

Sticking with education, a story last Sunday disclosed that State Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe definitely plans the introduction of legislation in the session beginning Monday to empower the State Education Board to designate Northeast and Louisiana Tech as universities. Praising both institutions, the local salon said the advanced status would aid further development.

It was in the light of this prospect of a major advance that many considered it particularly unfortunate the local college should receive a black eye during the week and obviously through the actions of a relative few. A complaint was filed by telephone company officials after 14 phones were destroyed or damaged. Monroe police said four pay phones were ripped from the walls of two men's dormitories, while a total of 10 extension phones were heavily damaged or destroyed.

Earlier Monday, police arrested three college students and two juvenile girls after Northeast officials called and reported students taking girls into a men's dormitory.

. . . LMA, POLITICS

Meanwhile, a lot of homefolks were crossing their fingers as the annual Louisiana Municipal Association convention fired up in the Crescent City, with Monroe's mayor considered a leading contender for "Mayor of the Year." Howard was down for the entire run of the meeting, ending Saturday with awards and election of officers. Also attending: Mayor Bert Hatten of West Monroe and alderman Jeff Caldwell Jr., along with City Atty. Bill Norris; Monroe Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez and Secretary-Treasurer Mel Cook.

A mild disappointment came early in the LMA program when Ruston Mayor John Perritt, outgoing president, indicated the association would take no position on federal urban renewal funds. "Some (of the municipalities) are against it, some are for it," he said. Monroe is one of thosk cities considering a bill in the Legislature permitting use of urban renewal funds, if their acceptance could be passed at the local polls. Federal benevolence in another field, incidentally, was noted during the week when the Office of Economic Opportunity announced its approval for participation in the food stamp program of Richland, Tensas and West Carroll Parishes.

At the same time, the political tides were beginning to rise as well - known Monroe businessman, James W. Moore, made the decision to seek Louisiana's lieutenant governorship. How this ties in with fellow north Louisianian John McKeithen's campaign for gubernatorial reelection was problematical, but in view of Sen. Michael O'Keefe's announcement for lieutenant governor in New Orleans and no further response from current Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock, still listed a gubernatorial candidate, McKeithen may not take a running mate.

Moore created another stir during the week, as wearing his hat as vice chairman of the State Highway Board, he announced approval by the Federal Bureau of Roads of an approximately $201,000 Garret Road interchange on I-20 through Monroe. The long-sought tie-in will be of inestimable benefit in providing access from the I-20 to and from the local airport and growing Selman Field industrial park. The project is down for 90 per cent federal funding.

On other news fronts, Daylight Savings Time began the week on what can be conservatively called an unusual note, demanding of all save roosters the most stoic resignation. Such curious items continued to appear as the week wore on. Nothing was more curious than the weather, marked from day to day by conditions hitting all the high spots from beaming sunshine to pouring rain and high winds, even tornadic winds, and hail in the area. The Twin City's dose was mild by comparison, while collecting nearly an inch of rainfall Wednesday, about 1.17 inches Monday.

The ill wind blew some good, however, as West Monroe Mayor Hatten and the city's engineering consultant, in a tour after Monday's deluge, found a usually trouble-plagued drainage system "generally pleasing" in its function.

Attention - riveting qualities were on view in two other stories best described as unusual. Fourth District Judge Mack E. Barham, 30 minutes late to work because of a delayed flight from New Orleans, fined himself $10 for contempt of court. Meanwhile, Ransom School Principal James W. Waters received a slightly startling letter. Unsigned for obvious reasons, the note contained $5 from a person who admitted to taking "five or six 50-cent pieces" at a bingo party at the school about 20 years ago. In line with the letter's request, Walters spent the money on haircuts for underprivileged children.

DEATH, SURVIVAL

Local and area accidental death continued last week to take a heavy toll, but near Homer three airmen from Barksdale Field, flying in a small craft from El Dorado, Ark., to Shreveport amazingly were taken alive from the wreckage of a crash during Wednesday night's foul weather. One of them was Floyd Bearden, 21, of Bastrop.

Fatalities of the week, all of the same, were too numerous. Lloyd T. Moore, 52, of Tallulah, died late Monday when his car struck a bridge railing of Young's Bayou on Orange Street, flipped into the air and landed upside down in five feet of water.

SEEKERS OF QUICKIE DIVORCES CALL the flights from New York to Juarez, just over the Mexican border, "Freedom Flights." But as the woman in the first scene at left, waits for her flight at LaGuardia airport, her thoughts turn to her children who now will be from a broken home, and to questions about what she is about to do—even though it was her own choice. Such introspection is common on the way down. Next day she would be back with her divorce. In the second scene, a New York divorce seeker, with her Mexican attorney guiding her, puts down one of several signatures required, in his office in Juarez. Next she signed her Mexican divorce plea after listening to an English translation. In the third scene, strangers, from varied backgrounds, become quick friends-for-the-day while waiting for their divorces. This group on their way from the office of the lawyer representing them, to City Hall to register, establishing their one-day residence, will proceed next to the judge's chambers across the street, where they will sign once more and receive their divorces. Climaxing the tour of official agencies in the divorce mill, two new divorcees—one from New York City and one from Connecticut—drink to their quickly gained freedom in the swank El Camino Real in Juarez, before flying back to New York, which they had left the day before. Jubilation generally is the rule after winning a Juarez divorce. Any regrets, any tears, are for later, in private. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)

Americans Keep 'Divorce Mill' In Juarez, Mexico Busy

On 35 'freedom flights' a week they come to Juarez, Americans seeking divorces, economy class—package deals. The court in this town processes 20,000 divorces a year, fast and easy. Here is a report on a typical trip to this 'supermarket' operation which offers no balm for heartache.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) They were as yet strangers, the seven Americans who straggled off the plane at El Paso Airport and took separate taxis across the bridge into Mexico.

They were a diverse group — five men and two women — yet they had a common problem, unhappy marriage. They were seeking a common solution, a Juarez divorce — quick, cheap and nearly painless. They had come from New York on what is now so common as to be called the freedom flight. Before they returned to New York after a long tomorrow, six of them would be statistics, their legal papers tied in small bales awaiting shipment to their American lawyers. The seventh would stand aside, hoping he too could soon find a way to freedom.

This is not the way the rich and celebrated get Juarez divorces. The Connie Stevenses, the Dina Merrills and the Debra Pagets travel first class with a photogenic wardrobe and a bustling bevy of counselors and consolers to make quick and easy divorces even quicker and easier. It is not the way a Charlotte Ford or a Sheila MacRae does it, either. They shuttle down in private jets that get them home again before they've missed a single beat in the social swing.

IN ECONOMY CLASS

But these seven, on this day, were economy class travelers, like most of the 20,000 Americans who get divorces in this town each year. They are working men and women, lured by the one-day residence requirement. They can't afford six weeks off the payroll to establish residence in places like Idaho or Nevada.

More than half the Americans divorced here are from New York state. This has been the case since 1965 when the State Supreme Court recognized the Mexican divorce.

It may not be the case after Sept. 1 when a new divorce law becomes effective. For 180 years New York law recognized adultery as the only grounds for divorce. The new law will list many more reasons for divorce, but on the other hand, it will require a try at conciliation, a process which can drag out several years. At the same time, out - of - state divorces will not be recognized unless the New Yorker has been absent from the state for a full year.

Five of the seven travelers on American Airlines Flight 31—one of 35 freedom flights to El Paso each week — were trying to beat the Sept. 1 deadline. They had immediate remarriage plans.

In seat 7B was an auburn - haired 23 year old, married at 16 and mother of two. A grocery clerk by day and a cocktail waitress by night, she had saved nearly three years to make this trip. Within a month she would be the wife of a pastry chef her kids now called "uncle."

The occupant in 10C was a Negro shipping clerk, divorcing his wife after a two year separation.

"It's the decent thing to do," he explained later. "She can't get on welfare with a husband."

When he got back home he planned to have a celebration and marry the woman he had been living with for nearly a year. That, too, was the decent thing to do.

The straw - haired woman in seat 14C had no remarriage plans. She had been legally separated for more than 20 years. Now, after a satisfactory settlement, she was at last "doing the old man a favor," as she put it, "cutting him loose to marry the mother of his three kids before he ups and dies."

FIRST TRIP AWAY

For the mousy little brunette with thick lensed glasses in seat 8E, this was the first trip away from her home in upstate New York. "I was never even on a bus before. Can you imagine a plane?" She was nervous, but once she reached Juarez she bubbled with optimism. Her horoscope promised a wedding in August, and so had her new boy friend.

The girl in seat 12D was dusky, water eyed and voluptuous in a tight blue suit and stilleto heeled pumps. This was her second freedom flight. Two hours after her day in court she would board a plane for Los Angeles in pursuit of a new last name.

To the annoyance of the stewardess, a rangy, weather leathered ex - mailman had ignored his seat assignment, sprawling across two empty seats in the rear to wisecrack to the girls. Impetuously he had blown his job and his marriage because "I just got fed up." He was also to admit eventually, "there's another chick."

In seat 5A was a big woman with a mane of blonde hair and huge sun glasses that hid her emotions. Mother of three, her first marriage had ended with widowhood. She had been lonely and frightened. Now she was losing her second mate, by choice.

Some things were worse than loneliness, she contended later when she related with candor the brief, strange experience of her freedom flight.

TOMORROW'S PROMISE

The trip down was not a time for talk. Tomorrow would promise a fresh start. Today was a time for introspection.

Had the past actually been that bad. What of the children.

All told 14 youngsters, ranging from the mousy brunette's infant boy to the shipping clerk's teen age twin girls, would henceforth be children of broken homes. Their custody and support had been mutually arrived at earlier by attorneys for the couples involved. Mexican divorce courts do not arbitrate such matters. But were the children emotionally prepared.

The blonde in 5A — let's call her Sandy — recalled how her 8 - year-old son had come to her bedroom early that morning as she packed. His real father had died when he was an infant. When she had remarried he had been thrilled to have a dad like the other kids. Now he was crying.

"Will daddy still come and play baseball with me after you get back from your divorce trip?" he asked.

Between wisecracks to the stewardess, the mailman said he spent a lot of time wondering how you go about finding a Mexican lawyer like the others he had not had an American attorney to make arrangements for him.

"My miserable woman won't sign nothing," he said.

"I came down here looking for a lawyer and a loophole somewhere."

PROXY PAPERS

The others carried proxy papers signed by absent spouses which said in effect that the divorce was mutually desired on the grounds of incompatability. These are the only grounds in Mexican courts, and there is no need to prove that one party or the other is guilty of the marriage failure.

This part of the Mexican divorce has special appeal to many who believe that the need to create evidence to satisfy a judge encourages fraud, and that public accusations, however true, are debasing.

Like many other things, the cost of a Mexican divorce is what the traffic will bear. Sandy's cost her $700, of which $300 was plane fare and hotel expenses. Her American lawyer, a friend, charged only $100 for arranging the settlement and contacting the Mexican lawyer in New York.

On her first visit to the white thatched, pot bellied fellow, he asked for a certified check for $750 as his fee. Sandy's lawyer dickered until the old man came down to $300. Court costs, registration and certification — amounting to $172 — came out of this, leaving $128 to be divided between the Mexican firm's New York and Juarez offices.

"Don't fret," said Sandy's lawyer. "Juarez operates on the supermarket theory of profit on volume."

The auburn - haired waitress had bought a package deal — ticket, fees, and a dinner date with the Mexican lawyer, all inclusive for $800.

IMMEDIATE RECOGNITION

The garrulous cabbie who took Sandy across the Rio Grande recognized her as a divorcee immediately.

"You can always tell. Men don't carry luggage, Women carry little bags that hardly weigh nothing at all. Who steered you onto your hotel. Never heard of it. Well, I'd stay in my room if I was you. Juarez is tough and dirty. No place for a woman. I never cross the border if I can help it. Not at night. Mean town. Left a girl for an abortion here six weeks ago. Down that street. She nearly died. Sure, they are legal they aren't. Everything rotten is here."

Sandy decided later — in the light of the next day — that cabbies like to frighten newcomers. Well, he had succeeded.

"Juarez was strange and frightening in the darkness. All those blinking bawdy signs hawking Marie, the burlesque queen, and 'Tequila, 20 cents,' and things in Spanish I didn't understand. One jumping red neon sign advertised Divorcios."

Sandy began to understand that one very well.

In recounting her emotions the next day, Sandy said she was surprised to discover that her hotel was a nice little place. Unpretentious, but clean. After the baggage boy brought up her luggage, adjusted the heat, filled an ice bucket and warned her not to drink the water, she was suddenly alone. Overwhelmingly alone in a very strange, faraway place.

From the cocktail lounge downstairs she could hear loud Latin music and women laughing shrilly.

"I lay on the bed and stared at the faded yellow butterflies on the wallpaper. I didn't want to look at the unmussed twin bed beside me. I remember thinking that it was a symbol of the kind of life I had chosen for myself from here on in."

CLERKS BUSY

At 8 a.m. hotel clerks all over Juarez were busy awakening their divorce clientele. Somewhat anxiously the candidates assembled in the lobbies waiting to be picked up by chauffeurs sent by their Mexican lawyers.

It was there in the hotel lobby that four of the freedom flight passengers recognized each other. Along with Sandy there was the old lady with two-red cheeks the horoscope reader and the shipping clerk. They rode to the same lawyer's office, making small talk about the coincidence to cover their embarrassment.

At the lawyer's office there were two more, the red-haired cocktail waitress and the dark, silent, sexy woman. Here the six became acquainted as they waited. the Young Spanish girls giggled among themselves, typed something occasionally, and ignored the crowd in the waiting room.

WAIT, THEN FLURRY

An hour passed before the dapped little lawyer arrived breathlessly and threw the office into a flurry of activity. Eventually each client was called in to listen to the English translation of his divorce plea and to sign the papers.

Sandy panicked momentarily when one of the girls asked her for proof of American citizenship which could be presented to the judge. All she could produce was a credit card and an expired driver's license. The girls said these would do.

After stuffing sheafs of papers into a brief case too big for a tiny man, the lawyer led his pack through several streets and up the winding stairs of City Hall. There the group found the mailman hanging around the entrance, asking questions of anyone who could speak English.

Upstairs in the barnlike wooden hall, divorce seekers lined the benches from the room, or gathered in little groups with people they recognized from their particular flight.

The pack gains in size as it trails the lawyer on his routine down - down the curved steps, through a sunny court, across a back street. Urchins jumped off the hoods of double parked cars and ran after them begging, "A penny, please!"

Divorce clients are seldom Mexicans. In this country, divorce is strictly an export business.

The judge's chambers were no larger than a poor tax accountant's. Consider the amount of time spent there, it was adequate.

The little attorney summoned Sandy. "Come in and say 'hello' to the judge."

The judge was a surprisingly young man in a business suit behind a big oak desk.

"Hello," Sandy said dutifully feeling like a 3-year-old.

The judge nodded and pointed to a line in a large book where she was to sign. She signed. The little attorney leaped up gleefully and pumped her hand.

Sandy was a Juarez divorcee.

As each stumbled out of the tiny office into the street there was a new burst of jubilation among those still waiting. Free! Unbelievably easy.

American Woman Ready For Bullfighting Debut

By KELLY SMITH

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Spain (AP) — A green eyed New York city model—36-23-36—will make her debut this summer as Spain's first American bullfighter on horseback.

She will ride a brown stallion into the bull ring, doff her sombrero, and in a highly ritualized ballet of courage, sink swords into a bull. Within 20 minutes, if the bull is dead. Elaine Reynolds—formerly of television and fashion salons — will be a rejoneador.

"My parents think I'm crazy," she said in an interview. "It's wild. It's fantastic and thrilling.

"You're all alone out there. The crowd roars. You don't hear them. It's him or death."

Elaine, at 25, looks like anything but a rejoneador, a bullfighter on horseback. She is 5 feet 8, weighs a shapely 125, and ties her auburn hair simply in back.

A year ago she came to Mallorca to visit friends, fell in love with the sunny, resort atmosphere of the Mediterranean and decided to stay.

She didn't speak Spanish then. She had never seen a bullfight and her job experience was limited to a traveling water show and four years of modeling and commercials.

JOB IN SHOW

"I got this job in the show at Titos," she says. Titos is a popular local night club. "I was a dancer, and I had never danced in my life. They put me in the back row—very well covered—and prayed."

Weekends she went horseback riding, and in the process met tall, handsome Moises Royo — "Largartito" — one of Spain's six professionally active rejoneadors. Moises has killed 800 bulls in the last 10 years.

Elaine went to work part time in Moises' stables and talked him into coaching her. He is the first to admit he was skeptical.

"The bull ring is not a place to be beautiful or have fun," Moises said. "It's serious business. There are two women rejoneadors in the world. They can be gored as easily as a man."

In Spain, a woman is prohibited by law from fighting a bull on foot.

LONG PRACTICE

"I killed myself practicing," Elaine says. "I practiced for months before I'd even seen a rejoneador in the bull ring. I got to thinking — what if after all this work I don't like it. Just like a New Yorker to learn something before you even know if you like it.

"Fortunately, I did. I love it. More every time I'm in the ring. I've killed some — little bulls. Big or little, they're still bulls. I don't have any feelings about being cruel. It's him or me."

Moises stood outside the white stucco practice ring late one day watching Elaine maneuver her horse through paces. He frowned, clapped, pursed his lips and shouted orders in Spanish.

It takes five years to train a horse for the bull ring. Elaine's mount, Brillante, has considerable ring experience. Most rejoneadors keep a stable of at least five horses.

Elaine admits to being nervous. "But once I get in there I concentrate too hard to think about it. Once you're in the ring — it's your life and the life of your horse. You can't blow a $10,000 horse or your neck by being stupid."

At home in North Bergen, N.J., her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olivia, worry. But they know she's serious. Those who have watched her day after day in Mallorca say she has great potential.

"If any woman has the makings of a great rejoneador," says Moises, "it's this one."

"I was making $20,000 a year and up looking sexy and provocative for television commercials," says Elaine. "Now I'm broke and covered with dirt. Think I'd stay here if I wasn't serious?

"Besides, in 15 minutes I can make up to $15,000. Who makes that in America besides Frank Sinatra?"

A YEAR AFTER SHE WENT to Mallorca, Spain, for a visit, 25-year-old Elaine Reynolds is preparing for her debut this summer as Spain's first American bullfighter on horseback. Elaine, who had been a New York model for TV commercials and a cosmetic firm, fell in love with Spain, and stayed. She met Moises Royo, a rejoneador—bullfighter on horseback—who is coaching her for her new, dangerous career of killing bulls. Here the two are seen at Royo's stables. (AP Newsfeathers Photo)

Modern Luxury, Ancient Splendor Offered By Spa

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — "Excuse me," said Ben Milbrath, an 82 - year-old concrete mixing executive from Gary, Ind. "It's time for my facial."

"Yeah," said James Smith, a 230-pound football type from Salt Lake City, "I gotta take my pedicure.'

A few yards away, a former Mrs. America rubbed raspberry frappe into the skin of a woman guest; an Egyptian Adonis who says he once served as Nassers bodyguard directed exercises in a thickly carpeted gymnasium; three men lay in the darkened herbal wrap room, encased in steaming towels, and men and women — separated by a brick wall — lolled nude in the Roman bath of a place fittingly called the Garden of Eden.

Elsewhere, a shapely Norwegian beauty paced a bevy of beefy business men through a routine of mincing ballet steps while a nearby record player blared out popular tunes and, in the sauna room, 200 degree fumes of eucalyptus and Russian oil soothed tired muscles.

This is living, 1967 style — as practiced at the year - old $30 - million La Costa Spa and Country Club by the Sea, 30 miles from San Diego and 90 miles from Los Angeles. The 3,000 acre complex includes a 7,200 yard golf course, tennis courts, equestrian trails, sunken baths and built in luxury.

LUXURY ABOUNDS

"You half expect to see Calgula eating grapes in the middle of it," said one observer, "It's so opulent you gain 10 pounds just looking at it."

Founders of the project are two Las Vegas real estate operators, Irwin Molasky and Merv Adelson.

"In 10 years or so we see this area as a giant megalopolis — populated all the way up the coast to Los Angeles," said Molasky, 37, who spends most of his time in Nevada and leaves the running of the establishment to Adelson, 38.

The spa alone cost $3 million. The 72 par golf course meanders over 215 acres of country side dotted with 100 year old sycamore, pine, eucalyptus and oak trees. There are 40 miles of bridle trails, stables for 40 horses, an Olympic sized swimming pool and tennis courts presided over by the formerly high ranking Nancy Kiner Chaffee.

La Costa can tune you up with a rigid program of conditioning and diet, or let you play and gorge yourself on exotic foods in the fashion of a Roman orgy — take your choice. It accommodates 350 guests at weekly rates of $385 to $600.

One of the two men giving massages in the winter months is Al Wylder, head trainer for the Cincinnati Reds baseball club.

The women's staff looks like the chorus line at a Las Vegas night club. Else Heen is a curvy Norwegian who joins Beverlee Metzger, a shapely blonde who can belt a song like Betty Hutton, in conducting the so called La Costa capers — a swinging series of exercises conducted to music. Fran Kirchosf, who holds forth in the women's purple beauty salon, is a former Mrs. America.

Guests, in gold togas, go from the gym exercises to the steam rooms, to the sauna, to the Roman baths, to the facial and message parlors in a clock like procession that lasts from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. In the herbal wrap, they are smothered with hot towles anpointed with 21 herbs in a darkened room with a fire crackling in one corner.

There is a Swiss shower that shoots steaming hot water one second and ice cold the next, taking the breath away. The beauty treatment for both men and women is under the direction of Aida Grey of Beverly Hills.

Miss Grey prescribes different oils for tennis players and golfers. Her potions are of whipped milk base, oils and herbs. Both men and women get the treatment and the favorite of the women is sweet smelling raspberry frappe — massaged into the skin pores.

SEEKERS OF QUICKIE DIVORCES CALL the flights from New York to Juarez, just over the Mexican border, "Freedom Flights." But as the woman in the first scene at left, waits for her flight at LaGuardia airport, her thoughts turn to her children who now will be from a broken home, and to questions about what she is about to do—even though it was her own choice. Such introspection is common on the way down. Next day she would be back with her divorce. In the second scene, a New York divorce seeker, with her Mexican attorney guiding her, puts down one of several signatures required, in his office in Juarez. Next she signed her Mexican divorce plea after listening to an English translation. In the third scene, strangers, from varied backgrounds, become quick friends-for-the-day while waiting for their divorces. This group on their way from the office of the lawyer representing them, to City Hall to register, establishing their one-day residence, will proceed next to the judge's chambers across the street, where they will sign once more and receive their divorces. Climaxing the tour of official agencies in the divorce mill, two new divorcees—one from New York City and one from Connecticut—drink to their quickly gained freedom in the swank El Camino Real in Juarez, before flying back to New York, which they had left the day before. Jubilation generally is the rule after winning a Juarez divorce. Any regrets, any tears, are for later, in private. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)

Americans Keep 'Divorce Mill' In Juarez, Mexico Busy

On 35 'freedom flights' a week they come to Juarez, Americans seeking divorces, economy class—package deals. The court in this town processes 20,000 divorces a year, fast and easy. Here is a report on a typical trip to this 'supermarket' operation which offers no balm for heartache.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) They were as yet strangers, the seven Americans who straggled off the plane at El Paso Airport and took separate taxis across the bridge into Mexico.

They were a diverse group — five men and two women — yet they had a common problem, unhappy marriage. They were seeking a common solution, a Juarez divorce — quick, cheap and nearly painless. They had come from New York on what is now so common as to be called the freedom flight. Before they returned to New York after a long tomorrow, six of them would be statistics, their legal papers tied in small bales awaiting shipment to their American lawyers. The seventh would stand aside, hoping he too could soon find a way to freedom.

This is not the way the rich and celebrated get Juarez divorces. The Connie Stevenses, the Dina Merrills and the Debra Pagets travel first class with a photogenic wardrobe and a bustling bevy of counselors and consolers to make quick and easy divorces even quicker and easier. It is not the way a Charlotte Ford or a Sheila MacRae does it, either. They shuttle down in private jets that get them home again before they've missed a single beat in the social swing.

IN ECONOMY CLASS

But these seven, on this day, were economy class travelers, like most of the 20,000 Americans who get divorces in this town each year. They are working men and women, lured by the one-day residence requirement. They can't afford six weeks off the payroll to establish residence in places like Idaho or Nevada.

More than half the Americans divorced here are from New York state. This has been the case since 1965 when the State Supreme Court recognized the Mexican divorce.

It may not be the case after Sept. 1 when a new divorce law becomes effective. For 180 years New York law recognized adultery as the only grounds for divorce. The new law will list many more reasons for divorce, but on the other hand, it will require a try at conciliation, a process which can drag out several years. At the same time, out - of - state divorces will not be recognized unless the New Yorker has been absent from the state for a full year.

Five of the seven travelers on American Airlines Flight 31—one of 35 freedom flights to El Paso each week — were trying to beat the Sept. 1 deadline. They had immediate remarriage plans.

In seat 7B was an auburn - haired 23 year old, married at 16 and mother of two. A grocery clerk by day and a cocktail waitress by night, she had saved nearly three years to make this trip. Within a month she would be the wife of a pastry chef her kids now called "uncle."

The occupant in 10C was a Negro shipping clerk, divorcing his wife after a two year separation.

"It's the decent thing to do," he explained later. "She can't get on welfare with a husband."

When he got back home he planned to have a celebration and marry the woman he had been living with for nearly a year. That, too, was the decent thing to do.

The straw - haired woman in seat 14C had no remarriage plans. She had been legally separated for more than 20 years. Now, after a satisfactory settlement, she was at last "doing the old man a favor," as she put it, "cutting him loose to marry the mother of his three kids before he ups and dies."

FIRST TRIP AWAY

For the mousy little brunette with thick lensed glasses in seat 8E, this was the first trip away from her home in upstate New York. "I was never even on a bus before. Can you imagine a plane?" She was nervous, but once she reached Juarez she bubbled with optimism. Her horoscope promised a wedding in August, and so had her new boy friend.

The girl in seat 12D was dusky, water eyed and voluptuous in a tight blue suit and stilleto heeled pumps. This was her second freedom flight. Two hours after her day in court she would board a plane for Los Angeles in pursuit of a new last name.

To the annoyance of the stewardess, a rangy, weather leathered ex - mailman had ignored his seat assignment, sprawling across two empty seats in the rear to wisecrack to the girls. Impetuously he had blown his job and his marriage because "I just got fed up." He was also to admit eventually, "there's another chick."

In seat 5A was a big woman with a mane of blonde hair and huge sun glasses that hid her emotions. Mother of three, her first marriage had ended with widowhood. She had been lonely and frightened. Now she was losing her second mate, by choice.

Some things were worse than loneliness, she contended later when she related with candor the brief, strange experience of her freedom flight.

TOMORROW'S PROMISE

The trip down was not a time for talk. Tomorrow would promise a fresh start. Today was a time for introspection.

Had the past actually been that bad. What of the children.

All told 14 youngsters, ranging from the mousy brunette's infant boy to the shipping clerk's teen age twin girls, would henceforth be children of broken homes. Their custody and support had been mutually arrived at earlier by attorneys for the couples involved. Mexican divorce courts do not arbitrate such matters. But were the children emotionally prepared.

The blonde in 5A — let's call her Sandy — recalled how her 8 - year-old son had come to her bedroom early that morning as she packed. His real father had died when he was an infant. When she had remarried he had been thrilled to have a dad like the other kids. Now he was crying.

"Will daddy still come and play baseball with me after you get back from your divorce trip?" he asked.

Between wisecracks to the stewardess, the mailman said he spent a lot of time wondering how you go about finding a Mexican lawyer like the others he had not had an American attorney to make arrangements for him.

"My miserable woman won't sign nothing," he said.

"I came down here looking for a lawyer and a loophole somewhere."

PROXY PAPERS

The others carried proxy papers signed by absent spouses which said in effect that the divorce was mutually desired on the grounds of incompatability. These are the only grounds in Mexican courts, and there is no need to prove that one party or the other is guilty of the marriage failure.

This part of the Mexican divorce has special appeal to many who believe that the need to create evidence to satisfy a judge encourages fraud, and that public accusations, however true, are debasing.

Like many other things, the cost of a Mexican divorce is what the traffic will bear. Sandy's cost her $700, of which $300 was plane fare and hotel expenses. Her American lawyer, a friend, charged only $100 for arranging the settlement and contacting the Mexican lawyer in New York.

On her first visit to the white thatched, pot bellied fellow, he asked for a certified check for $750 as his fee. Sandy's lawyer dickered until the old man came down to $300. Court costs, registration and certification — amounting to $172 — came out of this, leaving $128 to be divided between the Mexican firm's New York and Juarez offices.

"Don't fret," said Sandy's lawyer. "Juarez operates on the supermarket theory of profit on volume."

The auburn - haired waitress had bought a package deal — ticket, fees, and a dinner date with the Mexican lawyer, all inclusive for $800.

IMMEDIATE RECOGNITION

The garrulous cabbie who took Sandy across the Rio Grande recognized her as a divorcee immediately.

"You can always tell. Men don't carry luggage, Women carry little bags that hardly weigh nothing at all. Who steered you onto your hotel. Never heard of it. Well, I'd stay in my room if I was you. Juarez is tough and dirty. No place for a woman. I never cross the border if I can help it. Not at night. Mean town. Left a girl for an abortion here six weeks ago. Down that street. She nearly died. Sure, they are legal they aren't. Everything rotten is here."

Sandy decided later — in the light of the next day — that cabbies like to frighten newcomers. Well, he had succeeded.

"Juarez was strange and frightening in the darkness. All those blinking bawdy signs hawking Marie, the burlesque queen, and 'Tequila, 20 cents,' and things in Spanish I didn't understand. One jumping red neon sign advertised Divorcios."

Sandy began to understand that one very well.

In recounting her emotions the next day, Sandy said she was surprised to discover that her hotel was a nice little place. Unpretentious, but clean. After the baggage boy brought up her luggage, adjusted the heat, filled an ice bucket and warned her not to drink the water, she was suddenly alone. Overwhelmingly alone in a very strange, faraway place.

From the cocktail lounge downstairs she could hear loud Latin music and women laughing shrilly.

"I lay on the bed and stared at the faded yellow butterflies on the wallpaper. I didn't want to look at the unmussed twin bed beside me. I remember thinking that it was a symbol of the kind of life I had chosen for myself from here on in."

CLERKS BUSY

At 8 a.m. hotel clerks all over Juarez were busy awakening their divorce clientele. Somewhat anxiously the candidates assembled in the lobbies waiting to be picked up by chauffeurs sent by their Mexican lawyers.

It was there in the hotel lobby that four of the freedom flight passengers recognized each other. Along with Sandy there was the old lady with two-red cheeks the horoscope reader and the shipping clerk. They rode to the same lawyer's office, making small talk about the coincidence to cover their embarrassment.

At the lawyer's office there were two more, the red-haired cocktail waitress and the dark, silent, sexy woman. Here the six became acquainted as they waited. the Young Spanish girls giggled among themselves, typed something occasionally, and ignored the crowd in the waiting room.

WAIT, THEN FLURRY

An hour passed before the dapped little lawyer arrived breathlessly and threw the office into a flurry of activity. Eventually each client was called in to listen to the English translation of his divorce plea and to sign the papers.

Sandy panicked momentarily when one of the girls asked her for proof of American citizenship which could be presented to the judge. All she could produce was a credit card and an expired driver's license. The girls said these would do.

After stuffing sheafs of papers into a brief case too big for a tiny man, the lawyer led his pack through several streets and up the winding stairs of City Hall. There the group found the mailman hanging around the entrance, asking questions of anyone who could speak English.

Upstairs in the barnlike wooden hall, divorce seekers lined the benches from the room, or gathered in little groups with people they recognized from their particular flight.

The pack gains in size as it trails the lawyer on his routine down - down the curved steps, through a sunny court, across a back street. Urchins jumped off the hoods of double parked cars and ran after them begging, "A penny, please!"

Divorce clients are seldom Mexicans. In this country, divorce is strictly an export business.

The judge's chambers were no larger than a poor tax accountant's. Consider the amount of time spent there, it was adequate.

The little attorney summoned Sandy. "Come in and say 'hello' to the judge."

The judge was a surprisingly young man in a business suit behind a big oak desk.

"Hello," Sandy said dutifully feeling like a 3-year-old.

The judge nodded and pointed to a line in a large book where she was to sign. She signed. The little attorney leaped up gleefully and pumped her hand.

Sandy was a Juarez divorcee.

As each stumbled out of the tiny office into the street there was a new burst of jubilation among those still waiting. Free! Unbelievably easy.

American Woman Ready For Bullfighting Debut

By KELLY SMITH

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Spain (AP) — A green eyed New York city model—36-23-36—will make her debut this summer as Spain's first American bullfighter on horseback.

She will ride a brown stallion into the bull ring, doff her sombrero, and in a highly ritualized ballet of courage, sink swords into a bull. Within 20 minutes, if the bull is dead. Elaine Reynolds—formerly of television and fashion salons — will be a rejoneador.

"My parents think I'm crazy," she said in an interview. "It's wild. It's fantastic and thrilling.

"You're all alone out there. The crowd roars. You don't hear them. It's him or death."

Elaine, at 25, looks like anything but a rejoneador, a bullfighter on horseback. She is 5 feet 8, weighs a shapely 125, and ties her auburn hair simply in back.

A year ago she came to Mallorca to visit friends, fell in love with the sunny, resort atmosphere of the Mediterranean and decided to stay.

She didn't speak Spanish then. She had never seen a bullfight and her job experience was limited to a traveling water show and four years of modeling and commercials.

JOB IN SHOW

"I got this job in the show at Titos," she says. Titos is a popular local night club. "I was a dancer, and I had never danced in my life. They put me in the back row—very well covered—and prayed."

Weekends she went horseback riding, and in the process met tall, handsome Moises Royo — "Largartito" — one of Spain's six professionally active rejoneadors. Moises has killed 800 bulls in the last 10 years.

Elaine went to work part time in Moises' stables and talked him into coaching her. He is the first to admit he was skeptical.

"The bull ring is not a place to be beautiful or have fun," Moises said. "It's serious business. There are two women rejoneadors in the world. They can be gored as easily as a man."

In Spain, a woman is prohibited by law from fighting a bull on foot.

LONG PRACTICE

"I killed myself practicing," Elaine says. "I practiced for months before I'd even seen a rejoneador in the bull ring. I got to thinking — what if after all this work I don't like it. Just like a New Yorker to learn something before you even know if you like it.

"Fortunately, I did. I love it. More every time I'm in the ring. I've killed some — little bulls. Big or little, they're still bulls. I don't have any feelings about being cruel. It's him or me."

Moises stood outside the white stucco practice ring late one day watching Elaine maneuver her horse through paces. He frowned, clapped, pursed his lips and shouted orders in Spanish.

It takes five years to train a horse for the bull ring. Elaine's mount, Brillante, has considerable ring experience. Most rejoneadors keep a stable of at least five horses.

Elaine admits to being nervous. "But once I get in there I concentrate too hard to think about it. Once you're in the ring — it's your life and the life of your horse. You can't blow a $10,000 horse or your neck by being stupid."

At home in North Bergen, N.J., her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olivia, worry. But they know she's serious. Those who have watched her day after day in Mallorca say she has great potential.

"If any woman has the makings of a great rejoneador," says Moises, "it's this one."

"I was making $20,000 a year and up looking sexy and provocative for television commercials," says Elaine. "Now I'm broke and covered with dirt. Think I'd stay here if I wasn't serious?

"Besides, in 15 minutes I can make up to $15,000. Who makes that in America besides Frank Sinatra?"

Garden Center Notes

'Home Sweet Home' Designs

BY MRS. JOHN TOLAR

From its recent flower show, "Home Sweet Home," the Garden Gate Garden Club brought winning designs to be displayed on the weekly Fifth District Garden Center program last Wednesday. Five of the designs were made from interesting dried materials, for the den, kitchen and boy's room.

The one all - fresh design entitled, "Reflections," for the master bed room was the winner of the Tri - Color award, It was made by Mrs. F. B. Etheridge. This was a design made to be used on the large dressing table, before a large mirror. The container was improvised from an antique lamp base (iron), sprayed antique white. A clear glass custard cup was secured on top to hold the plant material which consisted of iris foliage for the primary line, three lovely pink roses against a background of ivy. A drape of pink material was used to soften the whole design as a backdrop and base. The design was placed on a round marble base, top of an antique smoking stand.

For the den, "Sit a Spell," Mrs. Clyde Robinson used a dark brown wooden humidor as a container for the collection of dried materials consisting of sea oats (dyed dark brown), wheat, thistle, okra pods and lotus pods in the central area. Small frilly materials, such as statice, roadside grasses, and devil's claws were used as fillers.

In this same class, Mrs. Chester Coker made a design featuring a log round (red wood) for a container, with styafoam attached on the top to hold the dried materials in place. These consisted of dock, thistles, oak leaves, money plant (lunaria), hydrangea bloom, and large thistle blooms for the focal interest.

Two designs featured in the class "Hi, Neighbor," for the kitchen, were made of fall dried materials. The first was made by Mrs. Aaron May, the club's president - swirling garlic blooms interpreted with their welcoming lines in the position of friendly gesture of arms. Okra pods, peppers, celosia, straw flowers, and hydrangea blooms were used in an attractive tan colored ceramic cookie jar made by Mrs. May's daughter. This was mounted on an iron grill stand. Burlap was used as a base.

The other design in this class was made by Mrs. Sandra Jones, who cleverly used a small orange porcelain coffee pot for a container for dried materials, beginning with glycernized magnolia foliage for the overall line. Dried marigolds were used in the focal area with cattails, wheat and desert spoons as fillers. A dark brown place mat (woven straw) was used as a base. The lid was placed on the mat as an accessory.

The last design, winner of Award of Distinction, was made by Mrs. W. P. Lofton. A palm spath combined with a small base ball bat (within it's cavity) served as the primary line. with dried rubber plant leaves placed next around a large tree fungus. This was mounted against a piece of styafoam, serving as the container. A cluster of dried mums were placed in the center of the fungus, all placed on an irregular shaped base sprayed with sand. A small baseball trophy served as an accessory.

Now is the time to collect materials for drying while there are plenty of blooms. Many methods are used for this, such as hanging and drying upside down in a dark cool place, or by placing the blooms in a mixture of sand and borax. The last method is one that is most commonly used for delicate blooms. To glycernize materials simply place the stems in the mixture of glycerine and water (half and half), immediately after cutting. Leave for a week or 10 days until the desired texture and color are acquired. Take out immediately if the moisture forms on the foliage (bleeding). This is a very successful method of preserving magnolia foliage, waxy leaves of yew, sasanqua, hollies, aspidestra and many others of this type of textures. These materials may then be used indefinitely in arrangements, and are pliable as in fresh stage.

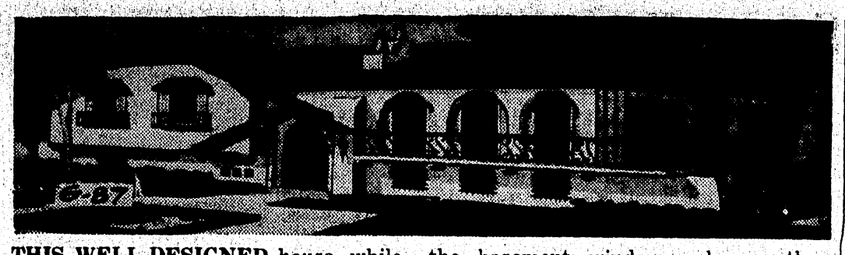
Now that roses are in their peak and the blooms are so fragrant and lovely many have inquired for a recipe of rose potpourri. I have several on hand at the center that I will gladly share. This is one that I believe is most used: "Grandmother's potpourri": Gather from your garden fragrant rose petals, enough to fill two quart jars when dried. Spread them on clean paper or cloth and dry throughly, but quickly in an airy room (not in sun). If enough cannot be gathered at one time, the petals my be dried and collected in a covered crock until the right amount is obtained. Gather also from your garden and dry in the same manner, any or all of the following: Leaves of spearmint bergamot, rose geranium, lemon verbena, or lemon mint, rosemary, and the flowers of pinks, carnations, lavender heliotrope. You will need only about one quart of these (when dried half as much as you have rose petals.) When the petals and herbs are dry and you are ready to start mixing, assemble the following necessities:

(1) Generous supply of table salt.

(2) A spice mixture made by combining a few or all of these: ¼ ounce allspcie, ¼ ounce powdered cloves, ⅛ ounce crushed cardamon seeds, ⅛ ounce gum storax, ¼ ounce of powdered cinnamon, ¼ once nutmeg, ⅛ ounce crushed coriander seeds, ⅛ ounce powdered gum benzoin.

(3) a large crock or glazed pottery jar to mix and store potpourri in. It must have a close fitting lid. Put in a half inch layer of rose petals, add a thin layer of mixed herbs, sprinkle the surface lightly with salt, and add a small amount of the spice mixture. Repeat, adding layers of rose petals, herbs, salt and spices until all is used up. Then stir mixture briefly, cover jar tightly and put it away in a cool, dark place. Leave it there to ripen for six or eight weeks. Open every week to stir thoroughly always replacing the cover tightly again. If the rose scent is not strong enough, add about one drop of attar of roses (rose oil).

Wednesday, the West Oak Garden Club of Monroe, will present the program.



THIS WELL-DESIGNED house, while possessing the characteristics of good Spanish styling, has one basic diffence: it is a split entry, which pulls the basement windows above the ground and turns the lower level into a completely habital area.

Unusual Bi-Level House Plan Features Spanish Styling

By ANDY LANG

Recent designs in the House of the Week series have included two highly popular features — the contemporary split entry or bi - level and the outdoor deck or balcony.

This week, the split entry is combined with the outdoor deck in traditional styling. Moreover, the traditional is Spanish architecture, once a favorite only in the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast, but now seen more and more in all parts of the country. A balcony is noting new in Spanish design, but the inclusion of the two in a split entry house is something of a departure. Architect Rudolph A. Matern has done an excellent job of producing a distinctive, eye-catching exterior as well as an interesting, practical interior suitable for a large family.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe-Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-87.

In addition to three bedrooms on the upper level, there are two other bedrooms on the lower level. This is one of the big advantages of a split entry, which pulls the basement partly out of the ground so that it becomes highly habitable. Note, for instance, that the windows of both lower - level bedrooms are completely above ground, giving light and livability that would be absent if the basement were in its traditional underground position.

One of the two bedrooms on the lower level could be used as a den, study or sewing room if desired. Also on this floor is a large recreation room, nearly 25' long, as well as a full bath, a utility room, a laundry and space for two cars. The architect has divded the garage area so that one side could be used for a studio, office or workshop. But even with both sides utilized for automobiles, there is still room for a large workbench and two storage cabinets. The lower level can be reached from either the front or the rear of the house without going through any of the rooms on the main level.

Upstairs, a few steps from the entry foyer, are the basic rooms - a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, two baths and a spacious outdoor deck. The living room is especially interesting, with its handsome fireplace, narrow balcony across the arched front windows and wide deck porch at the side. The deck porch can also be reached from the adjoining dining room.

AMPLE SPACE

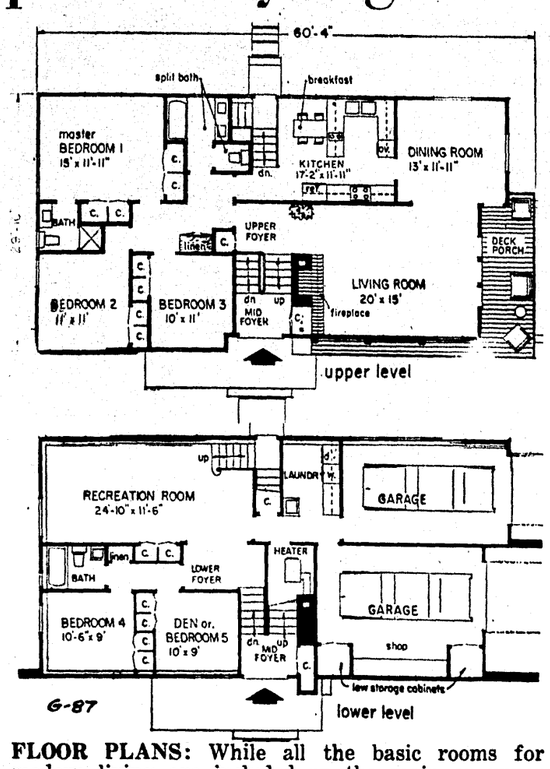
The kitchen, more than 17' long, has ample space for a full breakfast table and a step-saving arrangement of appliances, counters and cabinets. Next to the kitchen is the stairway to the lower - level laundry and a door to the backyard.

The master bedroom has its own private bathroom, including a stall shower. There are two sets of closets so that "his" and "her" clothes can be kept separately. The second bath on this floor is of the split type, with a tub and a double lavatory.

The front entry foyer is strikingly attractive, with a curved-top closet, paneled doors, wrought iron stair and Spanish-type floor tiles.

Outside, every detail bespeaks the finest in Spanish architecture. The front entrance, being at a lower level than the main floor, allows the doors to snuggle under the double gable roof for a most interesting effect. The two front bedroom windows have wrought iron balconies, louver shutters and copper hoods. There is even design interest in the chimney, with its two centrally-located chimney pots.

A captivating house, this.



FLOOR PLANS: While all the basic rooms for modern living are included on the main or upper level of this split entry, including an outdoor deck, the layout on the lower level adds livable space without any increase in the over - all dimensions of the house.

Landscape Peak Near

During May, the landscape is usually at its peak for usefulness. Mild day and night temperature make the outdoor area the center of family fun and enjoyment. However, besides its many rewards, there are necessary monthly chores that must be given attention if continuous enjoyment is expected.

Be sure to dust gladiolus with 5 per cent DDT to control thrips. If corms were planted too shallow or if strong winds bend plants, stake for better formed flower spikes.

Most annuals and perennials will branch rather freely if given enough space to develop naturally. However, the following will bloom more abundantly if the top buds are pinched out: Calendula, snapdragon, dahlia, zinnia, phlox, verbena, petunia, and pinks. Do not pinch cockscomb, poppy or stock.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want to add color; the hibiscus is an excellent selection, but needs abundant sunlight to bloom. They, also, respond well to fertilizer and moisture for good growth. They are excellent choices for summer and fall color. Hibiscus blooms will remain open in the evening if cut in the early morning and placed under refrigeration.

To save labor and conserve moisture, mulch flower beds and shrubs with pine straw, leaf mold or lawn clippings. This mulch, also, aids in keeping down weeds and grasses.

Gloves are a necessity in winter and a fashion note during the other seasons of the year. Bright colored gloves are seldom smart looking as they put too much emphasis on the hands. Remember a bright color can be used for two accessories but never for more than two. For instance red shoes and bag are excellent for that navy suit or dress but don't add red gloves. Three or more accessories of a bright color will look like so many splashes of color. Short white gloves are good with spring and summer clothes, because we usually wear light colors at these seasons. Again I repeat that bright colored gloves are seldom smart looking as they put too much emphasis on the hands.

Some of our homemakers are confused in reading information on backing. Backing is a second layer of fabric cut from the garment pattern pieces and stay-stitched to the wrong side of corresponding outer sections before any seams are joined. We also call this underlining. The two layers of fabric are then handled as one backing being sewn into seams of outer fabric. Backing must not be confused with lining whose sections are sewed separately, and which is sewed to an otherwise completed garment as in inside finish.

Many of us use the word underline which means the same as backing. Backing or underlining saves many uses. With raw silk and soft wools will prevent pulling out at the seams. With lace and sheer fabric, backing will prevent the see-through problem. In certain pattern designs such as A-line, or bell shaped or in a bodice shell, backing shapes the garment when the outside fabric does not have sufficient body to do so. Backing will prevent a loosely woven fabric from stretching, especially at points of greatest strain. I will include more on this next week.

Garden Center Notes

'Home Sweet Home' Designs

BY MRS. JOHN TOLAR

From its recent flower show, "Home Sweet Home," the Garden Gate Garden Club brought winning designs to be displayed on the weekly Fifth District Garden Center program last Wednesday. Five of the designs were made from interesting dried materials, for the den, kitchen and boy's room.

The one all - fresh design entitled, "Reflections," for the master bed room was the winner of the Tri - Color award, It was made by Mrs. F. B. Etheridge. This was a design made to be used on the large dressing table, before a large mirror. The container was improvised from an antique lamp base (iron), sprayed antique white. A clear glass custard cup was secured on top to hold the plant material which consisted of iris foliage for the primary line, three lovely pink roses against a background of ivy. A drape of pink material was used to soften the whole design as a backdrop and base. The design was placed on a round marble base, top of an antique smoking stand.

For the den, "Sit a Spell," Mrs. Clyde Robinson used a dark brown wooden humidor as a container for the collection of dried materials consisting of sea oats (dyed dark brown), wheat, thistle, okra pods and lotus pods in the central area. Small frilly materials, such as statice, roadside grasses, and devil's claws were used as fillers.

In this same class, Mrs. Chester Coker made a design featuring a log round (red wood) for a container, with styafoam attached on the top to hold the dried materials in place. These consisted of dock, thistles, oak leaves, money plant (lunaria), hydrangea bloom, and large thistle blooms for the focal interest.

Two designs featured in the class "Hi, Neighbor," for the kitchen, were made of fall dried materials. The first was made by Mrs. Aaron May, the club's president - swirling garlic blooms interpreted with their welcoming lines in the position of friendly gesture of arms. Okra pods, peppers, celosia, straw flowers, and hydrangea blooms were used in an attractive tan colored ceramic cookie jar made by Mrs. May's daughter. This was mounted on an iron grill stand. Burlap was used as a base.

The other design in this class was made by Mrs. Sandra Jones, who cleverly used a small orange porcelain coffee pot for a container for dried materials, beginning with glycernized magnolia foliage for the overall line. Dried marigolds were used in the focal area with cattails, wheat and desert spoons as fillers. A dark brown place mat (woven straw) was used as a base. The lid was placed on the mat as an accesfory.

The last design, winner of Award of Distinction, was made by Mrs. W. P. Lofton. A palm spath combined with a small base ball bat (within it's cavity) served as the primary line. with dried rubber plant leaves placed next around a large tree fungus. This was mounted against a piece of styafoam, serving as the container. A cluster of dried mums were placed in the center of the fungus, all placed on an irregular shaped base sprayed with sand. A small baseball trophy served as an accessory.

Now is the time to collect materials for drying while there are plenty of blooms. Many methods are used for this, such as hanging and drying upside down in a dark cool place, or by placing the blooms in a mixture of sand and borax. The last method is one that is most commonly used for delicate blooms. To glycernize materials simply place the stems in the mixture of glycerine and water (half and half), immediately after cutting. Leave for a week or 10 days until the desired texture and color are acquired. Take out immediately if the moisture forms on the foliage (bleeding). This is a very successful method of preserving magnolia foliage, waxy leaves of yew, sasanqua, hollies, aspidestra and many others of this type of textures. These materials may then be used indefinitely in arrangements, and are pliable as in fresh stage.

Now that roses are in their peak and the blooms are so fragrant and lovely many have inquired for a recipe of rose potpourri. I have several on hand at the center that I will gladly share. This is one that I believe is most used: "Grandmother's potpourri": Gather from your garden fragrant rose petals, enough to fill two quart jars when dried. Spread them on clean paper or cloth and dry throughly, but quickly in an airy room (not in sun). If enough cannot be gathered at one time, the petals my be dried and collected in a covered crock until the right amount is obtained. Gather also from your garden and dry in the same manner, any or all of the following: Leaves of spearmint bergamot, rose geranium, lemon verbena, or lemon mint, rosemary, and the flowers of pinks, carnations, lavender heliotrope. You will need only about one quart of these (when dried half as much as you have rose petals.) When the petals and herbs are dry and you are ready to start mixing, assemble the following necessities:

(1) Generous supply of table salt.

(2) A spice mixture made by combining a few or all of these: ¼ ounce allspcie, ¼ ounce powdered cloves, ⅛ ounce crushed cardamon seeds, ⅛ ounce gum storax, ¼ ounce of powdered cinnamon, ¼ once nutmeg, ⅛ ounce crushed coriander seeds, ⅛ ounce powdered gum benzoin.

(3) a large crock or glazed pottery jar to mix and store potpourri in. It must have a close fitting lid. Put in a half inch layer of rose petals, add a thin layer of mixed herbs, sprinkle the surface lightly with salt. and add a small amount of the spice mixture. Repeat, adding layers of rose petals, herbs, salt and spices until all is used up. Then stir mixture briefly, cover jar tightly and put it away in a cool, dark place. Leave it there to ripen for six or eight weeks. Open every week to stir thoroughly always replacing the cover tightly again. If the rose scent is not strong enough, add about one drop of attar of roses (rose oil).

Wednesday, the West Oak Garden Club of Monroe, will present the program.

THIS WELL-DESIGNED house, while possessing the characteristics of good Spanish styling, has one basic diffence: it is a split entry, which pulls the basement windows above the ground and turns the lower level into a completely habital area.

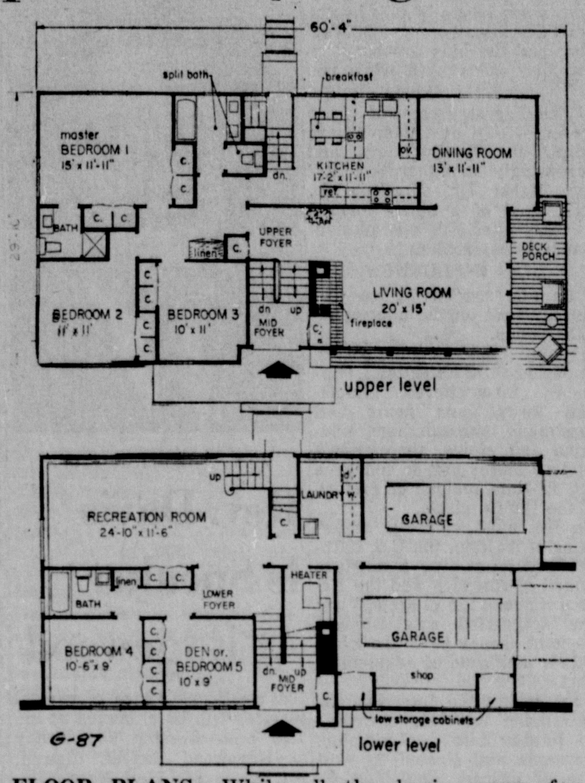
Unusual Bi-Level House Plan Features Spanish Styling

By ANDY LANG

Recent designs in the House of the Week series have included two highly popular features — the contemporary split entry or bi - level and the outdoor deck or balcony.

This week, the split entry is combined with the outdoor deck in traditional styling. Moreover, the traditional is Spanish architecture, once a favorite only in the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast, but now seen more and more in all parts of the country. A balcony is noting new in Spanish design, but the inclusion of the two in a split entry house is something of a departure. Architect Rudolph A. Matern has done an excellent job of producing a distinctive, eye-catching exterior as well as an interesting, practical interior suitable for a large family.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe-Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-87.



FLOOR PLANS: While all the basic rooms for modern living are included on the main or upper level of this split entry, including an outdoor deck, the layout on the lower level adds livable space without any increase in the over - all dimensions of the house.

In addition to three bedrooms on the upper level, there are two other bedrooms on the lower level. This is one of the big advantages of a split entry, which pulls the basement partly out of the ground so that it becomes highly habitable. Note, for instance, that the windows of both lower - level bedrooms are completely above ground, giving light and livability that would be absent if the basement were in its traditional underground position.

One of the two bedrooms on the lower level could be used as a den, study or sewing room if desired. Also on this floor is a large recreation room, nearly 25' long, as well as a full bath, a utility room, a laundry and space for two cars. The architect has divded the garage area so that one side could be used for a studio, office or workshop. But even with both sides utilized for automobiles, there is still room for a large workbench and two storage cabinets. The lower level can be reached from either the front or the rear of the house without going through any of the rooms on the main level.

Upstairs, a few steps from the entry foyer, are the basic rooms - a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, two baths and a spacious outdoor deck. The living room is especially interesting, with its handsome fireplace, narrow balcony across the arched front windows and wide deck porch at the side. The deck porch can also be reached from the adjoining dining room.

AMPLE SPACE

The kitchen, more than 17' long, has ample space for a full breakfast table and a step-saving arrangement of appliances, counters and cabinets. Next to the kitchen is the stairway to the lower - level laundry and a door to the backyard.

The master bedroom has its own private bathroom, including a stall shower. There are two sets of closets so that "his" and "her" clothes can be kept separately. The second bath on this floor is of the split type, with a tub and a double lavatory.

The front entry foyer is strikingly attractive, with a curved-top closet, paneled doors, wrought iron stair and Spanish-type floor tiles.

Outside, every detail bespeaks the finest in Spanish architecture. The front entrance, being at a lower level than the main floor, allows the doors to snuggle under the double gable roof for a most interesting effect. The two front bedroom windows have wrought iron balconies, louver shutters and copper hoods. There is even design interest in the chimney, with its two centrally-located chimney pots.

A captivating house, this.

Featured at the services will be Evangelist and Mrs. Ted Stephens of Waxahachie, Texas.

Services will be held nightly at 7:15. Sunday morning services will be at 11.

REV. WALTER SHURDEN

Area Pastor Is Honored By College

PINEVILLE (Special) — Dr. Walter B. Shurden, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ruston, has been named "Pastor of the Week" at Louisiana College, for Monday through Wednesday, according to Dr. G. Earl Guinn.

Dr. Shurden will address students at chapel services Monday and Wednesday hold personal conferences on campus during the day and lecture to selected classes.

A native of Greenville, Miss., Dr. Shurden received the bachelor of arts degree from Mississippi College, the bachelor of divinity and doctor of theology degrees from the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

During 1965-66 school year the Shurdens lived in Hamilton, Ontaria, Canada, where Dr. Shurden taught church history at McMaster Divinity College, a Canadian Baptist School.

The Shurdens have three children.

New Sanctuary Fund Emphasis Program Point

The "New Sanctuary Fund" is being emphasized in a program of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe as it climaxes its every member canvass.

The program is aimed at informing the congregation on the church's activities.

A Loyalty Dinner was held last Friday, and Loyalty Sunday will be observed today for the purpose of bringing in pledges to underwrite the church's budget for the conference year 1967-68.

The present sanctuary of the church, which is 45 years old, is considered in good condition, but it is necessary to hold two Sunday morning services to accomodate all of the congregation. Plans are being aimed at newer styles of architecture in a sanctuary with ground level entrances, and more seating space.

During the past year, the church retired the last of its debts, officials said.

St. Joseph's Starts Work Of Council

St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Monroe recently formed a Parish Council.

The action was taken as a followup of the formation of a Senate in the diocese by Bishop Charles P. Greco of Alexandria.

The Rev. William F. Allen, pastor of St. Joseph's selected 17 parishioners from different sections of the parish to make up the Council. They include: Chester Soignier, Hosea Douglas, M.J. Varino, Ivan Acosta, Victor Gallier, Trouard Breard, John Arthur, Mrs. Georgia Filhiol, Mrs. C. C. Fontana, Miss Elizabeth Shaughnessy, Mrs. Peggy Semmes, Nick Conti, Tyson Bordelon, Pat Conti, Edward Machnik, Frank P. Ticheli, and Mrs. Fred Brownlee.

The objective of the Council is to find out from the parishioners what suggestions or criticism they may have to offer on the management of the church. The Council meets with Father Allen, who in turn meets with the bishop and other priests from the diocese to discuss the suggestions. The bishop and priests who make up the Senate, pass on the suggestions.

FIRST ACTION

At the first meeting of the Council, held last Sunday, the following officers were elected: M.J. Varino, president; John Arthur, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Shaughnessy, secretary, and Mrs. Peggy Semmes, telephone chairman.

The primary discussion at the session centered on whether St. Joseph's Parish should form a Catholic Credit Union or join one already in operation.

A decision was made to invite James S. Lemee, Shreveport, field representative for the Louisiana Credit Union League, to meet with the church's parishioners 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Parish Hall.

He will explain the functions of his organization and answer questions from parishioners about starting a credit union here, which would allow them to start savings accounts and to borrow money for payment of doctor and hospital bills and other needs.

In other action at its first meeting the Council also initiated a plan for a new parking area, arranging for the filling of a ditch in front of the church and asking for a canopy over the front door of the church.

The Council set its regular meeting time as 7:30 p.m. on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

Education Annex To Be Dedicated

The historic Alabama Presbyterian Church, five miles north of Choudrant, will dedicate its new education annex Sunday, May 14, at the 11 a.m. worship service.

The Rev. S. E. McFadden, D. D., of Somerville, Tenn., former pastor of the church, will be guest preacher. Following the worship service, a basket dinner will be served in Hutton Hall at Camp Alabama.

The original building was constructed under the leadership of the Rev. Robert Gage, now pastor of the Winnfield Presbyterian Church.

MEMORIAL FUND

The memorial fund for the annex was started under the ministry of the Rev. Clark Williams, now associate pastor of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church in Shreveport.

The Rev. Lee Grisso became pastor in June, 1965, and his guidance has brought to fruition the new annex. John A. O'Neal Jr., chairman of the finance committee, and James R. O'Neal, chairman of the building committee, with their committees, planned and directed the details of the construction.

Church officials said, "Former members of the church, and all friends of the church are cordially invited by the congregation to celebrate this memorable occasion with them."

Endowment Fund Provides Bibles For Home Here

A substantial gift has been made to the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe by Mrs. W. Dwight Martin of Arcadia to establish the W. Dwight Martin Memorial Endowment Fund to provide Bibles for new children moving into the Home.

Wade B. East, Home superintendent, explained that the principal amount of the gift will never be exhausted since it will be invested by the Louisiana Baptist Foundation. The interest earned by the fund will be used by the Children's Home. East pointed out that this means that year after year a number of Bibles will be purchased in memory of the late Mr. Martin and be placed in the hands of youngsters who come to live in the Home.

Strong Family Circle Aim Of Spiritual Drive

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Long ago, a classic instruction singled out family conversation as the prime means of passing on religious convictions from generation to generation.

"And you shall teach them diligently to your children," goes the directive to parents in Deuteronomy 6:7, "and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise."

The trouble today, however, is that the restless pace and style of living don't offer much chance for leisurely talk by the hearth, or walks by the wayside, and the kids are busy before bed and rushed when you rise.

"The pressures of our present - day environment are pulling the family apart and increasingly disintegrating it," says Rabbi Dr. Mordecai L. Brill, head of a newly formed national, interfaith commission to tackle the problem.

LESS INFLUENCE

"Families are having less and less influence on the upbringing of the young."

Eyeing this contemporary atmosphere of shifting residences, far-scattered kinfolk, work away from home and mass-made entertainment, education and ethics, the nation's religious forces aim to reinforce that old-time molder of maturity, the family circle.

In the most inclusive undertaking of its kind, the U.S. Catholic Conference, the Synagogue Council of America and the National Council of Churches last year authorized establishment of a joint agency to do the job.

It's a new zone of ecumenical effort.

This spring the Interreligious Commission on Sex, Marriage and Family Life was mapping operations and elected its first slate of officers, including its president, Rabbi Brill, 57, a family counselor on the staff of the American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry.

"The family is the basic unit of society," he observed in an interview.

BASIC VALUES

"Our basic values are derived from it. It's where we get civilized, or fail to get civilized. Strong family units mean a good society, and you can't have a good society without them."

In the present environment of much moving, motorcars and mass-organized employment, schools and communication, however, "even the best of families are pulled apart by the strains," he said.

"This is undermining not only our religious values but other values that are essential for bringing up the young into genuine adulthood," he said.

"We're got to stop the trend. It's going to be a hard, hard fight, but I'm optimistic that something can be done about it. The familly still is the basic unit, with powerful potential, and we're got to build it up."

Too often, nowadays, the home has become "merely a place where people come to sleep, with most of their real interests focused outside the home," he said.

As for modern children, he added, many of them now get "most of their guidance from the television screen, from peer groups on the street or in school and from impersonal outside influences.

"These things, often promoting violence and exploiting sex, tend to become more determinative and important in shaping values than the parents."

Rabbi Brill, a family man himself, has a married daughter and two teen-agers. The commission, in choosing him as its president, drew from a religious tradition noted for its special warmth of family life.

"Judaism is unique in being a largely family centered religion," he said. "Many of its rituals take place in the home, and it has always emphasized the primacy and sacredness of family life.

"It has often been pointed out that even if the synagogue were to disappear, Judaism would go on through the home. The synagogue is secondary to the home in the nurturing of faith."

Nevertheless, Jewish as well as Christian homes are being weakened by the present "pressures and complexities" of living, he said. "Thankfully, we've finally begun to work together in this fundamental area."

A Roman Catholic layman, William Maughan, a New York public relations specialist, is vice president of the commission of 18 experts, and its secretary is the Rev. William H. Gene of the Protestant-Orthodox National Council.

BROAD AGREEMENT

The Rev. Mr. Gene said that despite differences among Jewis, Catholics and Protestants, they agree on "90 per cent of our stands on family life."

In its initial phases, the commission is working on a joint approach to sex education, the divorce problem, and examining mutual responsibilities of home, church and school in nurturing children.

"The child is usually damaged when family living collapses," said a joint statement by the sponsoring groups, embracing the bulk of the country's religious bodies. "When this happens on a massive scale, the community itself is crippled."

To try to counter the crippling, they pledged through the new agency to pursue "all ways and means available to strengthen family life in America."

GOAD OF SANCTITY

NEW YOUR (AP) — "The most disturbing thing about sanctity is that we are all called to it." Donald J. Thorman, publisher of the National Catholic Reporter, observes in a new Doubleday book, "The Christian Vision."

TABLETS OF STONE

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbi Theodore Ross, of Temple Sinai in Queens, recently led an expedition to the top of Mount Sinai in the Holy Land. There, he had two slabs of granite carved out of the famed bibical mountain, where Moses received the 10 Commandments. Shipped back to the temple here, the slabs have been inscribed with those universal moral laws.

Religious Bias Waning In Nation, Poll Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious bias, long a worrisome factor in American political elections, appears to have lost most of its influence among the voting citizenry.

Several studies have indicated the shift. The latest one finds that the proportion of people who would discredit a candidate because of a difference in faith has dwindled sharply in the last decade to a small minority.

In that period, the country had its first Roman Catholic president, John F. Kennedy, whose performance evidently did much to spike prejudices. Also, the rising ecumenical movement has spurred interreligious knowledge of one another.

In any case, a representative nationwide survey, published in the Catholic Digest, finds that the percentage of Protestants disinclined to vote for a Catholic candidate has been cut almost in half.

Asked if they would just as soon vote for a Catholic as for someone of their own faith, the overwhelming majority of Protestants, 65, per cent, and Jews, 86 per cent, said yes. It was a big change compared to their response to the same question in 1952.

At that time, 57 per cent of Protestants and 31 per cent of Jews said no. Now, only 28 per cent of Protestants and 9 per cent of Jews were in that category disinclined to vote for a Catholic.

Apparently, recent experience had punctured past attitudes.

"We usually find that our fears are more frightening than fact and our prejudices mostly foolish," observes the Digest. It adds, however, that such a striking change "has probably never before happened in the history of the world."

The survey, conducted by the Gallup research organization, also found that 83 per cent of Catholics and 51 per cent of Protestants would just as soon vote a Jew as president, as for candidate of their own faith.

The favorable attitude toward Jewish candidates also was up sharply from the early 1950's, when only 31 per cent of Protestants and 47 per cent of Catholics held it.

As for Catholic and Jewish estimates of Protestant candidates, this was high before, but higher now. Readiness to support a Protestant candidate was registered by 94 per cent of Catholics, compared to 92 per cent formerly, and 92 per cent of Jews, compared to 90 per cent formerly.

The proportion of people thinking Catholics or Jews "seek too much power" also has fallen steeply to a small minority, the findings indicated.

"We have learned to love each other at last," the digest comments.

New Sanctuary Fund Emphasis Program Point

The "New Sanctuary Fund" is being emphasized in a program of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe as it climaxes its every member canvass.

The program is aimed at informing the congregation on the church's activities.

A Loyalty Dinner was held last Friday, and Loyalty Sunday will be observed today for the purpose of bringing in pledges to underwrite the church's budget for the conference year 1967-68.

The present sanctuary of the church, which is 45 years old, is considered in good condition, but it is necessary to hold two Sunday morning services to accomodate all of the congregation. Plans are being aimed at newer styles of architecture in a sanctuary with ground level entrances, and more seating space.

During the past year, the church retired the last of its debts, officials said.

St. Joseph's Starts Work Of Council

St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Monroe recently formed a Parish Council.

The action was taken as a followup of the formation of a Senate in the diocese by Bishop Charles P. Greco of Alexandria.

The Rev. William F. Allen, pastor of St. Joseph's selected 17 parishioners from different sections of the parish to make up the Council. They include: Chester Soignier, Hosea Douglas, M.J. Varino, Ivan Acosta, Victor Gallier, Trouard Breard, John Arthur, Mrs. Georgia Filhiol, Mrs. C. C. Fontana, Miss Elizabeth Shaughnessy, Mrs. Peggy Semmes, Nick Conti, Tyson Bordelon, Pat Conti, Edward Machnik, Frank P. Ticheli, and Mrs. Fred Brownlee.

The objective of the Council is to find out from the parishioners what suggestions or criticism they may have to offer on the management of the church. The Council meets with Father Allen, who in turn meets with the bishop and other priests from the diocese to discuss the suggestions. The bishop and priests who make up the Senate, pass on the suggestions.

FIRST ACTION

At the first meeting of the Council, held last Sunday, the following officers were elected: M.J. Varino, president; John Arthur, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Shaughnessy, secretary, and Mrs. Peggy Semmes, telephone chairman.

The primary discussion at the session centered on whether St. Joseph's Parish should form a Catholic Credit Union or join one already in operation.

A decision was made to invite James S. Lemee, Shreveport, field representative for the Louisiana Credit Union League, to meet with the church's parishioners 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Parish Hall.

He will explain the functions of his organization and answer questions from parishioners about starting a credit union here, which would allow them to start savings accounts and to borrow money for payment of doctor and hospital bills and other needs.

In other action at its first meeting the Council also initiated a plan for a new parking area, arranging for the filling of a ditch in front of the church and asking for a canopy over the front door of the church.

The Council set its regular meeting time as 7:30 p.m. on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

Education Annex To Be Dedicated

The Rev. S. E. McFadden, D. D., of Somerville, Tenn., former pastor of the church, will be guest preacher. Following the worship service, a basket dinner will be served in Hutton Hall at Camp Alabama.

The original building was constructed under the leadership of the Rev. Robert Gage, now pastor of the Winnfield Presbyterian Church.

MEMORIAL FUND

The memorial fund for the annex was started under the ministry of the Rev. Clark Williams, now associate pastor of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church in Shreveport.

The Rev. Lee Grisso became pastor in June, 1965, and his guidance has brought to fruition the new annex. John A. O'Neal Jr., chairman of the finance committee, and James R. O'Neal, chairman of the building committee, with their committees, planned and directed the details of the construction.

A substantial gift has been made to the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe by Mrs. W. Dwight Martin of Arcadia to establish the W. Dwight Martin Memorial Endowment Fund to provide Bibles for new children moving into the Home.

Wade B. East, Home superintendent, explained that the principal amount of the gift will never be exhausted since it will be invested by the Louisiana Baptist Foundation. The interest earned by the fund will be used by the Children's Home. East pointed out that this means that year after year a number of Bibles will be purchased in memory of the late Mr. Martin and be placed in the hands of youngsters who come to live in the Home.

GOAD OF SANCTITY

NEW YOUR (AP) — "The most disturbing thing about sanctity is that we are all called to it." Donald J. Thorman, publisher of the National Catholic Reporter, observes in a new Doubleday book, "The Christian Vision."

TABLETS OF STONE

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbi Theodore Ross, of Temple Sinai in Queens, recently led an expedition to the top of Mount Sinai in the Holy Land. There, he had two slabs of granite carved out of the famed bibical mountain, where Moses received the 10 Commandments. Shipped back to the temple here, the slabs have been inscribed with those universal moral laws.

Religious Bias Waning In Nation, Poll Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious bias, long a worrisome factor in American political elections, appears to have lost most of its influence among the voting citizenry.

Several studies have indicated the shift. The latest one finds that the proportion of people who would discredit a candidate because of a difference in faith has dwindled sharply in the last decade to a small minority.

In that period, the country had its first Roman Catholic president, John F. Kennedy, whose performance evidently did much to spike prejudices. Also, the rising ecumenical movement has spurred interreligious knowledge of one another.

In any case, a representative nationwide survey, published in the Catholic Digest, finds that the percentage of Protestants disinclined to vote for a Catholic candidate has been cut almost in half.

Asked if they would just as soon vote for a Catholic as for someone of their own faith, the overwhelming majority of Protestants, 65, per cent, and Jews, 86 per cent, said yes. It was a big change compared to their response to the same question in 1952.

At that time, 57 per cent of Protestants and 31 per cent of Jews said no. Now, only 28 per cent of Protestants and 9 per cent of Jews were in that category disinclined to vote for a Catholic.

Apparently, recent experience had punctured past attitudes.

"We usually find that our fears are more frightening than fact and our prejudices mostly foolish," observes the Digest. It adds, however, that such a striking change "has probably never before happened in the history of the world."

The survey, conducted by the Gallup research organization, also found that 83 per cent of Catholics and 51 per cent of Protestants would just as soon vote a Jew as president, as for candidate of their own faith.

The favorable attitude toward Jewish candidates also was up sharply from the early 1950's, when only 31 per cent of Protestants and 47 per cent of Catholics held it.

As for Catholic and Jewish estimates of Protestant candidates, this was high before, but higher now. Readiness to support a Protestant candidate was registered by 94 per cent of Catholics, compared to 92 per cent formerly, and 92 per cent of Jews, compared to 90 per cent formerly.

The proportion of people thinking Catholics or Jews "seek too much power" also has fallen steeply to a small minority the findings indicated.

"We have learned to love each other at last," the digest comments.

Doubtful Starter Nets $119,700

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Proud Clarion, a doubtful starter four days ago and without a jockey until 48 hours before the race, came charging out of the pack for victory in the 93rd running of the Kentucky Derby on a rainy Saturday at Churchill Downs.

Under the driving ride of Bobby Ussery, the bay son of Hail to Reason from John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm came down the middle of the soldier-lined stretch to win the $162,200 race by one length.

Barbs Delight, lightly regarded winner of the Derby Trial, took second after setting practically all of the early pace with the favored Damascus another 2¾ lengths back in third place and Reason to Hail fourth in the field of 14 3-year-olds.

There were no incidents marking this American classic horse race. Advocates of an open housing law had threatened to disrupt the race but Churchill Downs, city and state officials answered the challenge by assembling 2,500 law enforcement men who practically circled the one-mile track.

Proud Clarion, a son of Hail to Reason out of Breath O' Morn, stepped the 1¼ miles in 2:00 3-5 for the third fastest time in the history of the race. Northern Dancer established the record of 2:00 in 1964.

In winning the second Derby for Galbreath, Proud Clarion picked up $119,700. Second place was worth $25,000 to Guy Huguelet, Gene Spalding and trainer Hal Steele of Lexington, Ky., who owns Barbs Delight. Damascus, who went off the 8-5 choice of the rain-drenched crowd, earned $12,500 for Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft. Fourth money of $5,000 went to Patrice Jacobs, owner of Reason to Hail.

Back of the first four in order came Ask the Fare, Successor, Gentleman James, Ruken, Diplomat Way, Second Encounter, Dawn Glory, Dr. Isby, Field Master and Lightning Orphan.

Overlooked in the wagering as the crowd favored Damascus and made Ruken and Successor the co-second choices, Proud Clarion paid $62.20, $27.80 and $12. Barbs Delight paid $16.00 to place and $7.60 to show while Damascus returned $3.40 for finishing third.

It was a moment of sweetness for trainer Lloyd (Boo) Gentry A year ago he had the great Graustark only to have the horse come up lame on the Sunday before the Derby.

Early in the week Gentry did not favor starting Proud Clarion following a bad workout in the mud but the track dried out and the husky trainer was able to obtain the riding services of Ussery.

It rained most of the day but the track still remained fast, just what Gentry wanted for the Darby Dan colt who gave Galbreath his second Derby victory. The part owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Baseball League had won with his only previous Derby starter, Chateaugay in 1963.

Barbs Delight with Kenny Knapp in the saddle led the field out of the gate with Diplomat Way, piloted by Johnny Sellers, and Damascus right at his neck.

He opened up daylight going around the first turn after clicking off the first quarter mile in 22 1-5 seconds.

Damascus, in the meantime, was settling in stride back in fourth place as Puerto Rican Dawn Glory and Diplomat Way took up the chase. Barbs Delight covered the first half in 46 3-5 seconds, and still was winging along on the front end after six furlongs in 1:10 4-5.

Rounding the far turn, leading into the home stretch, Barbs Delight's margin lessened as Diplomat Way charged up and Damascus made his big challenge on the outside. At the same time, Proud Clarion was given the way by Ussery and when the field straightened out for the final one quarter mile dash to the finish line there was little to choose among the leaders.

Barbs Delight still had a slight lead but taking dead aim on him was Diplomat Way, Damascus and a roaring Proud Clarion swinging wide and heading straight down the middle of the track.

One eighth of a mile remained and it looked for a while like a battle between Proud Clarion and Damascus but the favorite, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, found the pace too swift and dropped back as Barbs Delight field and Proud Clarion went on to victory.

Shoemaker, going after his fourth Derby victory, had no excuses. "He moved up early and that was it," he said. "He just wasn't enough horse."

"My horse didn't break well" Ussery said.

"I was seven or eight back and there was a traffic jam. I just had to sit and wait, to pick my spot.

"I went up on the inside and there was the No. 9 horse in front of me. I went in between the 9 horse and another one at the turn.

"He really came on then. I hit him a few times with my left hand and he was really moving. He had plenty for me and he was strong at the finish."

Gentry could hardly hold himself in check. "Just think," he said, "a month ago I was just coming up to the Derby with a horse that hasn't won at the age of two and was a non-winner at three. But all of a sudden he started coming along."

Proud Clarion chalked up two victories in sprint races at Keeneland in April but was beaten by Diplomat Way in the Blue Grass Stakes on April 22 in which he finished second.

Early this week Gentry sent the Darby Dan colt out for a workout in the mud when it appeared that the racing strip on Derby Day would be off. The colt slipped all over the muddy track and Gentry made no bones over his disappointment.

"If he was my horse, and the track was in this condition on Saturday, I would not start him," Gentry said at the time.

Mud Doesn't Bother Top Derby Rider

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A mud-spattered Bobby Ussery climbed off a Kentucky Derby winner Saturday, blew a kiss to the horse's owners and declared that Churchill Downs had just about the finest mud he had ever seen.

Ussery, who rode John W. Galbreath's Proud Clarion to a one-length victory, said, "This is the happiest mud of my life . . . I'm happy that I have mud in my face."

After four unsuccessful tries at America's greatest horse race, Ussery's victory came on a hunch.

"I felt before the race that I was going to win. I am a hunch player but I knew I would make it this time," Ussery said as he wiped the goo from his face in the jockey room.

"I have never been on Proud Clarion before today's race, and that's the way I like it. Each rider has his own style. I like this one because you're often surprised. I think almost everybody but me was today."

Proud Clarion paid $62.20 straight.

Ussery said trainer Loyd Gentry gave him only one bit of advice. "He told me to give Proud Clarion a chance to settle in his stride before we made any real move," Ussery said.

The rider said he had some trouble at the start and that he was following Reason To Hail. "When I decided to make my move I went around horses rather than try to go through the pack."

It was this early going behind other horses that gave Ussery his face full of mud.

Kenny Knapp, who finished second aboard another outside, Barbs Delight, was in front until the final drive but said his horse just stopped.

"I knew he was out there. I just hoped he could stay," Knapp said.

Bill Shoemaker, trying for his fourth Derby victory, said the favored Damascus "just wasn't enough horse. I don't know what else I could have done."

Shoemaker, who chose Damascus as his mount in his 16th consecutive Derby ride, said he "moved up early and that was it."

Ussery, smiling shyly as he headed for the showers, said he had heard so much talk about how great Damascus was, but "I always believed this was going to me a wide open Derby.

Northeast Defends Own Invitational Title

By TOMMY POINDEXTER
World Sports Writer

Four records fell and two were tied as the Northeast Indians successfully defended the Invitational meet title for the fifth time in the new Brown Stadium Saturday night.

Northeast racked up 96 points to cop the team crown from East Texas State University which finished second with 72 marks. Louisiana Tech raked in 68 for third position, Northwestern tallied for fourth with 37 and McNeese copped 6.

A rain soggy crowd of track fans saw big John Carlos of East Texas State come from behind the Indians in the 440 baton chase as he teamed with Dennis Dyce, Carl Richardson and Terry Burnett to clock a winning 41.5.

Big John, who stands a deceiving 6-5 and weighs 210 pounds, came back in the 100 to clock an almost unbelieveable 9.4 on the rain socked cinders and tied the meet record held by Tribe speedster Ronnie Fountain set in 1965.

However, the crowd - pleasing Carlos who grumbled "It's too wet to run track" before the start of the century came back with an amazing 20.7 in the 220 curve run to wipe out the old standard, also held by Fountain at 21.0 set in 1965, and was selected the Outstanding Track Man for the night fest.

Indian dash man Ronnie Fountain who has been ailing with a couple of muscle strains and was unable to defend his sprint titles stepped in the 440 dash and reeled off a 48.1 timing a fine clocking for the bad weather conditions.

Northeast Don Warren paced the Tribe field men with a record breaking long jump performance in addition to capturing second place in the triple jump and tying for third in the high jump.

Warren put his name on the record book with a 24-9½ long jump and leaped a respectible 47-7 for second place in the triple jump behind Cowboy jumping ace Ronnie Murphy who raised the meet standard to 49-0 feet, tearing down the old mark of 48-2¼ held by Al Dodd of Northwestern. Warren's performances earned the Outstanding Field Man award of the evening.

Although Carlos was tabbed with outstanding honors, he wasn't alone in the outstanding time department. Northeast's hurdle sensation Roger Mann, ripped off a 13.7 clocking in the 120 high barriers to tie the fest mark of Roger Morgan, a former Indian great, set in 1964.

The 440 intermediate stick race which had been tabbed to be the most interesting go of the meet, lived up to expectations. Wayne Williams of Louisiana Tech, Terry Burnett of East Texas and Mann, came off the last hurdle almost neck and neck but Burnett proved to have the most body lean and captured the gold medal with a 54.3. Wallace took second as Mann slipped to third.

Demon distance man Paul Trueman brought down first place honors in both the mile and three mile. Truman who finishes the distance events about the big Carlos winds up his sprint races, won the mile with 4:17.1 and put his three mile clocking of 15 minutes flat goes on the record roster since it was the first running of the race.

Bobby Keasler, the Tribe's top 880 man took top honors in the half mile jaunt with a 1:56.0 clocking and ran the first leg on the Indian mile relay which place third behind the Bulldogs and Carlos and company.

Carl Richardson who had a 46.8 440 clocking and a 1:50.7 for the 880, passed up both races to concentrate on the 220 and long jump where he snatched down second place honors in both events.

The pole vault was the most unusual event of the night. There were not any spectacular heights cleared but the finish panned out to be all in the Indian's favor. Four Indian freshmen Robert Forester, Tom Miller, Ed Thompson and Pete Lenox all cleared the bar at 14 feet with the title going to Forester and Miller taking second. Thompson and Lenox finished third and fourth respectively.

Big Tim Hall of Tech fell short of a record bid in the discus with his 172 - 4½ spin and Northeast strongman Mike Shepherd took the 16 pound iron ball honors with a 51 - 10¾ heave.

Invitational high jump record holder Milton Grubbs copped his speciality with a 6 - 4 leap well off his meet standard of 6 - 9½ set in 1966.

Next Saturday the new Brown stadium will be the scene of the annual Gulf States Conference track and field meet in which Northeast will host Southwestern the defending champion for the last two seasons, Louisiana Tech, Northwestern, McNeese and Southeastern.

Tribe's Invitational Nearly A Washout

By STUART HILL
World Sports Editor

Northeast track coach Bob Groseclose had a close call with the weatherman Friday night.

Groseclose, with the aid of other school officials, students, athletes and friends, rallied to the challenge of getting the new track at Brown Stadium ready for the Indians' Fifth Annual Track and Field meet — but something upset the clouds and the meet was nearly a washout.

The meet kicked off 10 minutes early, in an attempt to beat the rain, but at 7:50, just after Roger Mann had run a record tying 13.7 in the high-hurdles, the voice of basketball coach and occasional announcer Lenny Fant rushed through the loudspeakers saying, "The meet is temporarily suspended."

At 8:15, after rain had fallen first sporadically and then steadily, officials started readying for the quarter mile. But by the time Ronnie Fountain had whipped aroun dthe course to win in 48.1, the rain had started again. Rain fell lightly as John Carlos, named the meet's outstanding track performer, jogged to a record tying 9.4 in the 100-yard dash. Then the rain stopped.

Several good times were still recorded after the rains, attesting to the quality of the new facility at Northeast.

The Indians went on to win the fest, easily. The Tribe has kept its own invitational title since the beginning of the meet five years ago.

The fact that the tape poles for the finish of the 220 yard dash were not put up until 6:25 Friday show that officials were rushing to complete arrangements before the meet.

When Carlos of East Texas State was announced as the outstanding track performer, Paul Trueman of Northwestern, winner of the mile and three mile, quipped, "Well, I ran more laps than he did."

Carlos was complaining of pain in his left foot before the meet started, but he laughted and joked with other performers and fans between races. Carlos won the 100, the 220 and ran legs on ETS's winning mile and quarter relay squads.

Mann said he was not too pleased with his performance in the highs, although he tied the mark. He said he ran poorly during the middle part of the race and ascribed part of the blame on the wet track. "You may not realize it," he said, "but the track is in bad condition to be sprinting on."

Northeast freshman Don Warren flew to a record in the broad jump with a 24-9¼ effort, over a foot past his previous best jump of the season and was named the outstanding performer in the field.

The enthusiasm of the few fans who remained throughout the rains until the finish was not dampened.

The meet turned out to be a good warm up for Northeast, Louisiana Tech, McNeese and Northwestern for the Gulf States Conference meet which will be held in Brown Stadium Saturday night. Northeast made one of its better showings of the season while Tech proved that it will be out for some top places in the GSC meet.

Mann In Tall City Golf Lead

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Carol Mann pulled into a one-stroke lead Saturday at the end of 36 holes in the $12,500 Tall City Open when she shot a two-under-par 70 over the 6,500-yard Midland Country Club golf course for a two-round total of 143.

Miss Mann, 26, had one-under-par 35s on both the front and back nines as she moved ahead of Mickey Wright and Marilyn Smith, co-leaders after Friday's first round.

Miss Smith and Miss Wright shot over par 72s again and Judy Kimball had her second consecutive one - over - par 73 to take fourth place.

Three other women professionals, Sandra Spuzich, Sandra McClinton and Margie Masters joined Miss Mann in shooting sub-par rounds. The three had 71s.

The only golfers to match par Saturday were Sandra Palmer and Shirley Englehorn.

The final round of the 54-hole tournament will be today.

Miss Mann had one birdie on the front nine and got three more on the back side to go with a pair of bogeys.

Miss Mann caught Miss Smith when she sank a birdie putt on the sixth hole while Miss Smith was taking a bogey 5.

The lead switched back and forth between the two until Miss Mann went one ahead on the 15th hole with a birdie 4. She picked up another stroke on the par 3, 16 with a 30-foot putt for a birdie.

Miss Smith got one of the strokes back when she parred the 18th hole, barely missing a 10-foot birdie putt that would have sent her into a tie. Miss Mann had a bogey 5 on the par 4 hole.

Miss Wright fell behind with a bogey on the second hole. A magnificent tee shot on No. 18 put Miss Wright in shape for a chip shot that stopped five feet from the hole, from where she made her birdie.

USL Edges LSU In Tiger Meet

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The University of Southwestern Louisiana's track team scored heavily in the distance races and the field events to edge host Louisiana State by two points for first place in a quadrangular track meet here Saturday.

The final tally showed USL with 72 points, LSU 70, Mississippi State 27 and Tulane 13.

LSU spring star Carl Hight was a double winner, taking the 100 in a wind-aided clocking of 9.5 an dthe 220 in 21.0 Mississippi State distance star Don Hunt claimed first place in the mile at 4:12 and the two mile and 9:26.

USL dominated the broad jump and triple jump while LSU'S main field straight came in the javelin. Tiger star Delmon McNabb threw the spear 250-11. Teammate Jack Dyer was second at 239-0.

PROUD CLARION CHARGES TO DERBY VICTORY

Doubtful Starter Nets $119,700

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Proud Clarion, a doubtful starter four days ago and without a jockey until 48 hours before the race, came charging out of the pack for victory in the 93rd running of the Kentucky Derby on a rainy Saturday at Churchill Downs.

Under the driving ride of Bobby Ussery, the bay son of Hail to Reason from John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm came down the middle of the soldier-lined stretch to win the $162,200 race by one length.

Barbs Delight, lightly regarded winner of the Derby Trial, took second after setting practically all of the early pace with the favored Damascus another 2¾ lengths back in third place and Reason to Hail fourth in the field of 14 3-year-olds.

There were no incidents marking this American classic horse race. Advocates of an open housing law had threatened to disrupt the race but Churchill Downs, city and state officials answered the challenge by assembling 2,500 law enforcement men who practically circled the one-mile track.

Proud Clarion, a son of Hail to Reason out of Breath O' Morn, stepped the 1¼ miles in 2:00 3-5 for the third fastest time in the history of the race. Northern Dancer established the record of 2:00 in 1964.

In winning the second Derby for Galbreath, Proud Clarion picked up $119,700. Second place was worth $25,000 to Guy Huguelet, Gene Spalding and trainer Hal Steele of Lexington, Ky., who owns Barbs Delight. Damascus, who went off the 8-5 choice of the rain-drenched crowd, earned $12,500 for Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft. Fourth money of $5,000 went to Patrice Jacobs, owner of Reason to Hail.

Back of the first four in order came Ask the Fare, Successor, Gentleman James, Ruken, Diplomat Way, Second Encounter, Dawn Glory, Dr. Isby, Field Master and Lightning Orphan.

Overlooked in the wagering as the crowd favored Damascus and made Ruken and Successor the co-second choices, Proud Clarion paid $62.20, $27.80 and $12. Barbs Delight paid $16.00 to place and $7.60 to show while Damascus returned $3.40 for finishing third.

It was a moment of sweetness for trainer Lloyd (Boo) Gentry. A year ago he had the great Graustark only to have the horse come up lame on the Sunday before the Derby.

Early in the week Gentry did not favor starting Proud Clarion following a bad workout in the mud but the track dried out and the husky trainer was able to obtain the riding services of Ussery.

It rained most of the day but the track still remained fast, just what Gentry wanted for the Darby Dan colt who gave Galbreath his second Derby victory. The part owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Baseball League had won with his only previous Derby starter, Chateaugay in 1963.

Barbs Delight with Kenny Knapp in the saddle led the field out of the gate with Diplomat Way, piloted by Johnny Sellers, and Damascus right at his neck.

He opened up daylight going around the first turn after clicking off the first quarter mile in 22 1-5 seconds.

Damascus, in the meantime, was settling in stride back in fourth place as Puerto Rican Dawn Glory and Diplomat Way took up the chase. Barbs Delight covered the first half in 46 3-5 seconds, and still was winging along on the front end after six furlongs in 1:10 4-5.

Rounding the far turn, leading into the home stretch, Barbs Delight's margin lessened as Diplomat Way charged up and Damascus made his big challenge on the outside. At the same time, Proud Clarion was given the way by Ussery and when the field straightened out for the final one quarter mile dash to the finish line there was little to choose among the leaders.

Barbs Delight still had a slight lead but taking dead aim on him was Diplomat Way, Damascus and a roaring Proud Clarion swinging wide and heading straight down the middle of the track.

One eighth of a mile remained and it looked for a while like a battle between Proud Clarion and Damascus but the favorite, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, found the pace too swift and dropped back as Barbs Delight field and Proud Clarion went on to victory.

Shoemaker, going after his fourth Derby victory, had no excuses. "He moved up early and that was it," he said. "He just wasn't enough horse."

"My horse didn't break well" Ussery said.

"I was seven or eight back and there was a traffic jam. I just had to sit and wait, to pick my spot.

"I went up on the inside and there was the No. 9 horse in front of me. I went in between the 9 horse and another one at the turn.

"He really came on then. I hit him a few times with my left hand and he was really moving. He had plenty for me and he was strong at the finish."

Gentry could hardly hold himself in check. "Just think," he said, "a month ago I was just coming up to the Derby with a horse that hasn't won at the age of two and was a non-winner at three. But all of a sudden he started coming along."

Proud Clarion chalked up two victories in sprint races at Keeneland in April but was beaten by Diplomat Way in the Blue Grass Stakes on April 22 in which he finished second.

Early this week Gentry sent the Darby Dan colt out for a workout in the mud when it appeared that the racing strip on Derby Day would be off. The colt slipped all over the muddy track and Gentry made no bones over his disappointment.

"If he was my horse, and the track was in this condition on Saturday, I would not start him," Gentry said at the time.

Mud Doesn't Bother Top Derby Rider

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A mud-spattered Bobby Ussery climbed off a Kentucky Derby winner Saturday, blew a kiss to the horse's owners and declared that Churchill Downs had just about the finest mud he had ever seen.

Ussery, who rode John W. Galbreath's Proud Clarion to a one-length victory, said, "This is the happiest mud of my life . . . I'm happy that I have mud in my face."

After four unsuccessful tries at America's greatest horse race, Ussery's victory came on a hunch.

"I felt before the race that I was going to win. I am a hunch player but I knew I would make it this time," Ussery said as he wiped the goo from his face in the jockey room.

"I have never been on Proud Clarion before today's race, and that's the way I like it. Each rider has his own style. I like this one because you're often surprised. I think almost everybody but me was today."

Proud Clarion paid $62.20 straight.

Ussery said trainer Loyd Gentry gave him only one bit of advice. "He told me to give Proud Clarion a chance to settle in his stride before we made any real move," Ussery said.

The rider said he had some trouble at the start and that he was following Reason To Hail. "When I decided to make my move I went around horses rather than try to go through the pack."

It was this early going behind other horses that gave Ussery his face full of mud.

Kenny Knapp, who finished second aboard another outside, Barbs Delight, was in front until the final drive but said his horse just stopped.

"I knew he was out there. I just hoped he could stay," Knapp said.

Bill Shoemaker, trying for his fourth Derby victory, said the favored Damascus "just wasn't enough horse. I don't know what else I could have done."

Shoemaker, who chose Damascus as his mount in his 16th consecutive Derby ride, said he "moved up early and that was it."

Ussery, smiling shyly as he headed for the showers, said he had heard so much talk about how great Damascus was, but "I always believed this was going to me a wide open Derby.

Northeast Defends Own Invitational Title

By TOMMY POINDEXTER
World Sports Writer

Four records fell and two were tied as the Northeast Indians successfully defended the Invitational meet title for the fifth time in the new Brown Stadium Saturday night.

Northeast racked up 96 points to cop the team crown from East Texas State University which finished second with 72 marks. Louisiana Tech raked in 68 for third position, Northwestern tallied for fourth with 37 and McNeese copped 6.

A rain soggy crowd of track fans saw big John Carlos of East Texas State come from behind the Indians in the 440 baton chase as he teamed with Dennis Dyce, Carl Richardson and Terry Burnett to clock a winning 41.5.

Big John, who stands a deceiving 6-5 and weighs 210 pounds, came back in the 100 to clock an almost unbelieveable 9.4 on the rain socked cinders and tied the meet record held by Tribe speedster Ronnie Fountain set in 1965.

However, the crowd - pleasing Carlos who grumbled "It's too wet to run track" before the start of the century came back with an amazing 20.7 in the 220 curve run to wipe out the old standard, also held by Fountain at 21.0 set in 1965, and was selected the Outstanding Track Man for the night fest.

Indian dash man Ronnie Fountain who has been ailing with a couple of muscle strains and was unable to defend his sprint titles stepped in the 440 dash and reeled off a 48.1 timing a fine clocking for the bad weather conditions.

Northeast Don Warren paced the Tribe field men with a record breaking long jump performance in addition to capturing second place in the triple jump and tying for third in the high jump.

Warren put his name on the record book with a 24-9½ long jump and leaped a respectible 47-7 for second place in the triple jump behind Cowboy jumping ace Ronnie Murphy who raised the meet standard to 49-0 feet, tearing down the old mark of 48-2¼ held by Al Dodd of Northwestern. Warren's performances earned the Outstanding Field Man award of the evening.

Although Carlos was tabbed with outstanding honors, he wasn't alone in the outstanding time department. Northeast's hurdle sensation Roger Mann, ripped off a 13.7 clocking in the 120 high barriers to tie the fest mark of Roger Morgan, a former Indian great, set in 1964.

The 440 intermediate stick race which had been tabbed to be the most interesting go of the meet, lived up to expectations. Wayne Williams of Louisiana Tech, Terry Burnett of East Texas and Mann, came off the last hurdle almost neck and neck but Burnett proved to have the most body lean and captured the gold medal with a 54.3. Wallace took second as Mann slipped to third.

Demon distance man Paul Trueman brought down first place honors in both the mile and three mile. Truman who finishes the distance events about the big Carlos winds up his sprint races, won the mile with 4:17.1 and put his three mile clocking of 15 minutes flat goes on the record roster since it was the first running of the race.

Bobby Keasler, the Tribe's top 880 man took top honors in the half mile jaunt with a 1:56.0 clocking and ran the first leg on the Indian mile relay which place third behind the Bulldogs and Carlos and company.

Carl Richardson who had a 46.8 440 clocking and a 1:50.7 for the 880, passed up both races to concentrate on the 220 and long jump where he snatched down second place honors in both events.

The pole vault was the most unusual event of the night. There were not any spectacular heights cleared but the finish panned out to be all in the Indian's favor. Four Indian freshmen Robert Forester, Tom Miller, Ed Thompson and Pete Lenox all cleared the bar at 14 feet with the title going to Forester and Miller taking second. Thompson and Lenox finished third and fourth respectively.

Big Tim Hall of Tech fell short of a record bid in the discus with his 172 - 4½ spin and Northeast strongman Mike Shepherd took the 16 pound iron ball honors with a 51 - 10¾ heave.

Invitational high jump record holder Milton Grubbs copped his speciality with a 6 - 4 leap well off his meet standard of 6 - 9½ set in 1966.

Next Saturday the new Brown stadium will be the scene of the annual Gulf States Conference track and field meet in which Northeast will host Southwestern the defending champion for the last two seasons, Louisiana Tech, Northwestern, McNeese and Southeastern.

Tribe's Invitational Nearly A Washout

World Sports Editor

Northeast track coach Bob Groseclose had a close call with the weatherman Friday night.

Groseclose, with the aid of other school officials, students, athletes and friends, rallied to the challenge of getting the new track at Brown Stadium ready for the Indians' Fifth Annual Track and Field meet — but something upset the clouds and the meet was nearly a washout.

The meet kicked off 10 minutes early, in an attempt to beat the rain, but at 7:50, just after Roger Mann had run a record tying 13.7 in the high-hurdles, the voice of basketball coach and occasional announcer Lenny Fant rushed through the loudspeakers saying, "The meet is temporarily suspended."

At 8:15, after rain had fallen first sporadically and then steadily, officials started readying for the quarter mile. But by the time Ronnie Fountain had whipped aroun dthe course to win in 48.1, the rain had started again. Rain fell lightly as John Carlos, named the meet's outstanding track performer, jogged to a record tying 9.4 in the 100-yard dash. Then the rain stopped.

Several good times were still recorded after the rains, attesting to the quality of the new facility at Northeast.

The Indians went on to win the fest, easily. The Tribe has kept its own invitational title since the beginning of the meet five years ago.

The fact that the tape poles for the finish of the 220 yard dash were not put up until 6:25 Friday show that officials were rushing to complete arrangements before the meet.

When Carlos of East Texas State was announced as the outstanding track performer, Paul Trueman of Northwestern, winner of the mile and three mile, quipped, "Well, I ran more laps than he did."

Carlos was complaining of pain in his left foot before the meet started, but he laughted and joked with other performers and fans between races. Carlos won the 100, the 220 and ran legs on ETS's winning mile and quarter relay squads.

Mann said he was not too pleased with his performance in the highs, although he tied the mark. He said he ran poorly during the middle part of the race and ascribed part of the blame on the wet track. "You may not realize it," he said, "but the track is in bad-condition to be sprinting on."

Northeast freshman Don Warren flew to a record in the broad jump with a 24-9¼ effort, over a foot past his previous best jump of the season and was named the outstanding performer in the field.

The enthusiasm of the few fans who remained throughout the rains until the finish was not dampened.

The meet turned out to be a good warm up for Northeast, Louisiana Tech, McNeese and Northwestern for the Gulf States Conference meet which will be held in Brown Stadiium Saturday night. Northeast made one of its better showings of the season while Tech proved that it will be out for some top places in the GSC meet.

Mann In Tall City Golf Lead

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Carol Mann pulled into a one-stroke lead Saturday at the end of 36 holes in the $12,500 Tall City Open when she shot a two-under-par 70 over the 6,500-yard Midland Country Club golf course for a two-round total of 143.

Miss Mann, 26, had one-under-par 35s on both the front and back nines as she moved ahead of Mickey Wright and Marilyn Smith, co-leaders after Friday's first round.

Miss Smith and Miss Wright shot over par 72s again and Judy Kimball had her second consecutive one - over - par 73 to take fourth place.

Three other women professionals, Sandra Spuzich, Sandra McClinton and Margie Masters joined Miss Mann in shooting sub-par rounds. The three had 71s.

The only golfers to match par Saturday were Sandra Palmer and Shirley Englehorn.

The final round of the 54-hole tournament will be today.

Miss Mann had one birdie on the front nine and got three more on the back side to go with a pair of bogeys.

Miss Mann caught Miss Smith when she sank a birdie putt on the sixth hole while Miss Smith was taking a bogey 5.

The lead switched back and forth between the two until Miss Mann went one ahead on the 15th hole with a birdie 4. She picked up another stroke on the par 3, 16 with a 30-foot putt for a birdie.

Miss Smith got one of the strokes back when she parred the 18th hole, barely missing a 10-foot birdie putt that would have sent her into a tie. Miss Mann had a bogey 5 on the par 4 hole.

Miss Wright fell behind with a bogey on the second hole. A magnificent tee shot on No. 18 put Miss Wright in shape for a chip shot that stopped five feet from the hole, from where she made her birdie.

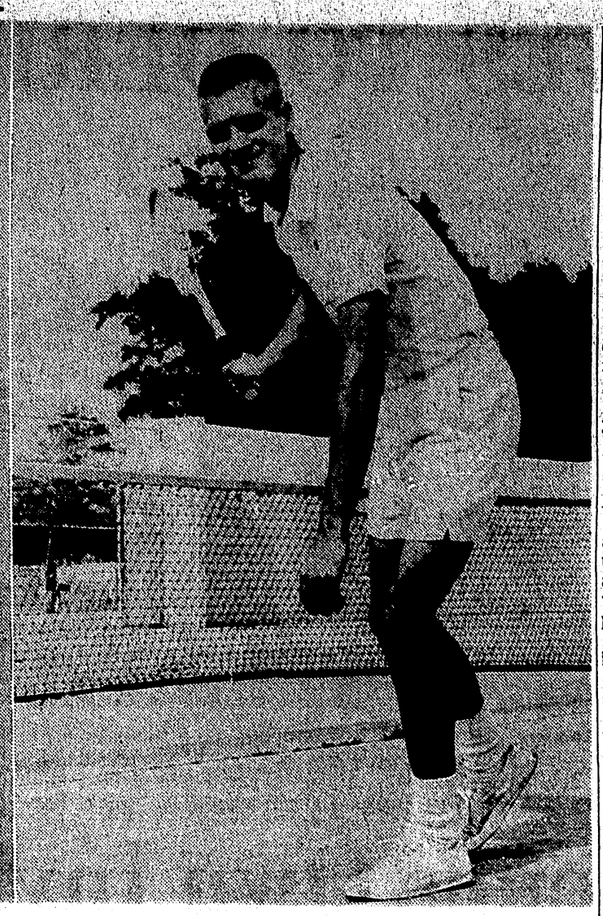
USL Edges LSU In Tiger Meet

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The University of Southwestern Louisiana's track team scored heavily in the distance races and the field events to edge host Louisiana State by two points for first place in a quadrangular track meet here Saturday.

The final tally showed USL with 72 points, LSU 70, Mississippi State 27 and Tulane 13.

LSU spring star Carl Hight was a double winner, taking the 100 in a wind-aided clocking of 9.5 an dthe 220 in 21.0 Mississippi State distance star Don Hunt claimed first place in the mile at 4:12 and the two mile and 9:26.

USL dominated the broad jump and triple jump while LSU'S main field straight came in the javelin. Tiger star Delmon McNabb threw the spear 250-11. Teammate Jack Dyer was second at 239-0.



NORTHEAST'S sprint relay team of Fred Vogel, Roger Mann, Jeff Rowdon and Ronnie Fountain (left, l to r) is among the favorites to win the Gulf States Conference championship in that event in the league meet here Saturday night. The Indian quartet has a season best of 41.1, second to Southwestern's 40.8. Harold (Speedy) Buquoi of Southeastern (right) will defend his 1966 GSC tennis singles crown in the conference meet here starting Thursday. Buquoi was runnerup to Indian Margo Alvarez in the 1965 No. 1 singles, then defeated Loyd Wallace of NSC last year.

Frosh-Fancy Florida Favored To End Tennessee's SEC Track Domination

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Florida, bolstered by freshmen standouts which Tennessee declines to use, will try Friday and Saturday to end the Volunteers' domination of the Southeastern Conference track and field championships.

The Gators are a slim favorite to snap Tennessee's three-year reign as league champion, and the Vols definitely won't be able to win by their 1966 margin when they scored 91 points and Auburn was second with 34.

Auburn, Alabama and Louisiana State, also using freshmen under the SEC's new rule that allows rookies to compete in varsity spring sports, are expected to battle for third place.

The Gators, third a year ago, have five freshmen that could collect points. Florida also has some standout upperclassmen, including high jumper Frank Saier, first in the South to clear seven feet. Freshman Ron Jourdan of Florida has the second best leap, 6-9½.

The Gators' John Morton leads the league in the discus and shot and Frank Lagotic is the SEC's first runner to break nine minutes for the two-mile run, turning in an 8:58.5 this spring.

Florida freshmen in addition to Jourdan who could harvest up to 14 points if they retain their pre-meet rankings include Jim DeVenny, broad jumper and hurdler; discus thrower Jim Chapman; sprinter Barry Handberg and hurdler Steve Tannen.

Tennessee Coach Chuck Rohe has not used freshmen this spring because it could cost them a year of varsity competition on the national level unless the NCAA — on a retroactive basis — goes along wtih the SEC's decision to make frosh eligible.

However, the Vols have hurdler Richmond Flowers Jr., a sophomore who is the 120-yard high hurdles favorite.

Tennessee also has sprint standouts in Gary Wagner and Carroll Thrift, the 880 favorite in Larry Kelly, mile standouts David Storey and Tony Masi and the favored mile relay team.

Alabama, a strong threat for third, has frosh standouts in sprinter Dick Chandler, miler Angelo Harris and javeline thrower Barry Phillips, but David Adkins is the Tide's big man.

Adkins won the 440 and the 440-yard hurdles a year ago and he is the current pacesetter in both events. Sprinter Hollis Keene has run a 9.3 century this spring for the Tide.

Louisiana State's hopes ride on the running of sophomore twins Carl and Rusty Hight. Carl has a 9.4 100 to his credit and a 20.9 220, with Rusty among the leaders in the century and the 440. Both are on the Tigers' 440-yard relay team that is favored. Auburn is strong in the field events.

Records are likely to topple in 10 events, include the 440, the 808, the two-mile, the high hurdles, the 440 relay, the mile relay, the high jump, the discus, the javelin and the pole vault.

Champions back to defend their titles include Akins, triple jump record holder Bill Meadows of Auburn, pole vaulter Tom Christopher of Auburn, shot putter Mike Wiley of Alabama, and discus thrower Harry Winkler of Florida.

The meet will be held on Tennessee's new all-weather track.

The golf and tennis league championships will be held at Gainesville, Fla., with the tennis running Thursday, Friday and Saturday and the golf Friday and Saturday.

Chance Hurls Twins Past Boston, 4-2

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Dean Chance pitched a five-hitter and Zoilo Versalles drove in two runs with a pair of singles, leading the streaking Minnesota Twins to a 4-2 victory over Boston Saturday.

Chance posted his fourth triumph in five decisions and hurled the Wins to their fourth straight victory.

Chance allowed only two hits until the ninth, when singles by Jose Tartabull, Don Demeter and George Scott plus Dalton Jones' sacrifice fly produced two runs.

Versalles knocked in one of two Minnesota runs in the first inning with his sixth straight hit over three games. The streak ended when Versalles walked his next time up, but he singled in another run in the seventh, raising his batting average to .370.

Rookie Ron Clark homered for the Twins in the seventh.

Rose, Helms Power Reds

ATLANTA (AP) — Tommy Helms' bases-loaded double and a bases-empty home run by Pete Rose powered the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday.

The second game of the scheduled day-night doubleheader was rained out.

Helms' double came in the first inning when eight Cincinnati batters went to the plate. He drove Vada Pinson and Rose home with the runs that gave the Reds the lead they held for the rest of the game.

Rose's homer, his second of the season, came in the third inning and gave Cincinnati a 3-0 lead.

USL Favored For 2nd All-Sports Award

Championships in three sports will be decided here May 11-13 at the annual Gulf States Conference meeting with Southwestern favored to win two of them and take home its second straight All-Sports Trophy.

Northeast State is the host college for the conference meeting, which will begin with the golf and tennis tournaments Thursday morning and end with the track meet Saturday night.

Conference business meetings will also be held at Northeast with the first general meeting set for 1:30 p.m. in the College Union Building Friday. An executive session will be held at 7:30 Friday night in the College Union auditorium and the conference college presidents' meeting will be held in the auditorium at 10:30 Saturday morning.

The GSC golf tournament will be held over the Bayou DeSiard Country Club course and the tennis tourney on Monroe Recreation Department courts in Forsythe Park and at Wossman Recreation Center. The new Northeast courts on the campus are not expected to be completed in time for the tournament, according to Ralph Lane, Northeast tennis coach.

Both tournaments will run two days.

The track meet will be held in Brown Stadium on the Northeast campus and begin at 7:15 Saturday night.

Southwestern is defending champion in golf and track and favored to repeat in both sports. Southeastern was the 1966 tennis champion.

Louisiana Tech, undefeated in conference play, is the favorite in the tennis tournament with Southwestern, McNeese and Southeastern also boasting strong teams.

Harold Buqoi of Southeastern is back to defend his conference singles championship. His strongest opposition is expected to come from Irvin David of USL, 8-1 for the season.

The tennis team championship will be decided under a new scoring system this year with points to be awarded to each team for victories by its players throughout the entire tournament. Previously team points were awarded only for first and second place in the five singles and two doubles finals.

The golf championship will continue to be decided in the usual manner. Each school will enter five golfers with the medal scores of the best four to count toward the team championship. The tournament will consist of 54 holes, 27 each day.

Southwestern has won the golf championship for the past two years, going on to win the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) title last spring. Most of the members of the 1966 national championship team are back this year, headed by Tommy Thomas, USL's leader with a 75.1-stroke average.

Host Northeast and Louisiana Tech are rated the principal threats to a third straight Southwesten title.

Pat O'Brien of McNeese, second in the NAIA tournament, is the defending individual champoin. Among the other likely contenders for the individual title are Thomas; Joe Data of Northwestern, runner - up last year; Ray Mulhern of Tech, third in '66; and Wayne Peddy of Northeast, who has a 70.6 average over the par - 70 Bayou DeSiard course this year.

Southwestern has won two narrow victories over Northeast, the conference's perennial track power, in the GSC track meet but appears capable of winning more easily this year. USL athletes have the best performances of the season in seven of the 17 conference meet events and excellent depth, particularly in the distance events.

Northeast and Southeastern are expected to fight it out for second place.

Champions in eight events will go back to defend their titles — Northeast's Ronnie Fountain in the 100 and 220, Stewart Blue of Southwestern in the 440, Bob Dufalo of Northwestern in the 880 and mile, Roger Mann of Northeast in the high hurdles, Grey Easterling of Tech in the intermediate hurdles and Louis Lenfant of Southwestern in the javelin.

A new event will be on the program this year, the three-mile, which replaces the two mile.

White Sox Grab Fourth Straight Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joe Horlen and Bob Locker combined for a three-hitter Saturday night, hurling the Chicago White Sox to a 2-0 victory over Cleveland that extended their winning streak to four games.

Horlen scattered three singles before suffering a shoulder injury while sliding into second base in the eighth inning. Locker took over and preserved the victory with two innings of hitless relief.

Losing pitcher Gary Bell gave up only three hits before going out for a pinch hitter in the eighth, but the White Sox capitalized on his first inning wildness for the deciding run.

Don Buford walked to open the game and Wayne Causey followed with a double. Pete Ward was walked intentionally, filling the bases, and Buford then scored on a wild pitch.

Mexico Bars South Africa From Trials

TEHRAN (AP) — South Africa, still trying to get into the 1968 Olympic Games despite its racial policies, will not be allowed to take part in Mexican sports week's pre-Olympic Games, Mexico announced Saturday.

At the opening session of the Olympic conference, marred by a North Korean sit-in, Mexican Olympics organizer Pedro Ramarez Vazquez said only countries accepted by the International Olympic Committee would compete in the 1967 International Sports Week in Mexico City.

The IOC executive, however, already has ruled no decision will be made on South African olympic participation until next year.

Grambling Nine Does It Again

TUSCALOSSA, Ala., (Special) — Grambling tantalized Stillman College with home runs and intimated the Presbyterians with 20 hits to win a doube header here Saturday.

Grambling won 6-2 and 14-2. It was the Tigers 30th victory in 31 games and left them with visions of a national baseball championship.

Ralph Garr and Bob Williams smashed homers as the Tigers lived up to their notices.

Garr, the nations top collegiate batter with a gaudy .547 average, also clubbed two singles.

Roy Maine and Charles Jones were the winning pitchers.

Tiger pitching was overwhelming in the three game series as 30 batters were retired by the strike out route.

Punter Upstages Old Timer Game

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A barefoot punter was about the only new thing Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian unveiled Saturday as the Irish Varsity easily defeated the Old Timers 39-0 to cap spring football drills.

The 37th annual game, first staged by Knute Rockne, drew 23,000 fans and a national television audience as the Irish displayed hopes of continuing as the nation's No. 1 gridiron power this fall.

Parseghian kept several of his outstanding rookies somewhat under wraps by putting them on the Old Timer's squad. They were kept from much of the public glare as well as from the eager eyes of scouts.

Meanwhile, next season's juniors, quarterback Terry Hanratty and Coley O'Brien, tossed passes with abandon.

Frosh-Fancy Florida Favored To End Tennessee's SEC Track Domination

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Florida, bolstered by freshmen standouts which Tennessee declines to use, will try Friday and Saturday to end the Volunteers' domination of the Southeastern Conference track and field championships.

The Gators are a slim favorite to snap Tennessee's three-year reign as league champion, and the Vols definitely won't be able to win by their 1966 margin when they scored 91 points and Auburn was second with 34.

Auburn, Alabama and Louisiana State, also using freshmen under the SEC's new rule that allows rookies to compete in varsity spring sports, are expected to battle for third place.

The Gators, third a year ago, have five freshmen that could collect points. Florida also has some standout upperclassmen, including high jumper Frank Saier, first in the South to clear seven feet. Freshman Ron Jourdan of Florida has the second best leap, 6-9½.

The Gators' John Morton leads the league in the discus and shot and Frank Lagotic is the SEC's first runner to break nine minutes for the two-mile run, turning in an 8:58.5 this spring.

Florida freshmen in addition to Jourdan who could harvest up to 14 points if they retain their pre-meet rankings include Jim DeVenny, broad jumper and hurdler; discus thrower Jim Chapman; sprinter Barry Handberg and hurdler Steve Tannen.

Tennessee Coach Chuck Rohe has not used freshmen this spring because it could cost them a year of varsity competition on the national level unless the NCAA — on a retroactive basis — goes along wtih the SEC's decision to make frosh eligible.

However, the Vols have hurdler Richmond Flowers Jr., a sophomore who is the 120-yard high hurdles favorite.

Tennessee also has sprint standouts in Gary Wagner and Carroll Thrift, the 880 favorite in Larry Kelly, mile standouts David Storey and Tony Masi and the favored mile relay team.

Alabama, a strong threat for third, has frosh standouts in sprinter Dick Chandler, miler Angelo Harris and javeline thrower Barry Phillips, but David Adkins is the Tide's big man.

Adkins won the 440 and the 440-yard hurdles a year ago and he is the current pacesetter in both events. Sprinter Hollis Keene has run a 9.3 century this spring for the Tide.

Louisiana State's hopes ride on the running of sophomore twins Carl and Rusty Hight. Carl has a 9.4 100 to his credit and a 20.9 220, with Rusty among the leaders in the century and the 440. Both are on the Tigers' 440-yard relay team that is favored. Auburn is strong in the field events.

Records are likely to topple in 10 events, include the 440, the 808, the two-mile, the high hurdles, the 440 relay, the mile relay, the high jump, the discus, the javelin and the pole vault.

Champions back to defend their titles include Akins, triple jump record holder Bill Meadows of Auburn, pole vaulter Tom Christopher of Auburn, shot putter Mike Wiley of Alabama, and discus thrower Harry Winkler of Florida.

The meet will be held on Tennessee's new all-weather track.

The golf and tennis league championships will be held at Gainesville, Fla., with the tennis running Thursday, Friday and Saturday and the golf Friday and Saturday.

Chance Hurls Twins Past Boston, 4-2

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Dean Chance pitched a five-hitter and Zoilo Versalles drove in two runs with a pair of singles, leading the streaking Minnesota Twins to a 4-2 victory over Boston Saturday.

Chance posted his fourth triumph in five decisions and hurled the Wins to their fourth straight victory.

Chance allowed only two hits until the ninth, when singles by Jose Tartabull, Don Demeter and George Scott plus Dalton Jones' sacrifice fly produced two runs.

Versalles knocked in one of two Minnesota runs in the first inning with his sixth straight hit over three games. The streak ended when Versalles walked his next time up, but he singled in another run in the seventh, raising his batting average to .370.

Rookie Ron Clark homered for the Twins in the seventh.

Rose, Helms Power Reds

ATLANTA (AP) — Tommy Helms' bases-loaded double and a bases-empty home run by Pete Rose powered the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday.

The second game of the scheduled day-night doubleheader was rained out.

Helms' double came in the first inning when eight Cincinnati batters went to the plate. He drove Vada Pinson and Rose home with the runs that gave the Reds the lead they held for the rest of the game.

Rose's homer, his second of the season, came in the third inning and gave Cincinnati a 3-0 lead.

USL Favored For 2nd All-Sports Award

Championships in three sports will be decided here May 11-13 at the annual Gulf States Conference meeting with Southwestern favored to win two of them and take home its second straight All-Sports Trophy.

Northeast State is the host college for the conference meeting, which will begin with the golf and tennis tournaments Thursday morning and end with the track meet Saturday night.

Conference business meetings will also be held at Northeast with the first general meeting set for 1:30 p.m. in the College Union Building Friday. An executive session will be held at 7:30 Friday night in the College Union auditorium and the conference college presidents' meeting will be held in the auditorium at 10:30 Saturday morning.

The GSC golf tournament will be held over the Bayou DeSiard Country Club course and the tennis tourney on Monroe Recreation Department courts in Forsythe Park and at Wossman Recreation Center. The new Northeast courts on the campus are not expected to be completed in time for the tournament, according to Ralph Lane, Northeast tennis coach.

Both tournaments will run two days.

The track meet will be held in Brown Stadium on the Northeast campus and begin at 7:15 Saturday night.

Southwestern is defending champion in golf and track and favored to repeat in both sports. Southeastern was the 1966 tennis champion.

Louisiana Tech, undefeated in conference play, is the favorite in the tennis tournament with Southwestern, McNeese and Southeastern also boasting strong teams.

Harold Buqoi of Southeastern is back to defend his conference singles championship. His strongest opposition is expected to come from Irvin David of USL, 8-1 for the season.

The tennis team championship will be decided under a new scoring system this year with points to be awarded to each team for victories by its players throughout the entire tournament. Previously team points were awarded only for first and second place in the five singles and two doubles finals.

The golf championship will continue to be decided in the usual manner. Each school will enter five golfers with the medal scores of the best four to count toward the team championship. The tournament will consist of 54 holes, 27 each day.

Southwestern has won the golf championship for the past two years, going on to win the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) title last spring. Most of the members of the 1966 national championship team are back this year, headed by Tommy Thomas, USL's leader with a 75.1-stroke average.

Host Northeast and Louisiana Tech are rated the principal threats to a third straight Southwesten title.

Pat O'Brien of McNeese, second in the NAIA tournament, is the defending individual champoin. Among the other likely contenders for the individual title are Thomas; Joe Data of Northwestern, runner - up last year; Ray Mulhern of Tech, third in '66; and Wayne Peddy of Northeast, who has a 70.6 average over the par - 70 Bayou DeSiard course this year.

Southwestern has won two narrow victories over Northeast, the conference's perennial track power, in the GSC track meet but appears capable of winning more easily this year. USL athletes have the best performances of the season in seven of the 17 conference meet events and excellent depth, particularly in the distance events.

Northeast and Southeastern are expected to fight it out for second place.

Champions in eight events will go back to defend their titles — Northeast's Ronnie Fountain in the 100 and 220, Stewart Blue of Southwestern in the 440, Bob Dufalo of Northwestern in the 880 and mile, Roger Mann of Northeast in the high hurdles, Grey Easterling of Tech in the intermediate hurdles and Louis Lenfant of Southwestern in the javelin.

A new event will be on the program this year, the three-mile, which replaces the two mile.

White Sox Grab Fourth Straight Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joe Horlen and Bob Locker combined for a three-hitter Saturday night, hurling the Chicago White Sox to a 2-0 victory over Cleveland that extended their winning streak to four games.

Horlen scattered three singles before suffering a shoulder injury while sliding into second base in the eighth inning. Locker took over and preserved the victory with two innings of hitless relief.

Losing pitcher Gary Bell gave up only three hits before going out for a pinch hitter in the eighth, but the White Sox capitalized on his first inning wildness for the deciding run.

Don Buford walked to open the game and Wayne Causey followed with a double. Pete Ward was walked intentionally, filling the bases, and Buford then scored on a wild pitch.

Grambling won 6-2 and 14-2.

It was the Tigers 30th victory in 31 games and left them with visions of a national baseball championship.

Ralph Garr and Bob Williams smashed homers as the Tigers lived up to their notices.

Garr, the nations top collegiate batter with a gaudy .547 average, also clubbed two singles.

Roy Maine and Charles Jones were the winning pitchers.

Tiger pitching was overwhelming in the three game series as 30 batters were retired by the strike out route.

Punter Upstages Old Timer Game

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A barefoot punter was about the only new thing Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian unveiled Saturday as the Irish Varsity easily defeated the Old Timers 39-0 to cap spring football drills.

The 37th annual game, first staged by Knute Rockne, drew 23,000 fans and a national television audience as the Irish displayed hopes of continuing as the nation's No. 1 gridiron power this fall.

Parseghian kept several of his outstanding rookies somewhat under wraps by putting them on the Old Timer's squad. They were kept from much of the public glare as well as from the eager eyes of scouts.

Meanwhile, next season's juniors, quarterback Terry Hanratty and Coley O'Brien, tossed passes with abandon.

Mexico Bars South Africa From Trials

TEHRAN (AP) — South Africa, still trying to get into the 1968 Olympic Games despite its racial policies, will not be allowed to take part in Mexican sports week's pre-Olympic Games, Mexico announced Saturday.

At the opening session of the Olympic conference, marred by a North Korean sit-in, Mexican Olympics organizer Pedro Ramarez Vazquez said only countries accepted by the International Olympic Committee would compete in the 1967 International Sports Week in Mexico City.

The IOC executive, however, already has ruled no decision will be made on South African olympic participation until next year.

Fish Contest Start Nears

With Paul Martin

The three-month fishing contest, summer feature of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit, gets its official start next Saturday, according to Jim Packer, contest committee chairman who is doing a near "one-man job" of seeing to it that all details of the contest dovetail and a big array of prizes is available.

An unforeseen delay in securing posters for display at weigh stations and sporting goods establishments where sportsmen can familiarize themselves with the rules delayed plans for a tentative start May 1, Packer said.

But fishermen of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit can be assured the contest will measure up to its usual quality in collection of monthly and grand prizes.

Hundreds of prizes were awarded last summer, most worth the price of unit dues ($2) and every fish registered won a prize.

The awards list and official monthly dates will be announced by Packer shortly, but fishermen can already be preparing for Saturday's start.

Weigh stations already are official for Tower Sports Shop in Monroe; "Shorty" Payne's Boat Dock at Black Bayou; Oliver Boat Dock, operated by O. E. Towery, Black Bayou; and Guy Woodard's grocery, Washington Street, West Monroe. Curley's Bait Stand, Trenton Street, West Monroe, may also be qualified along with possibly one other location, Packer said.

A Sad Situation

It takes two sides to make an argument. There's frequently more than two sides to anything. A lot of hunters would like the chance to remove game surplus from national parks. The National Audubon Society opposes hunter admission but recognizes the need for removal of game annually.

The Aubudon Leaders Conservation Guide is quoted:

"To cut back the size of the herd, Yellowstone National Park rangers have to resort . . . to shooting 600 of the elk which graze in that area every winter.

"Reduction was necessary, according to the National Park Service, to keep far larger numbers of elk from starvation. The meat will be distributed to the Indians who live in the vicinity of the range.

"Unpleasant as the whole business is, there wasn't, and still isn't, an immediate and preferred alternative. The range has grazing area enough for only about 5,000 head. With natural predators like the mountain lion and the wolf eliminated through years of 'bounties and 'predator control,' the elk would now, if uncontrolled, over-graze and strip the range.

"There have been reports of plans to ship 'surplus' elk to other areas. Some of these plans are misguided, for they would ship elk to states where the habitat would not support them. Others are plans backed by hunters. The National Audubon Society opposes hunting in national parks and would rather see any necessary killing done expertly by trained rangers who remove the least fit of the elk rather than taking the largest and healthiest, as hunters prefer to do."

Some Notes Of Interest

Louisiana continues to receive eggs and fry of Walleye and striped bass for experimental stocking in some of the state's waters. An estimated million walleye fry were delivered Friday from a Nebraska source to Alexandria, and a quarter of a million more striped bass fry are due here tomorrow from South Carolina, adding to the near three million eggs and fry that came a week earlier and already are being developed at hatcheries here, in Delhi and at Beechwood. The Walleye are being delivered from Nebraska, not Wisconsin as we reported a week ago.

Tupawek Bowmen are pushing plans for the annual Archers' Jubilee, scheduled in West Monroe the weekend of May 21. Notably absent will be M. L. Vickery, Tupawek's treasurer and one of the state's oldest bowmen, who has been forced by illness to hang up his bow for a while.

Duck hunters who haven't discarded their federal duck stamps from the immediate past season can help the future of waterfowl by sending their stamps, preferably still on the license if possible, to W. H. Anders Jr., 904 Downey Lane, Monroe. "Andy," who is Fifth District vice president of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, will see to it that the stamps are forwarded to Ducks Unlimited for sale to collectors. Funds from the stamp sales go to helping create "pot hole" breeding areas in Canada and the northern United States. Or, if you meet Andy some place, just hard the stamp to him.

The Outdoor Scoreboard

Fishermen keep furnishing the fodder that feeds this corner.

C. E. FROST and GLYN ROGERS, West Monroe, took 49 speckled perch out of Brown's Boat Dock at Turkey Creek a week ago. FROST was back the next day with H. V. HOLLIS, West Monroe, for 35 more, and ROGERS made a later trip with BENNY GOYNE, West Monroe, for 45. The Monroe HENDRYS —MARJIE, LOUIE and BUD— mixed 163 bream and crappie at Turkey Creek, and J. C. and MRS. HADDOX, Lake Providence, took 45 bream.

MRS. SAM FOUTZ, Lake Providence, fished Hollybrook less than two hours Tuesday and Wednesday for 16 big white perch the first day, a dozen the next.

ASA ORR, Bastrop, brough ten bass out of Bussey Brake where RUSSELL WHITE and BOB STEELE, West Monroe, collected 14.

DR. S. A. TATUM, Homer, with guide R. C. MOORE, fished Lake D'Arbonne for 11 bass. HENRY R. PRATT, Tallulah, was at D'Arbonne for 40 bream; BOYD SENN, Monroe, 75 bream, and J. D. KELLY, Homer and J. L. KELLY, Shreveport, for 100 bream.

The week was good out at Chenlere Lake. DAVE L. and MRS. MAY went for 34 crappie, and all the rest showed bream. They were "BUTCH" BROWNLEE, 70; J. D. BUSH, 235 in four trips; ED PACE, 71; a MR. BROWN, 41; N. O. and MRS. DANZIG, 45, flyfishing; JAMES JOHNSON, 70; ED MARONEY, 42; PETE and MRS. FORD and JIMMY HENDERSON, 100; BERT SCARBROCK, 127 in two trips; PEEWEE and MRS. MEYER, 81; S. N. CAMP, 228 in three trips; MILLER CHRISTIE: 77; and CHARLES DREW 37.

Good Black Bayou catches included crappie limits for ROBERT DECELLE three straight days; 20 bass for SAM LADART and BILLY NUBLES and SAM back alone for the limit. JOHN HAND took nine bass, one of 6½ pounds; C. MCPHERSON showed eight bass, one weighing six pounds and nine ounces, and CHARLES CANFIELD and FRED GOLSON took seven big bass.

ZELL SMITH, Monroe and T. R. TAYLOR, Sterlington, tapped Back Bayou for crappie limits. So did HERBERT SCALES, Tex. ROOSEVELT DANIELS showed the bream limit, and MACK KING and HENRY LOGAN, Sterlington, took a mixed string of 145 bream and crappie.

Pirates Win On Error In 10th

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Matty Alou raced home from second as Tito Fuentes threw George Spriggs' high hopper past first in the 10th inning, giving Pittsburgh a 6-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

The triumph was the Pirates' fourth straight and ninth in their last 10 games.

Alou led off the 10th with a single and was sacrificed to second. Spriggs then hit a bouncer to second base. Fuentes charged in, grabbed the ball and fired to first, but the ball skipped past Willie McCovey and Alou scampered home with the winning run.

Spriggs was credited with a single on the play and Fuentes was charged with an error.

Jack Hiatt, who brought the Giants back with a three-run homer in the sixth, sent home the run that tied the game 5-5 with a single in the eighth. Jim Davenport scored the run after leading off with a single and moving to second on Jim Hart's single.

The Pirates got off to a 3-0 lead in the fourth on a run-producing single by Jose Pagan and Gene Alley's two-run single.

They added two more in the fifth. Roberto Clemente singled and came all the way around when left fielder Ken Henderson fumbled Bill Mazeroski's single. Mazeroski then scored as Jerry May singled.

Homers Power Cardinals By Cubs, 5-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Orlando Cepeda slugged two home runs and Mike Shannon hit another, powering the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Cepeda, who homered Friday in a losing cause, hit his third of the season leading off the second inning and connected again off start Curt Simmons in the third. Shannon then followed with his homer, sending Simmons to the showers with his second defeat against one triumph.

The Cubs jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Billy Williams walked with two out and scored on a double by Ron Santo. Santo then came in on a single by Ernie Banks.

St. Louis added another run in the sixth when Julian Javier singled, stole second and came home on a single by Al Jackson.

The Cubs threatened in the ninth, scoring on Williams' double and Banks' single with one out. But Ron Willis relieved Jackson and got the last two outs.

Fish Contest Start Nears

With Paul Martin

The three-month fishing contest, summer feature of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit, gets its official start next Saturday, according to Jim Packer, contest committee chairman who is doing a near "one-man job" of seeing to it that all details of the contest dovetail and a big array of prizes is available.

An unforeseen delay in securing posters for display at weigh stations and sporting goods establishments where sportsmen can familiarize themselves with the rules delayed plans for a tentative start May 1, Packer said.

But fishermen of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit can be assured the contest will measure up to its usual quality in collection of monthly and grand prizes.

Hundreds of prizes were awarded last summer, most worth the price of unit dues ($2) and every fish registered won a prize.

The awards list and official monthly dates will be announced by Packer shortly, but fishermen can already be preparing for Saturday's start.

Weigh stations already are official for Tower Sports Shop in Monroe; "Shorty" Payne's Boat Dock at Black Bayou; Oliver Boat Dock, operated by O. E. Towery, Black Bayou; and Guy Woodard's grocery, Washington Street, West Monroe. Curley's Bait Stand, Trenton Street, West Monroe, may also be qualified along with possibly one other location, Packer said.

A Sad Situation

It takes two sides to make an argument. There's frequently more than two sides to anything. A lot of hunters would like the chance to remove game surplus from national parks. The National Audubon Society opposes hunter admission but recognizes the need for removal of game annually.

The Aubudon Leaders Conservation Guide is quoted:

"To cut back the size of the herd, Yellowstone National Park rangers have to resort . . . to shooting 600 of the elk which graze in that area every winter.

"Reduction was necessary, according to the National Park Service, to keep far larger numbers of elk from starvation. The meat will be distributed to the Indians who live in the vicinity of the range.

"Unpleasant as the whole business is, there wasn't, and still isn't, an immediate and preferred alternative. The range has grazing area enough for only about 5,000 head. With natural predators like the mountain lion and the wolf eliminated through years of 'bounties and 'predator control,' the elk would now, if uncontrolled, over-graze and strip the range.

"There have been reports of plans to ship 'surplus' elk to other areas. Some of these plans are misguided, for they would ship elk to states where the habitat would not support them. Others are plans backed by hunters. The National Audubon Society opposes hunting in national parks and would rather see any necessary killing done expertly by trained rangers who remove the least fit of the elk rather than taking the largest and healthiest, as hunters prefer to do."

Some Notes Of Interest

Louisiana continues to receive eggs and fry of Walleye and striped bass for experimental stocking in some of the state's waters. An estimated million walleye fry were delivered Friday from a Nebraska source to Alexandria, and a quarter of a million more striped bass fry are due here tomorrow from South Carolina, adding to the near three million eggs and fry that came a week earlier and already are being developed at hatcheries here, in Delhi and at Beechwood. The Walleye are being delivered from Nebraska, not Wisconsin as we reported a week ago.

Tupawek Bowmen are pushing plans for the annual Archers' Jubilee, scheduled in West Monroe the weekend of May 21. Notably absent will be M. L. Vickery, Tupawek's treasurer and one of the state's oldest bowmen, who has been forced by illness to hang up his bow for a while.

Duck hunters who haven't discarded their federal duck stamps from the immediate past season can help the future of waterfowl by sending their stamps, preferably still on the license if possible, to W. H. Anders Jr., 904 Downey Lane, Monroe. "Andy," who is Fifth District vice president of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, will see to it that the stamps are forwarded to Ducks Unlimited for sale to collectors. Funds from the stamp sales go to helping create "pot hole" breeding areas in Canada and the northern United States. Or, if you meet Andy some place, just hard the stamp to him.

The Outdoor Scoreboard

Fishermen keep furnishing the fodder that feeds this corner.

C. E. FROST and GLYN ROGERS, West Monroe, took 49 speckled perch out of Brown's Boat Dock at Turkey Creek a week ago. FROST was back the next day with H. V. HOLLIS, West Monroe, for 35 more, and ROGERS made a later trip with BENNY GOYNE, West Monroe, for 45. The Monroe HENDRYS —MARJIE, LOUIE and BUD— mixed 163 bream and crappie at Turkey Creek, and J. C. and MRS. HADDOX, Lake Providence, took 45 bream.

MRS. SAM FOUTZ, Lake Providence, fished Hollybrook less than two hours Tuesday and Wednesday for 16 big white perch the first day, a dozen the next.

ASA ORR, Bastrop, brough ten bass out of Bussey Brake where RUSSELL WHITE and BOB STEELE, West Monroe, collected 14.

DR. S. A. TATUM, Homer, with guide R. C. MOORE, fished Lake D'Arbonne for 11 bass. HENRY R. PRATT, Tallulah, was at D'Arbonne for 40 bream; BOYD SENN, Monroe, 75 bream, and J. D. KELLY, Homer and J. L. KELLY, Shreveport, for 100 bream.

The week was good out at Cheniere Lake. DAVE L. and MRS. MAY went for 34 crappie, and all the rest showed bream. They were "BUTCH" BROWNLEE, 70; J. D. BUSH, 235 in four trips; ED PACE, 71; a MR. BROWN, 41; N. O. and MRS. DANZIG, 45, flyfishing; JAMES JOHNSON, 70; ED MARONEY, 42; PETE and MRS. FORD and JIMMY HENDERSON, 100; BERT SCARBROCK, 127 in two trips; PEEWEE and MRS. MEYER, 81; S. N. CAMP, 228 in three trips; MILLER CHRISTIE: 77; and CHARLES DREW 37.

Good Black Bayou catches included crappie limits for ROBERT DECELLE three straight days; 20 bass for SAM LADART and BILLY NUBLES and SAM back alone for the limit. JOHN HAND took nine bass, one of 6½ pounds; C. MCPHERSON showed eight bass, one weighing six pounds and nine ounces, and CHARLES CANFIELD and FRED GOLSON took seven big bass.

ZELL SMITH, Monroe and T. R. TAYLOR, Sterlington, tapped Back Bayou for crappie limits. So did HERBERT SCALES, Tex. ROOSEVELT DANIELS showed the bream limit, and MACK KING and HENRY LOGAN, Sterlington, took a mixed string of 145 bream and crappie.

Coach Of NIT Champs Set For NLSC Clinic

Jack Hartman, coach of National Invitational Tournament champion Southern Illinois, will be the guest lecturer on basketball at the annual Northeast State Summer Coaching Clinic in June.

Jack Rowan, member of the health and physical education faculty at Northeast and clinic director, announced Saturday that Hartman had accepted an invitation to speak at the clinic, which will run June 16-17 at the College. Northeast's Department of Health and Physical Education and Athletic Department are co - sponsors of the affair.

Earlier Doug Dickey of Tennessee was announced as the guest football lecturer for the clinic, which is free to coaches and other interested persons.

JACK HARTMAN
. . . SIU Coach

Hartman's selection gives the Northeast clinic its second national championship basketball coach in two years. Last Year Bob Bass, coach of 1966 NAIA champion Oklahoma Baptist, was guest cage lecturer.

Southern Illinois' victory over Marquette in the NIT finals in New York in March climaxed the greatest SIU basketball season in history. A so - called "small college" despite a 25,751 enrollment, SIU had a 24-2 record in 1966-67 and finished atop the small college cage polls conducted by the Associated Press and United Press International.

Considered by many observors as the nation's No. 2 team behind UCLA, Southern Illinois lost only to Louisville and Southern Methodist during the 1966-67 season. The Salukis gained revenge for that loss to Louisville, No. 2 in the major college polls, later in the season and also numbered 1966 NCAA cham Texas Western and 1966 college division champion Kentucky Wesleyan among their victims.

A former football and basketball star at Oklahoma State, Hartman has guided teams at Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College and SIU to a 252-81 record in 12 seasons, a winning percentage of .756. His record at Southern Illinois is 102-35 (.744).

A disciple of a controlled-type offense who likes to minimize mistakes with a sound defense, Hartman guided the Salukis to two second - place finishes and one fourth place in the NCAA college division tournament prior to last season. In his seven years at Coffeyville, he led his team to the national junior college tournament four times. His last Coffeyville team won the championship and finished with a perfect 32-0 record.

He coached the North team in the annual junior college all-star game three times and twice served as coach of the West squad in the annual All-American East - West high school game.

Tigs Take Fifth Win Off Orioles

DETROIT (AP) — Dick McAuliffe poked a two-out, run-scoring double in the seventh ining, sparking the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday.

The victory was Detroit's fifth in six games this year against the world champion Orioles.

McAuliffe's double off reliever Stu Miller in the seventh scored Bill Freehan, sending the Tigers in front 2-1. Freehan had singled and moved to second on a sacrifice.

Pinch hitter Jerry Lumpe's bases-loaded single in the eighth produced a pair of insurance runs for the Tigers.

Right-handed Earl Wilson, who posted his third victory against two losses, got brilliant defensive help from right-fielder Al Kaline, who also homered for the Tigers.

Kaline cut off a Baltimore rally in the sixth when he doubled Frank Robinson at the plate after catching Curt Blefary's line shot.

Kaline slammed his sixth homer in the first inning against Orioles starter Jim Palmer.

The Orioles tied it in the fifth on singles by Larry Haney and Luis Aparicio, plus Russ Snyder's sacrifice fly.

Grambling Ends Intrasquad Game

GRAMBLING (Special) — Tiger fans started looking wistfully toward the 1967 football season Saturday after Grambling ended spring drills with the Gold defeating the Blue, 47-33.

Quarterbacks James Harris and Wesley Bean threw five touchdown passes in pacing the Gold to victory with coach Eddie Robinson, characteristically, watching quietly but unsmilingly.

Grambling displayed a lot of talent and looked full of promise.

Passing was especially sharp, the running strong and the defense stunted, chased and gang-tackled all afternoon.

Selman To Host Regional Races

Selman Field will host the regional motorcycle races today beginning at 1 p.m.

Gary Landry of Baton Rouge will head a list of top riders from the Ark - La - Miss area expected to compete in the races.

Landry, a consistent winner in the 250 cc class, will have stiff competition from James Floyd and Bobby Gamble of Shreveport and Mike Battaglia and David Martin of Monroe.

Four Class of engine sizes will be run, a 100cc, 165cc, 250cc and Open. A "wheelie" contest will also be held if there are enough entrants.

MICKEY SLAUGHTER
. . . Tech Assistant

Slaughter Suggested Assistant

RUSTON (Special)—Dr. F. Jay Taylor, Louisiana Tech president, said Saturday that he would recommend to the State Board of Education that Mickey Slaughter be employed as an assistant football coach at Tech effective June 15.

Dr. Taylor said his recommendation to the State Board of Education would be made at the next meeting of the board June 2.

Slaughter will be an assistant to Maxie Lambright, who was named head football coach at Tech 10 days ago succeeding the veteran Joe Aillet, who will devote full time to the duties of athletic director.

Slaughter, a four-year veteran of professional football with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League, was traded to the Oakland Raiders after last season.

A prep star at Bolton of Alexandria when Lambright was head coach there, Slaughter set Gulf States Conference passing records as a collegian playing under Aillet at Tech. A starting quarterback much of the time with Denver, Slaughter was continually hampered by injuries during his pro career.

Slaughter was named to the All-GSC team three times and was tapped for second-team Little All-America honors in 1962.

The Alexandrian was the second most prolific passer in Tech history. His career totals of 238 completions in 407 attempts for 2,714 yards and 16 touchdowns are bettered only by his successor in the Bulldog quarterbacking role, Billy Laird.

Mel Farr Named To West Squad

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An official of the annual Coaches All-America Football Game to be played in Atlanta July 8 said Saturday Mell Farr of UCLA has been named to the West team.

Farr, a 6-foot-3, 225-pound offensive back, was a first - round draft choice of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League in the winter draft.

ARNOLD PALMER practice swings under the sign giving sub par score as he got ready for the approach shot to the ninth green at the Houston Champions International golf tournament. Palmer at the time was 10-under-par for the tourney, but lost a stroke on the back nine and finished the third round 9-under-par and two strokes ahead of Billy Casper, right. Casper On Heels Of Blazing Palmer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer blazed his third sub-par round Saturday to hold a shaky, two-stroke lead in the $115,000 Champions International golf tournament as U.S. Open champion Billy Casper came racing to his heels with a torrid, course-record 65.

Palmer, who began the day with a three-stroke lead, found himself locked in a familiar battle of champs with Casper for the $23,000 first prize. Palmer carded a 70 for a three-round total of 204. Casper was alone in second at 206.

"That's the best putting I've ever done," said Casper, who was the 1966 PGA Player of the Year and the leading money winner with $121,944. He has only $16,676, 18th on the list, an has yet to win a tournament in 1967.

He used only 24 putts, including 12 one-putt greens, while sinking seven birdies against only one bogey. That came on the sixth hole when his approach shot hit a bunker and he chipped 10 feet from the hole, only to two-putt. He had one string of four birdies.

Casper's charge was reminiscent of the seven strokes he made up on the final nine holes in last year's U.S. Open to throw the tournament into a playoff. He then beat Palmer by four strokes.

Palmer has rounds of 68, 66 and 70, nine strokes under par on the heavily wooded, 7,118-yard par 71 Cypress Creek course which has attracted the strongest field of golfing stars on the tour since the Masters. At one point Saturday, he was 11 under.

Casper slipped to a three-over 73 the first day and followed with a 68 Friday.

Behind Palmer and Casper were Frank Beard at 207 and Harold Henning and Dan Sikes at 209. Bunched in a five-way tie Dave Marr, Tom Wiescoff, Ben Hogan and Dave Hill at 210.

Analyzing his round, Palmer said, "It looked like I might have really had a good round the way it started out. Then, my putter went sour." He had birdies on No. 3, 5 and 6.

"I hit the ball well off the tee and hit some pretty good irons," he added. "I didn't get it as close to the hole as I wanted, but close enough if I make the little putts. It makes a difference."

"I just didn't putt well at all," Palmer said, citing bogies on the seventh and ten holes, both on short putts — one only 18 inches and the other, two feet.

Canines Divide League Twinbill With Nicholls

THIBODEAUX (Special) — Louisiana Tech's Ed Walker drove in five runs and pitched a two - hitter to lead the Canines to a 6 - 1 victory over Nicholls State in the first game of a Gulf States Conference double - header, but the Colonels used only one hit to take the nightcap, 1 - 0.

The split left Tech and Nicholls with identical 9 - 11 league records while Tech is 17 - 17 on the season and the Colonels are 16 - 14.

Tech broke up Glen Perre's perfect game with one out in the fifth inning when Glen Theis singled to center and the Canines went on to score three runs in the inning.

Following Theis' single, Joe Albritton walked and Bill Duncan singled to center, with Theis scoring from second when the Nicholls centerfielder fumbled the ball. With Albritton and Duncan going to third and second, Walker stroked a single to left to put the Canines in front 3 - 0.

Nicholls came back to score a single run in the bottom of the frame on an error, but the Techsters iced the victory with three more tallies in the seventh.

Again Walker was the big stick in the uprising, stroking a three - run homer over the left field fence after Duncan and Curtis Barham singled with two - out.

Walker gave up singles to Mike Longmire and Larry Lassagne while striking out four and walking four.

Nicholls scored an unearned run in the fourth inning of the nightcap to ruin the sparkling pitching performance of Tech's Gary Bell.

The Colonels' David Faulk led off the inning with a double, went to third on an error, and scored when the Tech catcher dropped the ball on a squeeze bunt play.

Bell gave up only one hit, struck out eight and walked only one. Nicholls' outstanding freshman, Gene Duhe, picked up his fourth victory without a loss, yielding three hits, walking two and fanning five.

Tech plays host to Northeast in the last GSC contests from both Monday while Nicholls travels to Lafayette for a twinbill with USL.

NSC Purple In Grid Victory

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Stout defense and spurts of offensive brillance highlighted the Northwestern State College Purple-White intrasquad at Demon stadium Saturday afternoon.

The contest, which ends 20 days of rigid spring training sessions, was a battle to the wire, finally won by the Purple squad, 21-20.

A dazzling last-quarter passing show by quarterback Malcolm Lewis gave the purple unit 20 points, but a two-point conversion try failed, and the White squad went away victorius.

Donald Guidry, cool quarterback from Church Point, guided the white team to the triumph with fine passing and several sparkling runs.

Defensive standouts were many, but the White team got outstanding performances from John Boogaerts in the backfield Dick Concilio and David Centanni, Gerald Malley and Lester Latino in the line and at linebacker. Purple defensive stalwarts included Harold St. Pierre, Ronnie Whatley, Jack Estepp, and Paul Alonzo.

Lewis and Guidry, brilliant passers last season, could hit but a total of 12 passes on 43 attempts. Lewis had eight for 29 for 159 yards, and Guidry hit on four of 14 for 66 yards.

Vic Nyvall carried seven times for the White team for 73 yards. Both teams had 321 yards each in total offense. The White team went 247 yards rushing and 74 passing and the Purples moved 162 yards on the ground and 159 through the air.

Lamar Tech Pitching Stops Northeast In Twinner, 4-1, 2-1

BEAUMONT, Tex. (Special) — Lamar Tech pitchers spaced out 12 Northeast State hits and two runs over two games to sweep a doubleheader, 4-1 and 2-1 here Saturday.

Cardinal hurler Harold Kincaid went the distance in the first game to pick up his fifth win against two losses, while Jim Gilligan pitched five-hit ball for eight innings in the second contest only to have Willie Hayes pitch the last frame and grab the win.

Lamar Tech is now 13-11 on the season while the Indians from Northeast are 22-14.

Second-baseman Greg Harrop and right-fielder Dennis Parma toted the big sticks for the Cards at the plate, Harrop going four for seven while scoring three runs and stealing one base and Parma rapping five hits in seven at-bats while notching two RBI's.

Northeast shuttled pitchers around like the twinbill was an all-star game, using eight hurlers in all. John Ventola was tagged for the first game loss and Bobby Miano lost the second. Ventola is now 0 - 2 and Miano, 2-2.

Glynn Saulters went two for three and bagged the Indian's first game rbi, while Don Charpio rapped in the second tally for the Tribe.

Tech scored twice in the first inning of the opener on a sacrifice and a single by Parma, then came back with two more tallies in the ninth frame on a passed ball by Tribe catcher Don Corbin and a single by Card Jackie Byrd.

Northeast got its lone mark in the eighth when Marvin Brosset made first on a pitcher's error and then stole second base, where he came home on Saulters single.

Tech walked off with the tight second game when Indian shortstop Joe Canal bobbled a grounder, allowing a Card base-runner on third to score and break the 1-1 tie.

The Indian run in the second contest came when Wayne Burney singled in the fifth, was moved to second on Canal's sacrifice, took third on a fielder's choice and came home on Charpio's single.

Northeast will play Louisiana Tech in Ruston Monday.

NSC Scores Upset Win In National AAU Gym Meet

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP)—Northwestern State College took an upset victory in the men's team competition and Southern Illinois repeated as women's title in the finals of the National AAU Gymnastics championships on the NSC campus here.

Centenary College of Shreveport finished second in the women's division. Southern Illinois, rolling up points in tumbling and trampoline, had 29.5 to 14 points for Centenary.

NSC got 32.25 points to capture the men's title. Southwestern Louisiana was second with 16.5 and New York Athletic Club was third with 10.5. Defending champion Southern Connecticut failed to place.

Sei Ito, a graduate student from Japan, was NSC's greatest point producer. Ito finished first in still rings to push the NSC squad into first place and also took a third in men's floor exercise and a fourth in horizontal bars.

Ito turned in one of the most impressive performances of the meet in the still rings. After a composite score of 9.7 in the prelims, Ito had a near flawless routine for another 9.7 in the finals.

NSC earlier this year won the NAIA gymnastics title.

Judy Wills of Gulfport, Miss., a Southern Illinois student, the world trampoline and tumbling champion, lead SIU to its title by capturing both of her specialties.

Nancy Smith of SIU was second in both tumbling and trampoline.

David Beard took second in tumbling for NSC. Richard Lloyd of NSC finished second in sidehorse and sixth in floor exercise.

Individual event champions included Zoshi Hakasaki of Seattle, Wash., in men's parallel bars; Makato Sakamoto, Southern California, men's horizontal bar and floor exercise; Arnold Lascari, Wisconsin, sidehorse and David Jacobs, Michigan, trampoline.

Women's events winners included Lindy Metheny, Tuscola, Ill., floor exercise and uneven bar, and Carolyn Hacker, Southern Connecticut in balanced beam.

Hayasaki was the men's all-around champion and Miss Hacker took the women's all-around title.

Records To Fall In West

Fresno, Calif. (AP) — The West Coast relays in Fresno has a slogan — "Where World Records Are Broken" — and the annual carnival, opening its 41st running Friday, has seen 38 world and American records equalled or bettered.

Pole vault immortal Cornelius "Dutch" Warmerdam, who is director of the two-day trackfest is predicting more records this year.

Warmerdam has lined up a field including world record holders Randy Matson and Ralph Boston, as well as Villanova middle distance star Dave Patrick and big team entries from Southern California, UCLA, Brigham Young and the University of New Mexico.

Coach Of NIT Champs Set For NLSC Clinic

Jack Hartman, coach of National Invitational Tournament champion Southern Illinois, will be the guest lecturer on basketball at the annual Northeast State Summer Coaching Clinic in June.

Jack Rowan, member of the health and physical education faculty at Northeast and clinic director, announced Saturday that Hartman had accepted an invitation to speak at the clinic, which will run June 16-17 at the College. Northeast's Department of Health and Physical Education and Athletic Department are co - sponsors of the affair.

Earlier Doug Dickey of Tennessee was announced as the guest football lecturer for the clinic, which is free to coaches and other interested persons.

JACK HARTMAN
. . . SIU Coach

Hartman's selection gives the Northeast clinic its second national championship basketball coach in two years. Last Year Bob Bass, coach of 1966 NAIA champion Oklahoma Baptist, was guest cage lecturer.

Southern Illinois' victory over Marquette in the NIT finals in New York in March climaxed the greatest SIU basketball season in history. A so - called "small college" despite a 25,-751 enrollment, SIU had a 24-2 record in 1966-67 and finished atop the small college cage polls conducted by the Associated Press and United Press International.

Considered by many observors as the nation's No. 2 team behind UCLA, Southern Illinois lost only to Louisville and Southern Methodist during the 1966-67 season. The Salukis gained revenge for that loss to Louisville, No. 2 in the major college polls, later in the season and also numbered 1966 NCAA cham Texas Western and 1966 college division champion Kentucky Wesleyan among their victims.

A former football and basketball star at Oklahoma State, Hartman has guided teams at Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College and SIU to a 252-81 record in 12 seasons, a winning percentage of .756. His record at Southern Illinois is 102-35 (.744).

A disciple of a controlled-type offense who likes to minimize mistakes with a sound defense, Hartman guided the Salukis to two second - place finishes and one fourth place in the NCAA college division tournament prior to last season. In his seven years at Coffeyville, he led his team to the national junior college tournament four times. His last Coffeyville team won the championship and finished with a perfect 32-0 record.

He coached the North team in the annual junior college all-star game three times and twice served as coach of the West squad in the annual All-American East - West high school game.

Tigs Take Fifth Win Off Orioles

DETROIT (AP) — Dick McAuliffe poked a two-out, run-scoring double in the seventh ining, sparking the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday.

The victory was Detroit's fifth in six games this year against the world champion Orioles.

McAuliffe's double off reliever Stu Miller in the seventh scored Bill Freehan, sending the Tigers in front 2-1. Freehan had singled and moved to second on a sacrifice.

Pinch hitter Jerry Lumpe's bases-loaded single in the eighth produced a pair of insurance runs for the Tigers.

Right-handed Earl Wilson, who posted his third victory against two losses, got brilliant defensive help from right-fielder Al Kaline, who also homered for the Tigers.

Kaline cut off a Baltimore rally in the sixth when he doubled Frank Robinson at the plate after catching Curt Blefary's line shot.

Kaline slammed his sixth homer in the first inning against Orioles starter Jim Palmer.

The Orioles tied it in the fifth on singles by Larry Haney and Luis Aparicio, plus Russ Snyder's sacrifice fly.

Grambling Ends Intrasquad Game

GRAMBLING (Special) — Tiger fans started looking wistfully toward the 1967 football season Saturday after Grambling ended spring drills with the Gold defeating the Blue, 47-33.

Quarterbacks James Harris and Wesley Bean threw five touchdown passes in pacing the Gold to victory with coach Eddie Robinson, characteristically, watching quietly but unsmilingly.

Grambling displayed a lot of talent and looked full of promise.

Passing was especially sharp, the running strong and the defense stunted, chased and gang-tackled all afternoon.

Selman To Host Regional Races

Selman Field will host the regional motorcycle races today beginning at 1 p.m.

Gary Landry of Baton Rouge will head a list of top riders from the Ark - La - Miss area expected to compete in the races.

Landry, a consistent winner in the 250 cc class, will have stiff competition from James Floyd and Bobby Gamble of Shreveport and Mike Battaglia and David Martin of Monroe.

Four Class of engine sizes will be run, a 100cc, 165cc, 250cc and Open. A "wheelie" contest will also be held if there are enough entrants.

MICKEY SLAUGHTER
. . . Tech Assistant

Slaughter Suggested Assistant

RUSTON (Special)—Dr. F. Jay Taylor, Louisiana Tech president, said Saturday that he would recommend to the State Board of Education that Mickey Slaughter be employed as an assistant football coach at Tech effective June 15.

Dr. Taylor said his recommendation to the State Board of Education would be made at the next meeting of the board June 2.

Slaughter will be an assistant to Maxie Lambright, who was named head football coach at Tech 10 days ago succeeding the veteran Joe Aillet, who will devote full time to the duties of athletic director.

Slaughter, a four-year veteran of professional football with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League, was traded to the Oakland Raiders after last season.

A prep star at Bolton of Alexandria when Lambright was head coach there, Slaughter set Gulf States Conference passing records as a collegian playing under Aillet at Tech. A starting quarterback much of the time with Denver, Slaughter was continually hampered by injuries during his pro career.

Slaughter was named to the All-GSC team three times and was tapped for second-team Little All-America honors in 1962.

The Alexandrian was the second most prolific passer in Tech history. His career totals of 238 completions in 407 attempts for 2,714 yards and 16 touchdowns are bettered only by his successor in the Bulldog quarterbacking role, Billy Laird.

Mel Farr Named To West Squad

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An official of the annual Coaches All-America Football Game to be played in Atlanta July 8 said Saturday Mell Farr of UCLA has been named to the West team.

Farr, a 6-foot-3, 225-pound offensive back, was a first - round draft choice of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League in the winter draft.

ARNOLD PALMER practice swings under the sign giving sub par score as he got ready for the approach shot to the ninth green at the Houston Champions International golf tournament. Palmer at the time was 10-under-par for the tourney, but lost a stroke on the back nine and finished the third round 9-under-par and two strokes ahead of Billy Casper, right. Casper On Heels Of Blazing Palmer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer blazed his third sub-par round Saturday to hold a shaky, two-stroke lead in the $115,000 Champions International golf tournament as U.S. Open champion Billy Casper came racing to his heels with a torrid, course-record 65.

Palmer, who began the day with a three-stroke lead, found himself locked in a familiar battle of champs with Casper for the $23,000 first prize. Palmer carded a 70 for a three-round total of 204. Casper was alone in second at 206.

"That's the best putting I've ever done," said Casper, who was the 1966 PGA Player of the Year and the leading money winner with $121,944. He has only $16,676, 18th on the list, an has yet to win a tournament in 1967.

He used only 24 putts, including 12 one-putt greens, while sinking seven birdies against only one bogey. That came on the sixth hole when his approach shot hit a bunker and he chipped 10 feet from the hole, only to two-putt. He had one string of four birdies.

Casper's charge was reminiscent of the seven strokes he made up on the final nine holes in last year's U.S. Open to throw the tournament into a playoff. He then beat Palmer by four strokes.

Palmer has rounds of 68, 66 and 70, nine strokes under par on the heavily wooded, 7,118-yard par 71 Cypress Creek course which has attracted the strongest field of golfing stars on the tour since the Masters. At one point Saturday, he was 11 under.

Casper slipped to a three-over 73 the first day and followed with a 68 Friday.

Behind Palmer and Casper were Frank Beard at 207 and Harold Henning and Dan Sikes at 209. Bunched in a five-way tie Dave Marr, Tom Wiescoff, Ben Hogan and Dave Hill at 210.

Analyzing his round, Palmer said, "It looked like I might have really had a good round the way it started out. Then, my putter went sour." He had birdies on No. 3, 5 and 6.

'I hit the ball well off the tee and hit some pretty good irons," he added. "I didn't get it as close to the hole as I wanted, but close enough if I make the little putts. It makes a difference."

"I just didn't putt well at all," Palmer said, citing bogies on the seventh and ten holes, both on short putts — one only 18 inches and the other, two feet.

Canines Divide League Twinbill With Nicholls

THIBODEAUX (Special) — Louisiana Tech's Ed Walker drove in five runs and pitched a two - hitter to lead the Canines to a 6 - 1 victory over Nicholls State in the first game of a Gulf States Conference double - header, but the Colonels used only one hit to take the nightcap, 1 - 0.

The split left Tech and Nicholls with identical 9 - 11 league records while Tech is 17 - 17 on the season and the Colonels are 16 - 14.

Tech broke up Glen Perre's perfect game with one out in the fifth inning when Glen Theis singled to center and the Canines went on to score three runs in the inning.

Following Theis' single, Joe Albritton walked and Bill Duncan singled to center, with Theis scoring from second when the Nicholls centerfielder fumbled the ball. With Albritton and Duncan going to third and second, Walker stroked a single to left to put the Canines in front 3 - 0.

Nicholls came back to score a single run in the bottom of the frame on an error, but the Techsters iced the victory with three more tallies in the seventh.

Again Walker was the big stick in the uprising, stroking a three - run homer over the left field fence after Duncan and Curtis Barham singled with two - out.

Walker gave up singles to Mike Longmire and Larry Lassagne while striking out four and walking four.

Nicholls scored an unearned run in the fourth inning of the nightcap to ruin the sparkling pitching performance of Tech's Gary Bell.

The Colonels' David Faulk led off the inning with a double, went to third on an error, and scored when the Tech catcher dropped the ball on a squeeze bunt play.

Bell gave up only one hit, struck out eight and walked only one. Nicholls' outstanding freshman, Gene Duhe, picked up his fourth victory without a loss, yielding three hits, walking two and fanning five.

Tech plays host to Northeast in the last GSC contests from both Monday while Nicholls travels to Lafayette for a twinbill with USL.

NSC Purple In Grid Victory

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Stout defense and spurts of offensive brillance highlighted the Northwestern State College Purple-White intrasquad at Demon stadium Saturday afternoon.

The contest, which ends 20 days of rigid spring training sessions, was a battle to the wire, finally won by the Purple squad, 21-20.

A dazzling last-quarter passing show by quarterback Malcolm Lewis gave the purple unit 20 points, but a two-point conversion try failed, and the White squad went away victorius.

Donald Guidry, cool quarterback from Church Point, guided the white team to the triumph with fine passing and several sparkling runs.

Defensive standouts were many, but the White team got outstanding performances from John Boogaerts in the backfield Dick Concilio and David Centanni, Gerald Malley and Lester Latino in the line and at linebacker. Purple defensive stalwarts included Harold St. Pierre, Ronnie Whatley, Jack Estepp, and Paul Alonzo.

Lewis and Guidry, brilliant passers last season, could hit but a total of 12 passes on 43 attempts. Lewis had eight for 29 for 159 yards, and Guidry hit on four of 14 for 66 yards.

Vic Nyvall carried seven times for the White team for 73 yards. Both teams had 321 yards each in total offense. The White team went 247 yards rushing and 74 passing and the Purples moved 162 yards on the ground and 159 through the air.

Lamar Tech Pitching Stops Northeast In Twinner, 4-1, 2-1

BEAUMONT, Tex. (Special) — Lamar Tech pitchers spaced out 12 Northeast State hits and two runs over two games to sweep a doubleheader, 4-1 and 2-1 here Saturday.

Cardinal hurler Harold Kincaid went the distance in the first game to pick up his fifth win against two losses, while Jim Gilligan pitched five-hit ball for eight innings in the second contest only to have Willie Hayes pitch the last frame and grab the win.

Lamar Tech is now 13-11 on the season while the Indians from Northeast are 22-14.

Second-baseman Greg Harrop and right-fielder Dennis Parma toted the big sticks for the Cards at the plate, Harrop going four for seven while scoring three runs and stealing one base and Parma rapping five hits in seven at-bats while notching two RBI's.

Northeast shuttled pitchers around like the twinbill was an all-star game, using eight hurlers in all. John Ventola was tagged for the first game loss and Bobby Miano lost the second. Ventola is now 0 - 2 and Miano, 2-2.

Glynn Saulters went two for three and bagged the Indian's first game rbi, while Don Charpio rapped in the second tally for the Tribe.

Tech scored twice in the first inning of the opener on a sacrifice and a single by Parma, then came back with two more tallies in the ninth frame on a passed ball by Tribe catcher Don Corbin and a single by Card Jackie Byrd.

Northeast got its lone mark in the eighth when Marvin Brosset made first on a pitcher's error and then stole second base, where he came home on Saulters single.

Tech walked off with the tight second game when Indian shortstop Joe Canal bobbled a grounder, allowing a Card base-runner on third to score and break the 1-1 tie.

The Indian run in the second contest came when Wayne Burney singled in the fifth, was moved to second on Canal's sacrifice, took third on a fielder's choice and came home on Charpio's single.

Northeast will play Louisiana Tech in Ruston Monday.

NSC Scores Upset Win In National AAU Gym Meet

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP)—Northwestern State College took an upset victory in the men's team competition and Southern Illinois repeated as women's title in the finals of the National AAU Gymnastics championships on the NSC campus here.

Centenary College of Shreveport finished second in the women's division. Southern Illinois, rolling up points in tumbling and trampoline, had 29.5 to 14 points for Centenary.

NSC got 32.25 points to capture the men's title. Southwestern Louisiana was second with 16.5 and New York Athletic Club was third with 10.5. Defending champion Southern Connecticut failed to place.

Sei Ito, a graduate student from Japan, was NSC's greatest point producer. Ito finished first in still rings to push the NSC squad into first place and also took a third in men's floor exercise and a fourth in horizontal bars.

Ito turned in one of the most impressive performances of the meet in the still rings. After a composite score of 9.7 in the prelims, Ito had a near flawless routine for another 9.7 in the finals.

NSC earlier this year won the NAIA gymnastics title.

Judy Wills of Gulfport, Miss., a Southern Illinois student, the world trampoline and tumbling champion, lead SIU to its title by capturing both of her specialties.

Nancy Smith of SIU was second in both tumbling and trampoline.

David Beard took second in tumbling for NSC. Richard Lloyd of NSC finished second in sidehorse and sixth in floor exercise.

Individual event champions included Zoshi Hakasaki of Seattle, Wash., in men's parallel bars; Makato Sakamoto, Southern California, men's horizontal bar and floor exercise; Arnold Lascari, Wisconsin, sidehorse and David Jacobs, Michigan, trampoline.

Women's events winners included Lindy Metheny, Tuscola, Ill., floor exercise and uneven bar, and Carolyn Hacker, Southern Connecticut in balanced beam.

Hayasaki was the men's all-around champion and Miss Hacker took the women's all-around title.

Records To Fall In West

Fresno, Calif. (AP) — The West Coast relays in Fresno has a slogan — "Where World Records Are Broken" — and the annual carnival, opening its 41st running Friday, has seen 38 world and American records equalled or bettered.

Pole vault immortal Cornelius "Dutch" Warmerdam, who is director of the two-day trackfest is predicting more records this year.

Warmerdam has lined up a field including world record holders Randy Matson and Ralph Boston, as well as Villanova middle distance star Dave Patrick and big team entries from Southern California, UCLA. Brigham Young and the University of New Mexico.

Fordham, Flowers, Females Highlight Raily Quantico Relays

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Fordham whipped Villanova again at two miles, Richmond Flowers got his revenge and the girls did most of the record-breaking Saturday in the rain-drenched 11th annual Quantico Relays.

Behind by 30 yards after the first half mile and still 25 yards behind halfway through the event, Fordham overhauled Villanova in the two-mile relay on the third and fourth laps by Brian Hernon and Jack Fath.

Hernon made up 22 yards with a 1:50.5 third leg and Fath ran the final half mile in 1:50.8 as he came from behind to beat the Wildcat's Dave Patrick in the stretch. Just as at the Penn Relays last week, Patrick lunged and sprawled onto the track behind Fath, who also went down.

The Rams and Wildcats both were timed in 7:9.6.

Flowers, the Tennessee sophomore flash who came here just to get even for last week's defeat in the 120-yard high hurdles at Penn, made good on his mission. He edged Villanova's Erv Hall by three inches in a photo finish in 13.8 seconds as no more than inches ever separated them.

An outstanding individual performance also was turned in by Olympian Tom Farrell, the former St. John's half-miler. His 1:48.6 anchor leg led the U.S. Army to a meet record 3:20.6 in the sprint medley relay, and he anchored the winning club and service two-mile relay team to victory. In the sprint medley, the Philadelhia Pioneer club also was caught in 3:20.6.

Records fell in three of the four women's events.

Mamie Rawlins of Chicago's Mayor Daley Youth Foundation won the 80-meter hurdles in 11.4, Diana Wilson of Tennessee State took the 100 in 11 seconds after setting a record of 10.9 in the trials, and Madeline Manning of Tennessee State ran the 880 in a record 2:08.4.

One record was broken in the field events as William Skinner of the Delaware Track Club threw the javelin 249 feet, 5 inches—more than a foot better than the mark he set last year.

British west Indies' Olympic star Ed Roberts edged Kentucky State's Clarence Ray in the 100 in 9.7 as he won the event for the third straight year.

Jimmy Johnson of the Peninsula Track Club, who formerly ran for William and Mary, won the invitational mile in 4:12.5 and William Moore of the U.S. Army copped the 3,000-meter steepechase in 9:11.

Brabham, of Australia, driving with a Repco engine installed only Friday night in his Brabham chassis, twisted and turned around the picturesque 1.95-mile course laid out on the streets of Monte Carlo in 1:27.6 for the average of 80.13 miles per hour.

Synthetic Grass Aids Cubs' Field

CHICAGO (AP)—A terrace of green synthetic grass soon will spruce up the area in Wrigley Field's center field bleachers vacated permanently by the Chicago Cubs as an aid to hitters.

A framework of Astroturf, the substance covering the playing field of the Houston Astrodome, will be built next week over the vacant section.

The Cubs decided the phony grass will be more pleasing to the eye than the vacant seats and just as good a background for the hitters.

Fordham, Flowers, Females Highlight Raily Quantico Relays

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Fordham whipped Villanova again at two miles, Richmond Flowers got his revenge and the girls did most of the record-breaking Saturday in the rain-drenched 11th annual Quantico Relays.

Behind by 30 yards after the first half mile and still 25 yards behind halfway through the event, Fordham overhauled Villanova in the two-mile relay on the third and fourth laps by Brian Hernon and Jack Fath.

Hernon made up 22 yards with a 1:50.5 third leg and Fath ran the final half mile in 1:50.8 as he came from behind to beat the Wildcat's Dave Patrick in the stretch. Just as at the Penn Relays last week, Patrick lunged and sprawled onto the track behind Fath, who also went down.

The Rams and Wildcats both were timed in 7:9.6.

Flowers, the Tennessee sophomore flash who came here just to get even for last week's defeat in the 120-yard high hurdles at Penn, made good on his mission. He edged Villanova's Erv Hall by three inches in a photo finish in 13.8 seconds as no more than inches ever separated them.

An outstanding individual performance also was turned in by Olympian Tom Farrell, the former St. John's half-miler. His 1:48.6 anchor leg led the U.S. Army to a meet record 3:20.6 in the sprint medley relay, and he anchored the winning club and service two-mile relay team to victory. In the sprint medley, the Philadelhia Pioneer club also was caught in 3:20.6.

Records fell in three of the four women's events.

Mamie Rawlins of Chicago's Mayor Daley Youth Foundation won the 80-meter hurdles in 11.4, Diana Wilson of Tennessee State took the 100 in 11 seconds after setting a record of 10.9 in the trials, and Madeline Manning of Tennessee State ran the 880 in a record 2:08.4.

One record was broken in the field events as William Skinner of the Delaware Track Club threw the javelin 249 feet, 5 inches—more than a foot better than the mark he set last year.

British west Indies' Olympic star Ed Roberts edged Kentucky State's Clarence Ray in the 100 in 9.7 as he won the event for the third straight year.

Jimmy Johnson of the Peninsula Track Club, who formerly ran for William and Mary, won the invitational mile in 4:12.5 and William Moore of the U.S. Army copped the 3,000-meter steepechase in 9:11.

MONTE CARLO, (AP) — Jack Brabham, defending world race driving champion, turned in a record lap in the closing minutes of the last trial session Saturday and captured the pole position for today's Monaco Grand Prix, for Formula One cars.

Brabham, of Australia, driving with a Repco engine installed only Friday night in his Brabham chassis, twisted and turned around the picturesque 1.95-mile course laid out on the streets of Monte Carlo in 1:27.6 for the average of 80.13 miles per hour.

Jim Allen of Roanoke, Va., captains West Point's squash team.

Synthetic Grass Aids Cubs' Field

CHICAGO (AP)—A terrace of green synthetic grass soon will spruce up the area in Wrigley Field's center field bleachers vacated permanently by the Chicago Cubs as an aid to hitters.

A framework of Astroturf, the substance covering the playing field of the Houston Astrodome, will be built next week over the vacant section.

The Cubs decided the phony grass will be more pleasing to the eye than the vacant seats and just as good a background for the hitters.

N.Y. Views Possibilities Of Afternoon Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP) — The Morning New York Times intends to study prospects for entering the afternoon field, which was left solely to the New York Post by the death Friday of the World Journal Tribune.

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, said in Saturday's issue that "we are going to take a look at the situation."

"It would be foolish of us," he said, "not to consider whether the afternoon newspaper field does not offer us a business opportunity and an opportunity for public service. That's all I can say at the present time."

The Post raised it advertising rates 20 per cent immediately and the morning Daily News, the city's other major daily, raised its per copy price from 7 to 8 cents, beginning Monday.

And in an attempt to have the World Journal Tribune shutdown reviewed, James J. McMahon, president of the stereotypers union, demanded a meeting with the paper's management. McHahon said his union was "ready and willing to explore every possible avenue of approach in an effort to save" the paper.

Matt Meyer, president of the paper, quickly replied that the shutdown was "an irrevocable decision on the part of the owners." He added: "I would say it's a little late to save the paper."

The developments came as city newspaper readers for the first time Saturday had a choice of only three Manhattan dailies.

RAIN IS EXPECTED today from New England to the Carolinas. Rain mixed with snow is expected for portions of Maine. Showers and thunderstorms are due in the Tennessee Valley, northern Florida, the Gulf coast and from Montana to Washington state. Elsewhere clear to partly cloudy skies are forecast. (AP Wirephoto)

Membership Drive Opens For Chamber

HOMER (Special) — Homer Chamber of Commerce has kicked off its third annual membership drive to finance the year's operation, with V. M. Roberts, membership drive chairman. Roberts said that almost $11,000 was paid in dues the past year, but a goal of $12,000 is set this year.

A joint committee headed by Charles Kendrick, Chamber of Commerce treasurer, including several members of the business community with chamber directors, has established a schedule for a "Fair Share" system of dues assessment. This will assure each member, business, professional person, individual, and service organization to pay dues on a comparable basis with others in the same category.

"Use of the system will mean that the person or firm will be asked to pay only his equitable portion of the total financing required to carry out the work of the Chamber of Commerce in its third year," Roberts declared.

Members of the membership committee assisting the chairman in dues collections are: T. L. Guice Jr., Duane Rhea,

Membership Drive Opens For Chamber

HOMER (Special) — Homer Chamber of Commerce has kicked off its third annual membership drive to finance the year's operation, with V. M. Roberts, membership drive chairman. Roberts said that almost $11,000 was paid in dues the past year, but a goal of $12,000 is set this year.

A joint committee headed by Charles Kendrick, Chamber of Commerce treasurer, including several members of the business community with chamber directors, has established a schedule for a "Fair Share" system of dues assessment. This will assure each member, business, professional person, individual, and service organization to pay dues on a comparable basis with others in the same category.

"Use of the system will mean that the person or firm will be asked to pay only his equitable portion of the total financing required to carry out the work of the Chamber of Commerce in its third year," Roberts declared.

Members of the membership committee assisting the chairman in dues collections are: T. L. Guice Jr., Duane Rhea,

FLOWER ARRANGING

Essential equipment for the arrangement of flowers at home consists first of a collection of containers which will fill all possible requirements. The Society of American Florists points out that a very few containers are needed to fill the bill at first if they are of neutral colors and various shapes and sizes.

CHEESE COMBO

Don't hesitate to combine several varieties of cheese as a topping for pasta! It's a good way to use up small pieces of cheese that are in the refrigerator and the combined flavors add interest to bland spaghetti or noodles. Use varieties of cheese that can be grated and mix together.

Mrs. J. L. Harrell, organist and Miss Sandra Beaty, soloist, presented appropriate nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a formal length gown of pure silk taffeta and tulle, appliqued with motifs of shirred tulle over layers of net and taffeta. The gown was styled with a Sabrina neckline and cap sleeves. Four large loops formed a back bustle effect. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held in place by a lace cap embellished with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of tuberoses centered with a yellow-throated white orchid, atop a white Bible, festooned with ribbons and seed pearls.

Mrs. Alvin Kimsey Seago Jr., Fort Worth, Texas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a floor length gown of mint green lace and chiffon over taffeta fashioned with empire waistline and back shoulder drape of two chiffon panels. Her headpiece was a veiled circlet of mint green leaves and she wore matching shoes and carried a single yellow rose.

Serving as best man was James Brown and ushers were Steven Leaphart, brother of the groom and Ronnie Taylor of Ruston.

For the occasion Mrs. Smith wore a champagne lace and chiffon model, complemented by a veiled hat of velvet roses and ribbon with matching shoes and gloves. Her corsage was an orchid. Mrs. Leaphart was attired in a pastel blue silk dress with matching hat, shoes and gloves and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's table, covered with a white cutwork cloth over pale yellow, was centered with an arrangement of yellow rosebuds and tuberoses in a cupid bisque compote, flanked by white tapers.

The tiered wedding cake, topped with satin bells, was served by the bride's sister, Mrs. Richard Downes of Orlando, Fla. Presiding at the punch bowl were aunts of the bride, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale of Monroe and Mrs. E. H. Myrick of Rayville. Miss Patricia Lea of Bogalusa presided at the guest book and tea girls were Miss Bonnie Beavers.

Mrs. Jerry Eppinette and Miss Debra Leaphart.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride donned a three piece knit suit in navy, yellow and white with yellow straw hat and navy accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home in Ruston where both are attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. A graduate of Rayville high school, the bride previously attended Blue Mountain College, Blue Mountain, Miss., and is a member of Modenian Society. Mr. Leaphart was graduated from Haughton high school.

FLOWER ARRANGING

Essential equipment for the arrangement of flowers at home consists first of a collection of containers which will fill all possible requirements. The Society of American Florists points out that a very few containers are needed to fill the bill at first if they are of neutral colors and various shapes and sizes.

CHEESE COMBO

Don't hesitate to combine several varieties of cheese as a topping for pasta! It's a good way to use up small pieces of cheese that are in the refrigerator and the combined flavors add interest to bland spaghetti or noodles. Use varieties of cheese that can be grated and mix together.

Closet Hanger Can Prevent Mildew

Mildew in damp climates or areas such as basements or attics can discolor fabrics and walls, damage leather and other items and create an unpleasant musty odor. Now a no-mildew cake closet hanger is available at notion counters that can be hung in closets by its own tab on a hanger or hook, placed in drawers, trunks, gym lockers, sail bags or slipped under a mattress. Side vents in the slender container allow the vapors from the cake to escape. It is stainless and safe to use anywhere.

Tourist Attractions Discussed At Club

Mrs. R. L. Wood gave a review of "Tourist Attractions in Louisiana," at the May meeting of the Miro Book Club held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. L. Mulhern on Milton Drive.

Following her review Mrs. N. W. McHenry gave an account of a tour she made recently in the Amish section of Pennsylvania.

During the business session the group discussed participation in two community projects, Monroe's entry in Louisiana's Cleanest City Contest and the promotion of Monroe as a convention city.

The annual club luncheon is planned for Monday, May 15 at the Paragon Club, according to announcement by Mrs. F. L. Smith.

An arrangement of spring flowers was the centerpiece for the dining room table from which refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. J. H. McCormick, Mrs. McHenry, Miss Mabel Lann, Mrs. P. J. Newman, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. Wood and Miss Jean Bonham.

Closet Hanger Can Prevent Mildew

Mildew in damp climates or areas such as basements or attics can discolor fabrics and walls, damage leather and other items and create an unpleasant musty odor. Now a no-mildew cake closet hanger is available at notion counters that can be hung in closets by its own tab on a hanger or hook, placed in drawers, trunks, gym lockers, sail bags or slipped under a mattress. Side vents in the slender container allow the vapors from the cake to escape. It is stainless and safe to use anywhere.

A reminder is issued to the members that all dues must be paid at the meeting Monday, or mailed to the treasurer by May 8.

For our poem today, these lines on May by Edward Thurlow, Lord Thurlow, early 19th century poet:

May! Queen of blossoms,
And fulfilling flowers,
With what pretty music
Shall we charm the hours?
Wilt thou have pipe and reed,
Blown in the open mead?
Or to the lute give heed
In the green bowers?
Thou hast no need of us,
Or pipe or wire;
Thou hast the golden bee
Ripen'd with fire;
And many thousand more,
Songsters that thee adore,
Filling earth's grassy floor
With new desire.
Thou hast thy mighty herds,
Tame and free - livers;
Doubt not, thy music too
In the deep rivers;
And the whole plumy flight
Warbling the day and night —
Up at the gates of light,
See, the lark quivers!

Beach Cottons From Minis To Caftans Pair Up For '67

Nifty little swimsuits in a colorful array of cotton fabrics double up with coordinating cover - ups for summer '67 reports the National Cotton Council.

It's the total look that triumphs this year. Bathing suits in every size and shape keep company with matching cover-ups that run the gamut from the skimpiest mini skirts to the most voluminous caftans. In between are the hip - hugger pants, the baby doll dresses and the sand - skirting jump-suits.

For eager - beaver bathers, bikinis still reign supreme. For more conservative sunworshippers, there are two - piece suits with tunic tops, bra - topped suits with little boy shorts and one - piecers with poor boy tops.

The most appealing beach-bound fashions are created from cotton fabrics. Cotton duck, canvas, ottoman and pique are the special favorites in checks, stripes, polka dots and island florals. Colors range from the bright, zingy tomato shades to the more subdued plum tones with combinations of black and white and navy and white very much in the swim.

The definitive word on graduates was given in a tale told by FRANK BREESE at the 1967 banquet of Neville high school alumni, held Tuesday evening in the Paragon ballroom.

Harking back to his own graduation in 1930, Frank recalled the late MINNIE RUFFIN, for many years principal at the old Monroe City High school and later dean of women at Neville. It seems that following graduation, several of the gay blades of the class, including Frank, cornered Mrs. Ruffin and asked if she had anything to say to them now that they were out.

That wise, witty, and altogether wonderful lady looked at them and replied: "Indeed, I have something to say. . . . .Thank God!"

This year's banquet was the 50th consecutive observance of the event, originated with the class of 1910, who were honored at the old Star hotel. About 500 graduates of Neville and the old high school attend each year, including a number who come from out of town for a reunion with former classmates.

Tuesday, as is customary, the speaker's table was placed on the bandstand in the ballroom, with seniors seated at honor tables set up on the ballroom floor. A massive bouquet of Opicana roses and daisies centered the speaker's table, with branched silver candlesticks banked with roses standing at either side. Tables for seniors were decorated with small bouquets placed down the length. At each place were "diplomas": calendar pages for the month of May, with important dates marked, rolled and tied.

Honored guests also seated at a table on the ballroom floor were nine of eleven living members of the class of 1917, celebrating their 50th anniversary. A brass candelabra - epergne filled with yellow roses, euonymus, and yellow candles centered this table.

More than sixty members of the class of 1942, with their spouses, attended the banquet in observance of the 25th anniversary of their graduation. At the next table were some 40 members of the class of 1941: not celebrating anything special, except that they had so much fun last year they decided to make it an annual event. Others present came from classes as recent as 1966 and as long ago as 1910.

Named as "Grandmother of the Year" was LADY BIRD NIXON BREARD, a graduate of the old City High school whose granddaughter, PEGGY BREARD is a 1967 senior. Instead of the customary "Mother of the Year:", the alumni honored BILLY GANNAWAY as "Father of the Year". Billy's daughter GAY is a member of the class of 1967.

Preceding the banquet, BENNIE and NELSON ABELL entertained at an open house at their home for members of the 1942 class. Visitors from out of town were thus afforded an opportunity for renewing auld acquaintance and catching up on news of former classmates.

Bennie used magnolia branches on the living room hearth. However, the point of interest in the living room was the table whereon lay the 1942 MONROYAN, an invitation and program of graduation exercises . . . .A silver epergne filled with gardenias centered the dining room table.

On Thursday, Bennie entertained again, this time 25 girls of the class of 1967, with their mothers. The occasion was a mother - daughter tea honoring Peggy Breard. Bennie used a yellow and white theme for this party. Nosegays of yellow roses, daisies, iris, and sprigs of ivy were noted throughout the house. Centering the dining room table was an arrangement of yellow snapdragons and gardenias.

A tea last Saturday afternoon in the home of MARY FINK honored seniors CYNTHIA TERZIA and CINDY ZOLLINGER. Mary invited about fifty girls to the party between the hours of three and five. Red roses were used in arrangements throughout the reception area. On the mantel in the living room was a silver wine cooler filled with roses. The dining room table was centered with roses in a footed silver container. Mothers of the honorees, ELEANOR TERZIA and LORRAINE KUSIN, alternated at serving strawberry punch from the silver bowl. Other goodies passed during the afternoon included chicken salad sandwiches, cheese straws, date bars, and meringues.

Cynthia was also named guest of honor Sunday afternoon when FLORENCE GARRETSON was hostess for a sundae party at her home. Individual tables were set up on the patio overlooking the bayou. Each was centered with a miniature toplary tree of pink roses and appointed with white paper lace mats and pink napkins tied in shape of ice cream cones.

Guests were invited to choose container — a sherbet glass, banana split dish, or a parfait — and "make their own". Chocolate, vanilla, and strawberry ice cream cartons, each wrapped in matching paper cups, were set out, with "trimmings" of pineapple topping, chocolate sauce, strawberries, nuts, bananas, and whipped cream. Twenty senior girls attended this party.

Eighty girls were invited to attend a conversational hour given Saturday afternoon by JACKIE MEHL and CAROL HOLDSWORTH. The party was held in the Mehl home on Lakeside drive between 2 and 4 p.m. Roses, honeysuckle, and ivy were used in the table centerpiece. With bottled drinks, the hostesses served tiny sandwiches, cookies, assorted dips, and fudge.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced to the highest level since May 6, 1966, when it closed Friday at 330.6 from 327.3 a week ago.

This marked the fourth straight weekly rise in the average. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Stock Mart Recovery Drive Hits New Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's recovery drive surged to a new peak in active trading last week.

The averages scored their fourth straight weekly advance despite some rough going on Monday and Tuesday.

The market got back on the track and responded to such developments as President Johnson's assurance that a quick escalation of the Vietnam war was not in prospect, a sharp reduction in new car inventories, good retail sales by big chains, action by the administration and Congress to head off a railroad strike and further easing in the money market.

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced last week 3.3 to 330.6, its highest level since May 6, 1966.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials topped the psychologically important 900 - level for the first time in 11 months and ended the week with a gain of 8.91 to 905.96. It reached its all-time high of 995.15 on Feb. 9, 1966.

Trading volume soared last week to 54,714,380 shares from 52,702,640 the previous week and was second to the record of 56.71 million in the week of March 10.

The biggest block of shares ever traded on the New York Stock Exchange crossed the ticker tape Thursday when 585,600 shares of Sperry Rand changed hands in an $18 million transaction. Identities of the buyer and seller were not disclosed.

Of 1,602 issues traded last week, 884 advanced and 576 declined. There were 466 new 1967 highs and 25 new lows.

Prices of long-term bonds declined. Short-term interest rates were mixed.

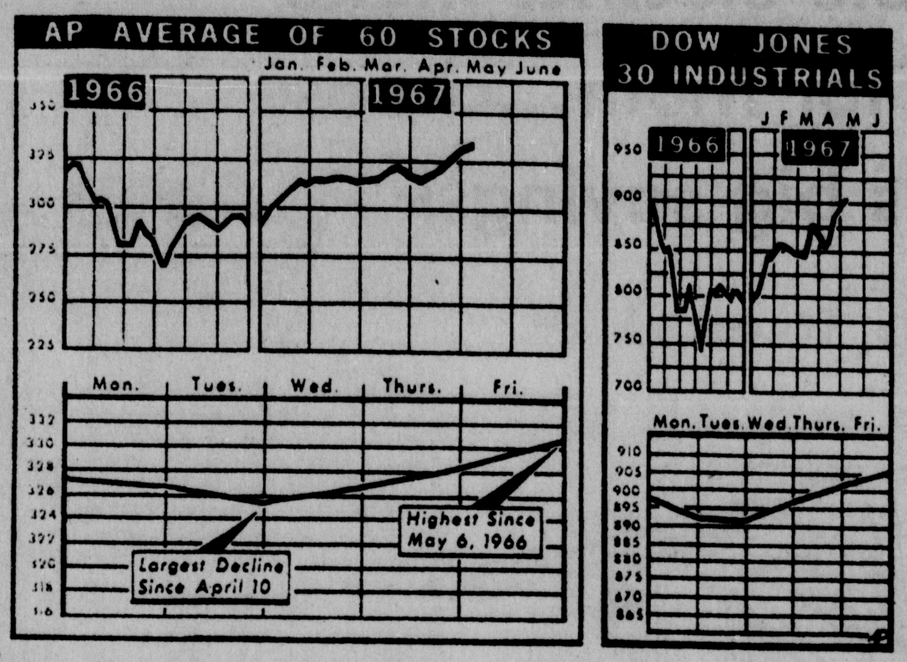
Week's Transactions On New York Stock Exchange

Complete Listings Of All Stocks Traded During Past Week On New York Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Stock Exchange trading for the week:



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced to the highest level since May 6, 1966, when it closed Friday at 330.6 from 327.3 a week ago. This marked the fourth straight weekly rise in the average. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Stock Mart Recovery Drive Hits New Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's recovery drive surged to a new peak in active trading last week.

The averages scored their fourth straight weekly advance despite some rough going on Monday and Tuesday.

The market got back on the track and responded to such developments as President Johnson's assurance that a quick escalation of the Vietnam war was not in prospect, a sharp reduction in new car inventories, good retail sales by big chains, action by the administration and Congress to head off a railroad strike and further easing in the money market.

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced last week 3.3 to 330.6, its highest level since May 6, 1966.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials topped the psychologically important 900 - level for the first time in 11 months and ended the week with a gain of 8.91 to 905.96. It reached its all-time high of 995.15 on Feb. 9, 1966.

Trading volume soared last week to 54,714,380 shares from 52,702,640 the previous week and was second to the record of 56,-71 million in the week of March 10.

The biggest block of shares ever traded on the New York Stock Exchange crossed the ticker tape Thursday when 585,-600 shares of Sperry Rand changed hands in an $18 million transaction. Identities of the buyer and seller were not disclosed.

Of 1,602 issues traded last week, 884 advanced and 576 declined. There were 466 new 1967 highs and 25 new lows.

Prices of long-term bonds declined. Short-term interest rates were mixed.

CURTAIN CALL

By CURTIS RAPE

"Barefoot in the Park", our last major production of the current season, has been set to open Monday, May 22, with performances running for eight consecutive days.

Evening performances will be May 22-27, and May 29 and 30. Curtain time for these will be 8:15 p.m. One matinee will be played Sunday, May 28, with starting time at 2:30 p.m.

Mailers are in the process of being sent out with reservation blanks attached. All members are urged to make reservations via the mailer blank if specific seats are desired for certain performance dates.

EARLY SELECTION

So often the choice seats are already taken by the time the box office opens for telephone reservations. Tickets must be picked up by 4 p.m. on the reservation date of an evening show and by noon on the date of a matinee.

Any tickets not picked up by the appointed hour may be sold to other members desiring tickets for that date. If you make reservations by mail and wish tickets returned by mail, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

In addition, please indicate alternate dates for performances desired.

CAST

With rehearsals approaching the final stages of production, the cast of "Barefoot . . . " is now complete.

Playing the part of Corie Bratter is Cal Zamecki. This is Cal's first appearance on the local stage though she worked on the crew of the last production, "Catch Me If You Can." Prior to moving to Monroe, Cal studied drama at the University of Texas and at Pasadena Playhouse in California.

Cal's husband in real life, Richard Zamecki, will be playing her stage husband, Paul Bratter. Richard appeared in our last show in the role of Father Kelleher. He is on the science faculty at Northeast and holds a Ph. D. in physics.

Marguerite Govang will be seen as Mrs. Banks, Corie's mother. Our audiences will remember Marguerite as the hilarious Mayor's wife in the summer musical "Music Man." We regret this will be her last appearance before local audiences as she and her family are moving to Kankakee, Ill. as soon as this show closes. Her husband, Donald, is being transferred there by Olinkraft.

J. D. Jussel makes his stage debut locally as the telephone repair man in the play. J. D. worked lights for our last production and his wife, Shirley, created all the beautiful hats for this season's "Camelot."

The delivery man will be portrayed by F.M. Buckingham. Buck has worked on every production of the theatre this year. He has worked properties, lights, and most recently served as stage manager for "Camelot" and "Catch Me . . . ." We could use many more devoted workers like Buck.

Mr. Velasco, the man upstairs, will be portrayed by Louis Guerriero of New York City. Louis was very active in local theatre a few years ago prior to moving away.

Since then he has appeared in professional theatre throughout the country in such productions as "Funny Girl," and "Oliver." He has made numerous nation-wide appearances in such television shows as "The U.S. Steel Hour."

Louis is currently visiting with his family in Monroe and came out to the theatre to lend us a hand with our local production of "Barefoot . . . "

He is a resident actor at the Barn Theatre in Augusta, Michigan, and has been for the past several summer seasons. He returns there June 1 to play the same role he will create here in "Barefoot . . . "

HELP

Many properties are still needed for this production. If you have any of the listed items and could lend them to the theatre, please give Executive Director Bill Haddad a call.

Needed is a large Austrian drape or similar item about 6 feet by 9 feet. To go with this we need any type of bamboo and-or wrought iron furniture.

Other items include an old fashioned wash basin and pitcher, a covered frying pan, small real fireplace logs, a fancy man's scarf, old sheets, blankets, pillows, and pillow cases.

In addition to properties, much help is needed to build and paint sets. The work isn't hard and you can have a lot of fun working in Little Theatre.

So if you have a few extra minutes and can come out and help, give Bill a call or just don your old paint clothes and drop by the theatre any week night.

Living Increase To Be Discussed

Marion E. Dupont, a national deputy inspector, will discuss cost of living increases at the regular meeting of the Leo Terza Barracks and Auxiliary Monday night at 7 at the American Home on Forsythe Avenue.

The bills, which recently passed Congress and the Senate, are still under adjustments before the President signs them.

Plans for attending the Seventh Department Convention at the Jung Hotel, New Orleans, will also be discussed.

Fame Kind To Lemmon Of Movies

HOLLWOOD (UPI) — Jack Lemmon is a curiosity.

Harvard educated, an Oscar winner and a genuine movie star, Lemmon is untouched by the aura of fame and celebrity.

Press agents have failed to glamorize him. He appears unaware that he is a famous man, his face a commodity. A dedicated actor, Lemmon is unimpressed with his public image, if indeed he has one at all.

He stabbed the air with a long thin cigar in the Paramount Studios commissary the other day, emphasizing his enthusiasm for one of the toughest assignments of his career—the part of Felix, the nagging nitpicker of "The Odd Couple."

His co-star is Walter Matthau, the overpowering star of the Broadway version of "Odd Couple," in the role of Oscar.

Lemmon was almost lost when he appeared with Matthau in "The Fortune Cookie," for which the gruff Matthau won an Oscar this year.

FORCEFUL

Matthau's forceful personality trampled Art Carney's portrayal of Felix on the stage into nothingness. It could happen again with Lemmon. But Jack is unconcerned.

He's focused his attention on bringing the play to life on the screen, infusing Felix with new blood.

"I saw the play when it first opened," he said. "I haven't seen it since. I don't want to have any one else's performance in my mind."

Lemmon has starred in four film adaptations of Broadway plays, "My Sister Eileen," Bell, Book and Candle," Mr. Roberts" and "Luv." In each case he had seen the original productions.

"When I did 'Mr. Roberts' I was still remembering David Wayne in the part of Ensign Pulver. It was only my second or third picture and I was overly concerned not to mimic him or borrow anything from his performance. So I wasn't playing the part normally."

"I kept seeing him in the role and did everything I could to be different. Finally I got around to forgetting about David's great performance and concentrated on the character. It worked out."

WON OSCAR

It worked out so well that Jack won an Oscar for his work.

"Doing a stage adaptation has advantages and disadvantages," he said. "You're working with tested material. But if you get locked into what worked on stage you can lose values by refusing to open up the play where it can be opened up. It's a double-edged sword.

"But I'm convinced movies are a far better medium than the stage for telling a story. Why do you think they invented opera glasses?

In a sense the movie, like the play, will be a traditional comedy as compared to the far-out nonsense of "What's New Pussycat" and "Alfie." The "in" and hippie comedy so popular abroad is fine for untried properties, but not for a multi-million dollar picture version of a hit play.

"I can smell a successful movie even before we start shooting," Lemmon said. "I felt that way about 'Mr. Roberts' and 'Some Like It Hot.' I feel that way about this picture. I'm really excited about it."

ROCK HUDSON and George Peppard portray commandos in an epic adventure story of World War II, "Tobruk," a Universal release photographed in Technicolor. Now playing at the Paramount.

Happy Combination Seen In Photography, Travel

By IRVING DESFOR

Photography and travel are a natural twosome, a happy combination that blends, harmonizes, compliments and helps each other to enjoy and recall significant sights, scenes and seconds.

It was therefore a natural development of photography's usefulness and scope that prompted the planners of New York's annual photo show to channel their 1967 efforts towards an "International Photography and Travel Fair."

That show completed its five-day stay at New York's Coliseum and its success may be gauged by its total attendance of more than 97,000 persons. . . an impressive response. On one day, Saturday, it drew an all-time, one-day record number of camera fans to see the latest in equipment, watch demonstrations, study exhibitions, listen to lectures and photograph the models and entertainment provided.

PROVIDED ANSWER

The fair's formula provided an answer for most photographic and travel needs. Exhibitor booth provided information; photo exhibitions furnished inspiration; lecture sessions were a source of education and photogenic settings, stage activities and costumed models were multiple targets for shutterbug experimentation.

The addition of the travel field to the fair provided specialists in that area with advice and help. A program of travel movies and discussions by experts from the American Society of Travel Agents were scheduled at hourly intervals. There were also representatives from about a dozen uations on hand with facts, figures and folders on traveling in their countries. Photographers and their cameras were made to feel welcome and wanted.

Among the photo exhibitions, there is particular current interest in "The U.S. Navy in Vietnam." Taken by a team of Navy photojournalists, the dramatic color pictures were selected by Edward Steichen, the venerable dean of museum photographic exhibitions and an expert in Navy photography from wartime experience.

Another noteworthy exhibit was from the lens of globe-trotting photographer. Ewing Krainin. More than 50 of his international scenics show how a personal view of people and places in different countries make memorable and artistic photographs.

"CREATIVE KANSAS"

A first - time exhibit by 19-year - old Gary Miller of Bayside, N.Y., "Creative Kansas," is a tribute to photographic achievement by a youngster. In a special between - school - sessions assignment, he covered the state with an inquisitive camera and brought back imaginative viewpoints, all in color. After its New York premiere, the exhibition will appear in Montreal's Expo '67 and then tour Kansas itself this fall and winter.

While browsing among the equipment booths, I came across an ingenious 8 mm film splicer that had not come to my attention thus far from previous trade news sources. It's the Eumig Cheno splicer for regular or Super 8mm films. It cuts the film in a unique interlocking pattern, then brings the ends together and binds them with a special cement (no emulsion scraping necessary) with a simple downward move of the handle. Eumig is the Austrian firm better known for its movie cameras and projectors.

There is one puzzling aspect of the '67 International Photography and Travel Fair in view of its importance as the larg public photography show h annually in the U.S. Why w there no displays by the gia in the industry: Eastman dak, Ansco, Polaroid and Hon well? With their representati a good show could be even l ger and better and the phot raphic public would benefit.

Fame Kind To Lemmon Of Movies

HOLLWOOD (UPI) — Jack Lemmon is a curiosity.

Harvard educated, an Oscar winner and a genuine movie star, Lemmon is untouched by the aura of fame and celebrity.

Press agents have failed to glamorize him. He appears unaware that he is a famous man, his face a commodity. A dedicated actor, Lemmon is unimpressed with his public image, if indeed he has one at all.

He stabbed the air with a long thin cigar in the Paramount Studios commissary the other day, emphasizing his enthusiasm for one of the toughest assignments of his career—the part of Felix, the nagging nitpicker of "The Odd Couple."

His co-star is Walter Matthau, the overpowering star of the Broadway version of "Odd Couple," in the role of Oscar.

FORCEFUL

Matthau's forceful personality trampled Art Carney's portrayal of Felix on the stage into nothingness. It could happen again with Lemmon. But Jack is unconcerned.

He's focused his attention on bringing the play to life on the screen, infusing Felix with new blood.

"I saw the play when it first opened," he said. "I haven't seen it since. I don't want to have any one else's performance in my mind."

Lemmon has starred in four film adaptations of Broadway plays, "My Sister Eileen," Bell, Book and Candle," Mr. Roberts" and "Luv." In each case he had seen the original productions.

"When I did 'Mr. Roberts' I was still remembering David Wayne in the part of Ensign Pulver. It was only my second or third picture and I was overly concerned not to mimic him or borrow anything from his performance. So I wasn't playing the part normally."

"I kept seeing him in the role and did everything I could to be different. Finally I got around to forgetting about David's great performance and concentrated on the character. It worked out."

WON OSCAR

It worked out so well that Jack won an Oscar for his work.

"Doing a stage adaptation has advantages and disadvantages," he said. "You're working with tested material. But if you get locked into what worked on stage you can lose values by refusing to open up the play where it can be opened up. It's a double-edged sword.

"But I'm convinced movies are a far better medium than the stage for telling a story. Why do you think they invented opera glasses?

In a sense the movie, like the play, will be a traditional comedy as compared to the far-out nonsense of "What's New Pussycat" and "Alfie." The "in" and hippie comedy so popular abroad is fine for untried properties, but not for a multi-million dollar picture version of a hit play.

"I can smell a successful movie even before we start shooting," Lemmon said. "I felt that way about 'Mr. Roberts' and 'Some Like It Hot.' I feel that way about this picture. I'm really excited about it."

ROCK HUDSON and George Peppard portray commandos in an epic adventure story of World War II, "Tobruk," a Universal release photographed in Technicolor. Now playing at the Paramount.

Happy Combination Seen In Photography, Travel

By IRVING DESFOR

Photography and travel are a natural twosome, a happy combination that blends, harmonizes, compliments and helps each other to enjoy and recall significant sights, scenes and seconds.

It was therefore a natural development of photography's usefulness and scope that prompted the planners of New York's annual photo show to channel their 1967 efforts towards an "International Photography and Travel Fair."

That show completed its five-day stay at New York's Coliseum and its success may be gauged by its total attendance of more than 97,000 persons. . . an impressive response. On one day, Saturday, it drew an all-time, one-day record number of camera fans to see the latest in equipment, watch demonstrations, study exhibitions, listen to lectures and photograph the models and entertainment provided.

PROVIDED ANSWER

The fair's formula provided an answer for most photographic and travel needs. Exhibitor booth provided information; photo exhibitions furnished inspiration; lecture sessions were a source of education and photogenic settings, stage activities and costumed models were multiple targets for shutterbug experimentation.

The addition of the travel field to the fair provided specialists in that area with advice and help. A program of travel movies and discussions by experts from the American Society of Travel Agents were scheduled at hourly intervals. There were also representatives from about a dozen nations on hand with facts, figures and folders on traveling in their countries. Photographers and their cameras were made to feel welcome and wanted.

Among the photo exhibitions, there is particular current interest in "The U.S. Navy in Vietnam." Taken by a team of Navy photojournalists, the dramatic color pictures were selected by Edward Steichen, the venerable dean of museum photographic exhibitions and an expert in Navy photography from wartime experience.

Another noteworthy exhibit was from the lens of globe-trotting photographer. Ewing Krainin. More than 50 of his international scenics show how a personal view of people and places in different countries make memorable and artistic photographs.

"CREATIVE KANSAS"

A first - time exhibit by 19-year - old Gary Miller of Bayside, N.Y., "Creative Kansas," is a tribute to photographic achievement by a youngster. In a special between - school - sessions assignment, he covered the state with an inquisitive camera and brought back imaginative viewpoints, all in color. After its New York premiere, the exhibition will appear in Montreal's Expo '67 and then tour Kansas itself this fall and winter.

While browsing among the equipment booths, I came across an ingenious 8 mm film splicer that had not come to my attention thus far from previous trade news sources. It's the Eumig Cheno splicer for regular or Super 8mm films. It cuts the film in a unique interlocking pattern, then brings the ends together and binds them with a special cement (no emulsion scraping necessary) with a simple downward move of the handle. Eumig is the Austrian firm better known for its movie cameras and projectors.

There is one puzzling aspect of the '67 International Photography and Travel Fair in view of its importance as the largest public photography show held annually in the U.S. Why were there no displays by the giants in the industry: Eastman Kodak, Ansco, Polaroid and Honeywell? With their representation, a good show could be even bigger and better and the photographic public would benefit.

Dark Sentinels

Sometimes there are grey skies and scudding clouds born of hurricanes. Palms whip and often shred in the winds, and there are whitecaps on the inlet waters. The old fort stands on the edge of the water and appears to dare the winds and storms to come its way. Its corner cupola entry boxes, above the walls on each corner, challenge the elements. When the sun comes to St. Augustine and there are no storms, the old fort broods with a soreness and discontent born of many years.

The Spaniards had hoped to own Florida forever. In truth, its swamps and dense forests had seemed an inhospitable home but nevertheless another base in the new world; the long peninsula was vital to Madrid. For a number of years the little settlement at St. Augustine had grimly clung to life supported by valiant Spanish efforts with the help of friendly Indians. Frequently it was attacked and sacked by pirates and threatened by the wars and tribulations of the old world which had spilled across the oceans.

If it were to live, St. Augustine needed protection. Thus, construction was soon started on a fort to resist the efforts of pirates, British, and whoever else had unfriendly designs on the Spanish base. Americans who have occasion to visit Seville, in Spain, and who take the time to visit the Archives of the Indies, will see the original plans and designs which had been approved by the king and forwarded to the St. Augustine garrison. Plans called for a four - sided, double - walled building to contain balustrades. It was constructed entirely of coquina limestone, the soft material built through centuries by tiny sea animals whose skeletons and secretions form the rock.

Quarried on Anastasia Island nearby, the coquina limestone was barged to the fort site and carved to exacting tolerances. The blocks were then placed into position with an accuracy unusual even in modern times. The fort was built to last, and the years have proved its manufacture. Twenty - five years, during times of storm and sun, crisp winter, and high heat, it took to grow. When it was finished, it was almost immediately put to the severe test of an attack by a British invasion fleet bent on Spanish destruction. Within its stout walls St. Augustine citizens were forced to flee for their lives as the British burned their town. But, as had been foreseen, British shot and shell was absorbed by the soft walls, and finally the invasion force gave up and departed the scene.

Later Florida passed peacefully into British hands, and the Fort saw its Spanish builders leave, some of them never to return. The peninsula passed back to Spain and then to the fledgling American republic. Through the years the fort waited, almost patiently, for attacks which never came. It acted as a jail and witnessed perfidy when tribal chiefs Oceola and Coacoochee were captured under a flag of truce and flung within its dungeon walls. Oceola died of a broken heart. Coacoochee starved, shrank and then slipped through an aperature to escape, live and harass the Americans during the raging conflict which was called the Seminole War.

A steady stream of cars moves along St. Augustine's Avenida Menendez. Past the bridge which lead to the beaches, the tourists travel because the Avenida is part of Highway A-1A. From the bridge you can see the fort and the city. You can almost see shining helmets above the parapets. There is a palm - lined parking lot near the fort, and visitors cross a moat on a wooden bridge. The walls are grey and forebidding. Ancient cannon stand at ready in the grooves at the top of the walls. They seem eager and even disappointed at the lack of targets, and gaze hopefully into the distance in search of possible attackers. The moat is dry and unused. In the courtyard, through the walls and beyond the moat, you can hear the wind and waves, and sometimes, it seems, even the years. On the corners of the fort the cupolas are dark sentinels staring down the inlet toward the sea.

Dark Sentinels

Sometimes there are grey skies and scudding clouds born of hurricanes. Palms whip and often shred in the winds, and there are whitecaps on the inlet waters. The old fort stands on the edge of the water and appears to dare the winds and storms to come its way. Its corner cupola entry boxes, above the walls on each corner, challenge the elements. When the sun comes to St. Augustine and there are no storms, the old fort broods with a soreness and discontent born of many years.

The Spaniards had hoped to own Florida forever. In truth, its swamps and dense forests had seemed an inhospitable home but nevertheless another base in the new world; the long peninsula was vital to Madrid. For a number of years the little settlement at St. Augustine had grimly clung to life supported by valiant Spanish efforts with the help of friendly Indians. Frequently it was attacked and sacked by pirates and threatened by the wars and tribulations of the old world which had spilled across the oceans.

If it were to live, St. Augustine needed protection. Thus, construction was soon started on a fort to resist the efforts of pirates, British, and whoever else had unfriendly designs on the Spanish base. Americans who have occasion to visit Seville, in Spain, and who take the time to visit the Archives of the Indies, will see the original plans and designs which had been approved by the king and forwarded to the St. Augustine garrison. Plans called for a four - sided, double - walled building to contain balustrades. It was constructed entirely of coquina limestone, the soft material built through centuries by tiny sea animals whose skeletons and secretions form the rock.

Quarried on Anastasia Island nearby, the coquina limestone was barged to the fort site and carved to exacting tolerances. The blocks were then placed into position with an accuracy unusual even in modern times. The fort was built to last, and the years have proved its manufacture. Twenty - five years, during times of storm and sun, crisp winter, and high heat, it took to grow. When it was finished, it was almost immediately put to the severe test of an attack by a British invasion fleet bent on Spanish destruction. Within its stout walls St. Augustine citizens were forced to flee for their lives as the British burned their town. But, as had been foreseen, British shot and shell was absorbed by the soft walls, and finally the invasion force gave up and departed the scene.

Later Florida passed peacefully into British hands, and the Fort saw its Spanish builders leave, some of them never to return. The peninsula passed back to Spain and then to the fledgling American republic. Through the years the fort waited, almost patiently, for attacks which never came. It acted as a jail and witnessed perfidy when tribal chiefs Oceola and Coacoochee were captured under a flag of truce and flung within its dungeon walls. Oceola died of a broken heart. Coacoochee starved, shrank and then slipped through an aperature to escape, live and harass the Americans during the raging conflict which was called the Seminole War.

A steady stream of cars moves along St. Augustine's Avenida Menendez. Past the bridge which lead to the beaches, the tourists travel because the Avenida is part of Highway A-1A. From the bridge you can see the fort and the city. You can almost see shining helmets above the parapets. There is a palm - lined parking lot near the fort, and visitors cross a moat on a wooden bridge. The walls are grey and forebidding. Ancient cannon stand at ready in the grooves at the top of the walls. They seem eager and even disappointed at the lack of targets, and gaze hopefully into the distance in search of possible attackers. The moat is dry and unused. In the courtyard, through the walls and beyond the moat, you can hear the wind and waves, and sometimes, it seems, even the years. On the corners of the fort the cupolas are dark sentinels staring down the inlet toward the sea.

An Open Letter To The Residents Of Monroe, West Monroe and Northeast Louisiana . . .

Ten years ago the name VAN-TROW was new to the people of the Monroe area. We came to town to sell Cadillac and Oldsmobile and immediately realized the urgent need for service after the sale of America's two finest automobiles. In order to give SERVICE, you have to first have the facilities, so we built the finest in Monroe. Now, ten years later, we are ready to move into NEW and still finer facilities to render still better SERVICE.

But you know, something else has happened within these ten years . . . Americans have realized their need for a TRUE ECONOMY CAR. So . . . in an effort to make VAN-TROW YOUR "one stop" automotive headquarters we started looking around for the absolute BEST in this field. After many months of serious consideration and investigation, the answer was too obvious . . . nothing built in Germany, Italy or Japan, but a honest to goodness American-built "AMERICAN". This is the best in the field—can you imagine a 6-passenger car in the $1800.00 price range, with a 50,000 mile guarentee? Come by to-day and look at our complete line of American Motors Cars.

Yours truly,
A. T. Van Veckhoven

P.S. A warm welcome to all the present owners of American Motor Cars. Your service is invited to VAN-TROW where factory trained personnel will honor your warranty and give the courteous treatment Van-Trow is famous for.

Rush To Begin On Law Against Desecrating Flag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever since 1900 there have been efforts in Congress to make it a federal crime to burn or otherwise desecrate the American flag, and another big push is about to start.

Nobody wants to go as far as they did in Montana during World War I, however, when a man was sentenced to 10 to 20 years at hard labor for refusing to kiss the flag.

Most of the 60 bills now before the House Judiciary Committee would require a mandatory jail sentence of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. The authors — along with spokesmen for veterans' organizations and patriotic groups — are ready to start testifying in support of them at hearings beginning Monday.

A key question is whether the federal government should undertake enforcement of such a law. All 50 states have laws to punish desecrators of the flag, four of them carrying stiffer penalties than the proposed federal statute.

With the Vietnam war stirring patriotic fervor, criticism of the proposed law is muted, but the American Civil Liberties Union plans to oppose it as violating the constitutional right of free speech and some congressmen privately share that view.

Such critics can find small comfort in court rulings on state actions, however.

Greece Displays Facade Kennedy On Sidelines

ATHENS (AP) — Two weeks after the coup that installed a military dictatorship, Greece displays a face of normalcy. But beneath the surface serious economic problems are beginning to take shape.

Tourism, a main source of foreign currency that was expected to reap upwards of $180 million this year, has already been adversely affected. One informed source said officials fear tourism may suffer a 40 per cent cut in revenue.

Airlines, hotels, cruise ships and tourist offices all report cancellations, most from the United States and Scandinavian countries. But British, French and German nationals still are planning to spend their vacations here this year, a large tourist booking office reported.

The island of Rhodes, a playground for Scandinavians, is expected to be hardest hit. The island grossed 15 per cent of the $143 million spent in Greece last year by foreign visitors. Many Greeks say they fail to understand why the cancellations are taking place.

An Athens taxi driver, commenting on the army takeover and the tourism situation, said for example? "It was one of the best things that ever happened to us. The politicians were driving us to ruin. With complete calm prevailing, I fail to see why foreign visitors planning to come here would now change their minds."

The United States is understood to have hinted to the military junta that a return to parliamentary democracy would have a bearing on any Greek requests for American economic aid.

The U.S. position was implied to leaders of the new regime in a meeting here, informed sources said. The leaders, citing reasons why U.S.-Greek economic relations should be strong, are reported to have emphasized to U.S. diplomats that the two-week-old junta was 'pro-Western and anti-Communist."

American and other diplomats are reported to have been pressing the junta to come up with some kind of detailed program for a return of constitutional rule and parliamentary government.

U.S. economic aid had dwindled in recent years because of the improving Greek economy.

There have been no aid renewal requests from the new regime, informants say, but such requests are not ruled out. And if any are made, the United States is understood to want moves toward democratic rule as an added condition for considering the applications.

with 14 others, on charges of trying to overthrow the monarchy and replace it with a Socialist-type regime.

The note, the newspaper said, was sent by special messenger to Col. Alexander Papaterpos, and said: "Andreas talked to me about you and I was moved. Please think it over and ask him (Andreas) to help you. Have confidence for the future. For my part, you have every assistance for Aspida."

Greece Displays Facade Kennedy On Sidelines

ATHENS (AP) — Two weeks after the coup that installed a military dictatorship, Greece displays a face of normalcy. But beneath the surface serious economic problems are beginning to take shape.

Tourism, a main source of foreign currency that was expected to reap upwards of $180 million this year, has already been adversely affected. One informed source said officials fear tourism may suffer a 40 per cent cut in revenue.

Airlines, hotels, cruise ships and tourist offices all report cancellations, most from the United States and Scandinavian countries. But British, French and German nationals still are planning to spend their vacations here this year, a large tourist booking office reported.

The island of Rhodes, a playground for Scandinavians, is expected to be hardest hit. The island grossed 15 per cent of the $143 million spent in Greece last year by foreign visitors. Many Greeks say they fail to understand why the cancellations are taking place.

An Athens taxi driver, commenting on the army takeover and the tourism situation, said for example? "It was one of the best things that ever happened to us. The politicians were driving us to ruin. With complete calm prevailing, I fail to see why foreign visitors planning to come here would now change their minds."

The United States is understood to have hinted to the military junta that a return to parliamentary democracy would have a bearing on any Greek requests for American economic aid.

The U.S. position was implied to leaders of the new regime in a meeting here, informed sources said. The leaders, citing reasons why U.S.-Greek economic relations should be strong, are reported to have emphasized to U.S. diplomats that the two-week-old junta was 'pro-Western and anti-Communist."

American and other diplomats are reported to have been pressing the junta to come up with some kind of detailed program for a return of constitutional rule and parliamentary government.

U.S. economic aid had dwindled in recent years because of the improving Greek economy.

There have been no aid renewal requests from the new regime, informants say, but such requests are not ruled out. And if any are made, the United States is understood to want moves toward democratic rule as an added condition for considering the applications.

with 14 others, on charges of trying to overthrow the monarchy and replace it with a Socialist-type regime.

The note, the newspaper said, was sent by special messenger to Col. Alexander Papaterpos, and said: "Andreas talked to me about you and I was moved. Please think it over and ask him (Andreas) to help you. Have confidence for the future. For my part, you have every assistance for Aspida."

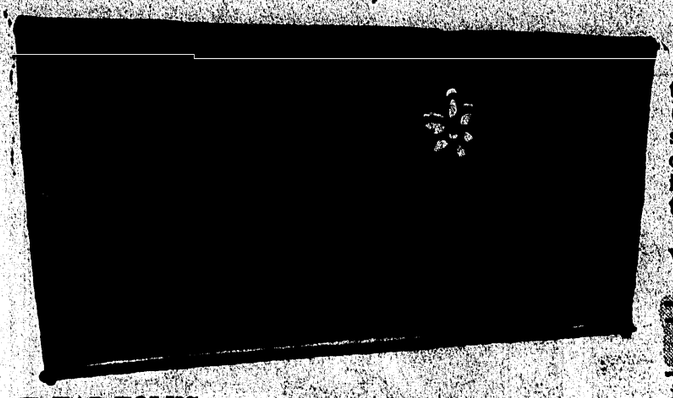
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS



DEAR FOLKS:

A few months back a darling reader wrote and told me to test and see for myself if this hint was psychological. I tested, not once but twelve times. It may be purely psychological, but it sure works.

She said NEVER to throw away those peelings from the outside of the onions we usually cook with steaks and hamburgers broiled over that outside grill.

While peeling onions for slicing to use for topping a hamburger or to put in a salad, I have always discarded the peelings. This doll said that as soon as the coals die down a bit, throw all the onion peels on top of 'em . . . it will give off such a heavenly aroma that everybody will get hungry. And it does exactly that.

Also, I found that it cuts down on the taste and smell of the fuel we sometimes put on our coals to get them started. So, next time you are going to grill those tasty hamburgers, save the onion peels and throw some on the coals just before placing the meat patties on.

Our thanks to the sweet housewife who let us in on this secret. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Save your beautiful decanters and bottles and fill them with colored water (food color). Put them on shelves across a sunny window to bring a lot of color into a room during the winter time.

A friend had hers on a west kitchen window, and it looked like a stained glass window when the sun shone.

You'll be amazed at the many different sizes and shapes you can accumulate.

DEAR HELOISE:

Children are often able to put on their own shoes, and even tie them, before they are able to distinguish the right shoe from the left.

Simply make a small mark on the inside curved edge of each shoe sole with a felt-tipped pen, putting it so that it doesn't touch the ground as the child walks. Then, match the marks side-by-side . . . and presto, shoes are lined up perfectly.

A small child can quickly learn to match the marks. Mrs. Montecucco

DEAR HELOISE:

Don't ever throw away those old hairbrushes when some of the bristles are gone. They can be used in many, many ways.

They are wonderful for scrubbing floors, washing down walls and cleaning oodles of things, because they have that still-good handle attached.

After thoroughly washing one of those old brushes, my husband keeps it in the back of the car. We use it to clean the upholstery every time we wash the car. It's fabulous for getting the carpets on the floorboard clean as it digs into the carpet beautifully.

We also use it to brush the seats. We have learned that keeping the dust off the upholstery makes it last much longer.

E. T.

How great can we get?

Bless you always for finding uses for our old, broken-down hairbrushes.

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise in care of this newspaper.

WHO SAID "GO FISH"?

DEAR HELOISE:

When little hands are too small to hold cards when playing "Old Maid" or animal cards with Grandma, turn a closed shoe box upside down and let small fry put his cards in the slot between the cover and box.

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a hint to use when small children have to take liquid medicine.

Usually the dosage is one teaspoon or tablespoonful. I take the size spoon I need, but fill it only half full at a time. After the child takes that first half, I fill the spoon half full again.

This way there is less chance of overflowing the spoon or tipping it a little and getting the medicine all over furniture, bedding or child. It is also easier for the child to swallow, rather than a whole spoonful at once.

5-7 Mrs. Larry Guthart

DEAR HELOISE:

We painted a white line down the center of our garage floor and out onto the driveway for a few feet.

This especially helps the driver of the car on the right side to drive into a two-car garage and leave enough space for another car on the left side.

Mrs. Evelyn Shafer

DEAR HELOISE:

When putting your cooking utensils in the cupboard, place a cake cooler rack under them. The shelf paper will remain unmarked and intact indefinitely.

Margaret Maier

DEAR HELOISE:

Most of our strawberries come in plastic baskets that have open spaces in the bottom and on the sides.

When cleaning the berries, pour them out onto a paper towel or sack, and when hulled, place them back in the basket and wash under the faucet while they are in the original container.

In other words, the plastic basket serves as a sieve, eliminating another article to wash. If one does not hull the berries first, as I do, it can still be done this way.

Mrs. I. T.

DEAR HELOISE:

To make iced tea, I freeze a solid cake of ice in one of my ice trays by taking out the dividers. This slab of ice is easy to remove from the tray and fits nicely in my iced-tea pitcher.

I then pour tea over the solid ice (the tea cools quickly) and save the ice cubes for the glasses.

I make these solid ice cakes ahead of time, especially before a holiday or when I know extra guests will be here. They are easy to store in the freezer.

Mary Jane

POT CLEANER TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

If a plastic mesh pot cleaner comes apart . . . make a little nylon net bag, roll the mesh back into a ball, stuff it into the bag and sew up the open end. It will be better than new.
